Tokio Admits British Keep on Fighting.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Dec. 23 (Tuesday)—(Official broadcast recorded by (AP)). —Domei reported today that Japanese forces were attacking the last British strongholds on Hongkong Island on Mounts Taping and Kili. The Japanese Monday occupied the defense works on Mount Cameron after a fierce assault at 11 p. m., the news agency said.

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 23 [Tuesday] (AP). — Chinese military headquarters on the Canton front today reported that part of the Japanese troops which landed on Hongkong island have been driven off by the British defenders.

The Central Chinese news agency said that the British embassy had been informed that the Japanese had "made no substantial gain in the past 24 hours" at Hongkong.

[The Argentine ANDI agency quoted a Tokio dispatch received in Berlin as stating the British had withdrawn to a new line on Hongkong which was under heavy Japanese naval and artillery shelling.]

Chinese Still Attack.

The Chinese news agency added that Chinese troops still were attacking near Shumchun on the Canton-Kowloon mainland railway in an effort to relieve Hongkong Island's garrison.

It said the Japanese suffered 15,000 casualties in the siege of Hongkong even before effecting a landing on the island itself.

BRITISH STICK TO GUNS

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—Britain's heart tonight still was with the embattled defenders of Hongkong, sticking defiantly by their guns in the face of a seemingly hopeless fate.

The latest word from the island came from the Japanese and these reports, from Tokio by way of Berlin, admitted that the crown colony's garrison still was fighting late Monday and that there was no respite for the Japanese attackers.

Altho almost every anti-aircraft battery was reported silenced as Japanese bombers methodically carried out their missions overhead and the Japanese navy had ringed the island, these reports acknowledged that a fighting garrison of 20,000 British empire troops remained to be subdued.

Coast Under Constant Fire.

Japanese land and naval artillery, they declared, have kept parts of the island coast under constant fire.

British sources expressed belief that Hongkong still was in the throes of a last ditch fight. However, they said disrupted communications blacked the island out after receipt of fragments of a communique which said the Japanese were "being held" up to late Sunday afternoon.

This report from Sir Mark Young, Hongkong's governor, declared the Japanese were "very active all day," but British sources were doubtful that the defense could last long.

713 Soldiers Captured: Tokio.

TOKIO, Dec 22 [Official broadcast recorded by (AP)].—The newspaper Nichi Nichi reported today that 713 British soldiers, mostly Canadians, were captured on Hongkong Island yesterday.

MAN BITES DOG! IT'S NEWS—AND ALSO A DISORDER!

When a man bites a dog it's disorderly conduct—at least in the case of George Burke, 25 years old, 1659 Cermak road. Burke told Judge Thomas A. Green yesterday in Fillmore police court that whenever he drinks his dog, Pooch, doesn't like it. The dog, he said, usually bites him. Saturday night Pooch bit him on the nose and Burke bit him right back. Then Burke called the police and told them to shoot the dog. But instead they arrested Burke for disorderly conduct. Yesterday Burke, wearing a strip of court plaster across his nose, told Judge Green that he would make friends again with the dog and he was discharged.

DAY'S SUMMARY OF WAR IN AFRICA, MALAYA, EUROPE

The British yesterday received some encouraging news from their forces fighting in Malaya.

From Singapore came word that the Japanese invaders of northern Malaya had sustained heavy casualties in another jungle fight with the British. The engagement occurred about 330 miles north of the British empire's Gibraltar of the Orient.

Bomb Japanese Base.

The RAF delivered its first smash at the enemy in eastern Thailand by bombing a Japanese air base. Grounded planes and gasoline reserves were destroyed by the British, who claimed that all British planes returned safely.

Dutch army planes joined the British in attacking the Japanese in Malaya. The commander of the Netherlands East Indies army said cryptically: "We already have inflicted severe blows upon the enemy."

From the other side of the world, the Red army claimed the recapture of a number of towns in an offensive which continued to drive the Germans back on a front extending from Leningrad in the north to the sea of Azov in the south.

In Africa a British desert patrol was reported to have swept into Tripolitania on a 150 mile dash in an effort to trap the main axis Libyan army which is in flight near Bengazi far to the east.

Sink Plane Carrier: Nazis.

The German high command announced the sinking of a British aircraft carrier in the Atlantic. The Nazis declined to identify the vessel other than to say it was of the "Formidable class of 23,000 tons."

The British, refusing to comment on the German claim, said a direct bomb hit on the gates of the drydock at Brest, France, in an air raid on Dec. 18, was believed to have damaged the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau again.

With German forces backtracking in Russia and in Africa, official Berlin broadcasts suggested that Adolf Hitler was preparing to strike soon in new or currently idle theaters of war, perhaps in the near east or in western Europe.

"The war now is approaching its decisive stage," said the official German news agency, following up Hitler's decision personally to take supreme command of the German armed forces. The ousted general, Von Brauchitsch, said he had asked for his own dismissal because of "heart trouble."

BIG GUNS BEAT OFF 2 EFFORTS TO LAND ARMY

Fight Rages on 20 Mile Front.

BULLETIN.

MANILA, Dec. 23 (Tuesday)—(AP).—A United States army spokesman said this morning that very heavy fighting still was raging in the Lingayen gulf sector, where American and Filipino forces were reported holding position north of Damortis. The land operations were accompanied by considerable activity in the air.

(Map on back page.)

MANILA, Dec. 23 [Tuesday] (AP).—American tanks and artillery fought bitterly all day Monday against the Japanese landing party which came ashore at Santo Tomas on the Gulf of Lingayen, 150 miles northwest of Manila. Today Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that the American defenders had the situation "well in hand."

The army communique said:

"The engagement yesterday occurred in the vicinity of Santo Tomas, La Union province. Latest reports indicate our troops are holding a position north of Damortis. The enemy was very active in the air yesterday. Numerous places were bombed and the ground attack was supported by aircraft."

Santo Tomas is four miles north of Damortis.

Three Transports Reported Sunk.

A report from Dagupan, also on the gulf, said at least three Japanese transports were sunk and it was believed possible that many more had been destroyed.

It was not known whether the Japanese had been able to bring any considerable amount of equipment ashore.

Altho American tanks already had gone into action, it was not clear whether the Japanese intended to unload all of the 80 transports in Lingayen gulf, or try to shove shock forces ashore elsewhere during the night.

Battle Around Gulf.

The battle was reported as centered in the 20 mile coastal stretch along the gulf extending northward from Lingayen to Agoo.

Lingayen long has been considered by military men as the most likely spot for an attempted major invasion.

The port of Lingayen, with a population of approximately 23,000, is the area's chief city. It lies on the south shore of the gulf and on a low island in the delta of the Agno river.

Bombs Kill Filipino Recruits.

A score or more of Filipino army recruits under training at Camp Murphy were reported to have been killed by Japanese air bombs. Several score were injured, newspaper dispatches said.

Air raid sirens sounded an alarm in Manila at 10:25 a. m. today [7:25 p. m. Chicago time, Monday], but the all clear was sounded 25 minutes later without any hostile planes appearing. An undetermined number of Japanese planes, flying in two waves, had been sighted headed toward Manila from the south. Presumably the raiders were intercepted by American fighter planes and driven off.

There was little news concerning the situation in Davao, Mindanao Island, or in southern Luzon, where the Japanese effected a landing last week at Legaspi, 250 miles below Manila, but the spokesman reported that a Filipino pilot and two American flyers had shot down eight Japanese planes in the Legaspi area in the last few days.

Maj. Emmett O'Donnell Jr. of New York City was credited with shooting down four of the planes, while Lieut.

City's Drivers to Get Tires at Ration Depots

Michael F. Mulcahy, who yesterday was appointed by Mayor Kelly as head of tire rationing in the Chicago area, asserted last night that ration depots soon will be opened thruout the city.

The federal ban on buying automobile tires is to be lifted Jan. 5. At that time the rationing program will go into effect. Mulcahy, an assistant corporation counsel, said that there will be eighteen classes of motorists who will be permitted to buy tires but that they will have to turn in their old tires to prove that they need new ones.

Full Instructions Awaited.

"Motorists eligible for tire buying will call at a tire rationing depot," Mulcahy said. "If their tires are in pretty bad shape, they will be given certificates that permit them to buy new ones. We are waiting now for full instructions on procedure from Washington, D. C."

In Springfield yesterday plans were made to restrict the sale of truck tires. The restriction is to be supervised by the state council of defense. Only persons whose use of truck tires will aid national defense or benefit the community will be able to obtain them.

The council requested local chairmen in each county and community council to select a committee of three members to pass upon the purchase of new tires in their area.

"War Tire" Dispute Arises.

P. W. Litchfield, chairman of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company at Akron, O., announced on Sunday his organization was beginning to produce tires entirely from reclaimed rubber. He added that the product would be strictly a "war tire" and should not be driven more than 35 miles an hour.

Opposing this move, John L. Collyer, president of the B. F. Goodrich company, declared yesterday:

"Taking reclaimed rubber now and putting it into passenger car tires with unrestricted sale could mean that our armed forces and those agencies on which we depend for transportation of vital goods might suffer. Every phase of the rubber industry should be studied in relation to the whole emergency."

Guayule Planting O. K.'d.

The planting of 45,000 acres of guayule plants to be used as a source of rubber was approved yesterday in Washington by the senate military affairs committee. Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, and other officials last week recommended such legislation in testimony before the committee. The planting would be done in the Salinas valley of California.

Sen. Sheridan Downey [D., Cal.] and Rep. John Z. Anderson [R., Cal.] introduced measures authorizing the department of agriculture to acquire all holdings of the International Rubber company in Salinas and to direct the planting of guayule seed on land rented from private owners.

NAZI GUESSES GOOD AND BAD ON QUERY: WHERE IS CHURCHILL?

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—The Germans did considerable guessing and got pretty warm on the whereabouts of Prime Minister Churchill before his presence in Washington was announced by the White House. But their last guess was among the farthest afield, placing him down in the Middle East, thousands of miles from where he is tonight.

For three days the German radio has been throwing out broad reports concerning the whereabouts of Churchill and hinting that he was either in Washington or Moscow.

Apparently the Germans were not very sure of their information, however, and were chiefly hopeful of smoking out something definite, for today they abandoned this story less than four hours before its confirmation in Washington, and reported from Stockholm that "diplomatic opinion is increasingly voiced that Churchill is in the Middle East."

This report, as well as most of those preceding it, were broadcasts of Transocean, German news agency, which cited Stockholm as the source.

COOK ARRESTED AFTER SHE BOOS ROOSEVELT FILM

Miss Rose Hoffman, 40 years old, a cook, was in Englewood police station last night after a disturbance in a theater, in which she was alleged to have booed a newsreel of President Roosevelt signing the declarations of war.

Complainants were two women who were sitting nearby in the theater at 6228 South Halsted street, Mrs. Margaret Washington, 6433 South Aberdeen street, who has a nephew in the army, and Mrs. Mary Levine, 919 West 69th street, whose son is about to be conscripted.

The two women went to the theater manager and complained and were urged to call police. Mrs. Washington signed a complaint and Miss Hoffman, who lives at 3840 Lake Park avenue, was locked up on disorderly conduct charges.

Senator Asks Daylight Time for the Nation

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—Immediate action by President Roosevelt to advance the clocks at least one hour to put the country on a wartime daylight saving basis was proposed in the senate today by Sen. Sheridan Downey [D., Cal.].

Sen. Downey.

Downey introduced a resolution expressing the sense of the senate that the President should act under his war powers, without further delay, but was persuaded after considerable debate to change his proposal to a joint resolution, requiring the concurrence of the senate and the house and the signature of the President.

Persuaded to Change Method.

Without passing judgment on the merits of the daylight saving proposal, Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Minority Leader Charles L. McNary of Oregon and Sen. George W. Norris [Ind., Neb.] told Downey that congress should not legislate by passing resolutions attempting to tell the President what to do.

The war department favors daylight saving time as a war measure, Downey said. He recalled that about six months ago daylight saving bills were introduced in both the house and the senate in response to a message from President Roosevelt, and that nothing was done about them.

Urges Immediate Action.

"In my opinion this is a matter on which we should act today," Downey said. "Men are dying in the Philippines and men are dying in the Hawaiian Islands. If we can shut off for one hour the use of petroleum and coal by the utilities, if we can prevent accidents by such action, if we can build up employment, we can do more by the proposed action than by a multitude of other measures.

"I understand the war department right now desires to advance the clocks one hour."

BRITAIN'S CHIEF AND F.D.R. TO MAP UNIFIED COMMAND

OBJECTIVES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—In a statement issued tonight the White House announced the following objectives of the conference between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill:

"There is, of course, one primary objective in the conversations to be held during the next few days between the President and the British prime minister and the respective staffs of the two countries. That purpose is the defeat of Hitlerism thruout the world.

"It should be remembered that many other nations are engaged today in this common task. Therefore, the present conferences in Washington should be regarded as preliminary to further conferences which will officially include Russia, China, the Netherlands, and the dominions. It is expected that there will thus be evolved an over-all unity in the conduct of the war. Other nations will be asked to participate to the best of their ability in the over-all objective."

Premier Arrives in Capital by Airplane with Beaverbrook.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain arrived in Washington tonight for a series of conferences with President Roosevelt regarding the creation of a unified allied command for the defeat of Hitlerism thruout the world.

Announcement of Churchill's arrival was made by the White House, which stated that President Roosevelt met the British premier at a nearby airport. It was assumed that Churchill came to the United States aboard a warship and took an airplane to Washington from a nearby port. Press dispatches from London said he left there on Dec. 12.

Beaverbrook with Premier.

The British prime minister was accompanied by Lord Beaverbrook, British minister of supply, and a technical staff. The White House announced that Churchill is the guest of the President at the White House. Presumably the others are stopping at the British embassy.

Besides Lord Beaverbrook, Churchill was accompanied on his voyage to the United States by W. Averell Harriman, American lend-lease expediter in London; Sir Dudley Pound, first sea lord; Air Chief Marshall Sir Charles A. A. Portal, and Sir John Dill, former chief of the imperial staff and now governor of Bombay.

Arrival Announced.

The White House announcement of Churchill's arrival issued at 5:57 p. m. (Chicago time), said:

"The British prime minister has arrived in the United States to discuss with the President all questions relevant to the concerted war effort. Mr. Churchill is accompanied by Lord Beaverbrook and a technical staff. Mr. Churchill is the guest of the President."

Later the White House issued a second statement explaining Mr. Churchill's mission and also saying that probably no further announcements would be made until after the present conferences had been concluded.

Motor from Airport.

The President and Mr. Churchill, accompanied by a Presidential naval aid and bodyguard, had motored from the airport to the White House. The President was clad in a gray business suit. The British prime minister wore reefer and cap.

The car slipped in thru the gates on the south grounds, then rolled up at the entrance looking out across the still green lawn and to the towering Washington monument in the distance.

For a few brief minutes they posed there for photographers. They exchanged an occasional word as the President, grinning broadly, stood beside his aid, Capt. John R. Beardall.

Carries Walking Stick.

Churchill, shorter by almost a head than the American President, stood at his right, his fingers firmly gripped on a walking stick to which (for purposes of Lon-

Churchill Took Lead to Plan Talks: London

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 23 [Tuesday].—Prime Minister Churchill took the initiative in arranging his second meeting in five months with President Roosevelt, it was understood here today.

The public received its first notification of Churchill's arrival in Washington, D. C., but the trip was no secret to many persons here, for Churchill has been absent from the house of commons since Dec. 11, an absence which was noted when pertinent questions were being asked.

Churchill was seen off late one night by American Ambassador John G. Winant, and was accompanied on the trip by W. Averell Harriman, American coördinator of war aid.

Count on Military Alliance.

British newspapers take it for granted that the Churchill-Roosevelt talks and others going on in Moscow will result in the conclusion of a military alliance. It also is suggested that a general restatement of joint war aims may be made, clarifying vague points in the Atlantic charter.

The necessity of reënforcing the blows inflicted on the Germans in Russia and Libya "by preventive measures in northwest Africa" and joint action against the Japanese are among the problems up for discussion between Churchill and Roosevelt, it was stated.

Other factors concern allocation of supplies now that Russia is driving back the Germans, and the exchange of information on the potentialities of the United States and British empire to move forces where most needed.

More Decisions in Washington.

The Daily Telegraph declared full coöperation with Russia was needed.

Many important decisions on strategy from now on will be taken in Washington, the Telegraph said, which involves "a radical departure from a system under which all such decisions were taken in Downing street."

The Washington contacts, according to Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, likely will result in the formulation of a grand strategy for all the powers fighting the axis, in which the conquest of Germany will be the main objective and "any tendency that may develop with regard to Japan as of chief importance will be countered."

Provisional arrangements have been made for a statement by Churchill on his mission, and for a full war debate on the first day the house reassembles after the Christmas recess. Before then, however, it is suggested that Churchill intends to broadcast.

don blackouts) was attached a flashlight.

He wore, as he has worn much of the time since Britain began her war more than two years ago, the coat and cap of the Elder Brothers of Trinity House, a semi-governmental organization concerned with life saving and the operation of lighthouses. The coat is knee length, double breasted, and buttoned high in seaman fashion. The cap bears the insignia of the organization.

The pictures taken, the two turned away, Mr. Churchill clamped his cigar back in his mouth, and then trudged into the White House.

Expect Mackenzie King.

Dispatches from Ottawa reported that W. L. Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada, will leave for Washington probably tomorrow to participate in the conferences. There was no announcement as to the probable duration of Churchill's visit, but the projected conferences presumably will require several days.

The meeting between President Roosevelt and the British prime minister was their second during the present war. In August they conferred somewhere on the Atlantic aboard the British battleship Prince of Wales, which was sunk by Japanese aircraft off the coast of Malaya last week.

The result of that conference was a joint eight point declaration of policy in which Mr. Roosevelt pledged the collaboration of the United States for "the final overthrow of the Nazi tyranny."

"Ill Kept Secret."

Dispatches from London said the Churchill trip was "an ill kept secret." Reports of his impending arrival were current in Washington for the first time yesterday, but the White House requested newspapers not to speculate on the possibility of such an event.

The Roosevelt-Churchill discussions are expected to embrace not only the formation of a supreme allied command but all questions of grand strategy related to the concerted prosecution of the war against the axis powers thruout the world.

Questions to Be Included.

Such questions are expected to include:

1. Coöperation by soviet Russia in the war against Japan, primarily by permitting American bombing planes to use Russian bases but possibly thru the establishment of another front against the Japanese army on the frontier of Manchukuo.

2. Active participation by American air force units and possibly small land forces in the war against the axis powers in Africa and the near east. Such plans would contemplate the possibility of a German drive this winter thru Turkey and Palestine toward the Suez canal, or thru Spain and northwest Africa to Dakar.

3. The extent to which American lend-lease aid to Britain can be continued while the United States is endeavoring to establish air supremacy over the Japanese in the far east.

4. Coördination of American, British, Chinese, and Dutch efforts against the Japanese forces in the far east.

Preliminary Conferences Held.

The projected interallied high command was the subject of a series of White House conferences today. The President consulted successively with Maxim Litvinov, Russian ambassador to the United States; Dr. Hu Shih, the Chinese ambassador, and Dr. Alexander Loudon, the Netherlands minister.

Stephen T. Early, Presidential secretary, said these discussions are "very preliminary" to the formation of the unified command. He added that the conference the President held yesterday with the British ambassador, Viscount Halifax, also had to do with this matter. The President is understood to favor a unified war council in each theater of war—the Pacific, the Atlantic, and the near east.

It is reported that greater lend-lease aid will be offered to Josef Stalin, the Russian dictator, as a consideration for the use of Russian bases in eastern Siberia and Kamchatka for bombing operations against Japan.

Congressional Reaction Uniform.

Congressional leaders uniformly acclaimed Churchill's dramatic trip to the United States and the momentous conferences which brought him here. Sen. Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] said the conferences should avert "the greatest mistake we could make —the lack of coördination."

"The visit presages close coördination of effort in the war we are engaged in," Gillette said. "I am very much pleased that Winston Churchill and his staff have come to us."

Sen. Clyde Herring [D., Ia.] said the visit indicated a determination by the two nations "to sink or swim together."

Nye Foresees Joint Policy.

Sen. Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] said: "It seems to me much could be accomplished now that there is a joint cause to be served. I would anticipate that the British and American authorities would work out a policy now that would make the largest use of the war forces of each country."

Sen. Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader of the senate, said: "I think it a sensible and practical way to discuss the war in which all of us are engaged. I am sure the American people will welcome Mr. Churchill in their midst. This is evidence of a desire which will be consummated for more complete coöperation and I hope that other governments fighting Hitler soon will be brought into direct conferences with the British and ourselves."

LONDON, Dec. 23 [Tuesday] (AP).—Hongkong's beleaguered defenders were reported early today to still be maintaining communication twice a day with London and Chungking by means of hidden radio stations. Besides the island's defenders, M. All, he said, are well supplied with food and water.

U. S. and Cuba Expected to Sign New Trade Pact

HEAR ARGENTINA WILL BACK U. S. 'AT WAR PARLEY

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 22 (AP).—Argentina's delegation to the Rio De Janeiro conference will be instructed to lend complete support to the United States and other warring American republics in compliance with previous Pan American agreements, informed persons said tonight. Argentina was described as ready to give complete backing to proposals for Pan American military and economic plans by the United States.

The German consulate was reported today to have advised its nationals not to visit Uruguay's popular summer resorts until after the Rio de Janeiro conference, possibly because of a belief that Uruguay may break off relations with Germany soon.

USE OF BOMBERS BY NAVY, UNITED COMMAND ISSUE

Value of Battleships Is to Be Weighed.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—Whether battleships are to be relegated to the rear by bombing planes and aircraft carriers is one of the big questions to be dealt with by the interallied high command that is in process of formation.

The question has been brought acutely to the fore by the destruction and crippling of American battleships by Japanese torpedo and bombing planes in the attack on Pearl Harbor and by the sinking of the British battleships Prince of Wales and Repulse by the same means in the South Pacific.

Whenever the Americans and British can swing a preponderance of bombers and aircraft carriers into action in the Pacific they will be able to wipe out the Japanese fleet, according to air service officials.

Change in Sea Policy.

Prior to the beginning of the war with Japan the United States navy department was proceeding on the theory that the battleship is immune to destruction from the air and thus remains the backbone of the navy. Battleship construction was pushed at the expense of aircraft carriers. The disasters suffered by America and Britain in the first few days of the war in the Pacific has wrought a sea change in this policy.

That the President has seen the light is indicated by his reorganization of the fleet with airminded Adm. Ernest J. King in supreme command and the old school chief of naval operations, Adm. Harold R. Stark, relegated to the sidelines. The inference is that henceforth the emphasis in production and operation will be on air power.

How soon the British and Americans will be able to concentrate a superior force of aircraft carriers and bombers in the western Pacific is a question on which speculation would be hazardous. Britain and the United States together had more carriers than Japan, according to the 1939 figures, the latest published for Britain.

Can Convert Merchantmen.

The British then had 11 carriers, one of which, the Ark Royal, and perhaps another, they have since lost. The United States has seven carriers afloat and 11 building. The Japanese had 12 with an unknown number building. The Japanese carriers are small, accommodating only about 50 torpedo planes, dive bombers and fighters. The American and British carriers average twice the size of the Japanese.

Inasmuch as the British require some of their carriers in the Mediterranean and both British and Americans must keep some carriers in the Atlantic, it may not be possible to muster a superior allied air power in the Pacific in the near future.

The potentialities of merchantmen as aircraft carriers provided one of the prime reasons for the action of the administration following the Pearl Harbor disaster in taking over all French ships in American harbors. Among them was the huge liner Normandie which was constructed in such manner as to afford quick conversion into an aircraft carrier.

In torpedo planes and dive bombers Britain and America are already superior to Japan, tho possibly not in the western Pacific at this time.

NEW DESTROYER'S CREW IS ORDERED TO 'SHOOT FIRST'

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Rear Adm. Adolphus Andrews, commandant of the Third Naval District, today called on the officers and crew of the new destroyer Hambleton "to destroy as ruthlessly and as quickly as possible the source and every manifestation of this evil infection which we are now combating."

Andrews, speaking at commissioning ceremonies for the destroyer in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, said that the occasion marked the nation's first answer to "the treacherous yellow satellites."

"The Hambleton is the first United States combatant ship to be commissioned since that fateful Sunday morning when a bomb blast in Pearl Harbor plunged the western world into war," he said. "This is the first of an ever-increasing succession of answers to Japanese arrogance and trickery. It is a good precedent and I exhort you officers and men to see that you and this ship remain first in all things—first to shoot, first to sink, first to destroy."

F. D. R. Calls for National Prayer on New Year's Day

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—President Roosevelt today proclaimed New Year's day as a day of prayer. "We are confident in our devotion to country, in our love of freedom, in our inheritance of courage," he said. "But our strength, as the strength of all men everywhere, is of greater avail as God upholds us." Therefore, he said, he was setting aside the first day of 1942 "as a day of prayer, of asking forgiveness for our shortcomings of the past, of consecration to the tasks of the present, of asking God's help in days to come."

FIREMEN FAIL TO REVIVE WOMAN.

Portuguese Press Friendly to Britain in Timor Seizure

LISBON, Dec. 22 (AP).—The tone of the Portuguese press today favored continued friendship with Great Britain despite the seizure of Portuguese Timor by Australian and Netherlands Indies troops. Newspapers said that Portugal's feelings were deeply hurt by the act which they regarded as aggression, but said Portugal's centuries old pact with Britain must not be prejudiced by any misunderstanding.

SOVIET ADVANCE GAINS STEADILY ALL ALONG FRONT

Many Towns Won Before Moscow, Leningrad.

MOSCOW, Dec. 23 [Tuesday] (AP).—Reoccupation of a number of populated points by Red army forces steadily advancing in fierce fighting was announced today.

The communique said the gains were registered all the way from Leningrad in the north to the Sea of Azov in the south. It mentioned specifically heavy fighting in the sectors before Leningrad, Moscow, and Kalinin, the latter 95 miles northwest of Moscow.

The accounts of continued soviet gains were accompanied by the exultant declaration that after six months of war Russia "has begun to win, and will continue to win."

Guerillas have come out into the open now and are mowing down the floundering Nazis from fixed positions, a soviet announcement said.

Attack Line of Retreat.

In one sector of the Kalinin front, a guerrilla unit was credited with killing 223 German officers and men with machineguns and trench mortars set up on the Nazi line of retreat.

On the northern front the Russians reported clearing a 50 mile stretch of highway between Tikhvin and Volkhov, southeast of Leningrad, by wading knee deep in snow thru a swampy forest and encircling the 21st German infantry division.

Thousands of Germans were killed and 12 villages were recaptured in the encirclement, dispatches from the front said.

On the Moscow front the Germans were reported being hurled back 8 to 12 miles a day west of Klin and beyond Volokolamsk, 65 miles northwest of the capital.

Encounter Nazi Resistance.

Tass, the official news agency, declared that the Red army was encountering stubborn German resistance near Maloyaroslavets, 65 miles southwest of the capital.

Tass said, however, Russian attacks had pierced the German defenses, driving wedges from 2½ to 4 miles into the German lines.

Dispatches from the Tula sector 100 miles south of Moscow said 35 settlements were recaptured there.

Pravda, the communist party newspaper, reported that on the bitterly contested Moscow front alone the Germans lost more than 117,000 dead from Nov. 16 to Dec. 20. In addition, Pravda said, the Russians captured 2,113 tanks, 12,204 automobiles and trucks, 1,578 field guns and vast quantities of other war materiels.

Danger at Lake Ladoga.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—A Russian tank break thru German lines in a night attack 15 miles southeast of Leningrad has put the Nazi troops around Lake Ladoga in danger of being cut off, a British broadcast said today.

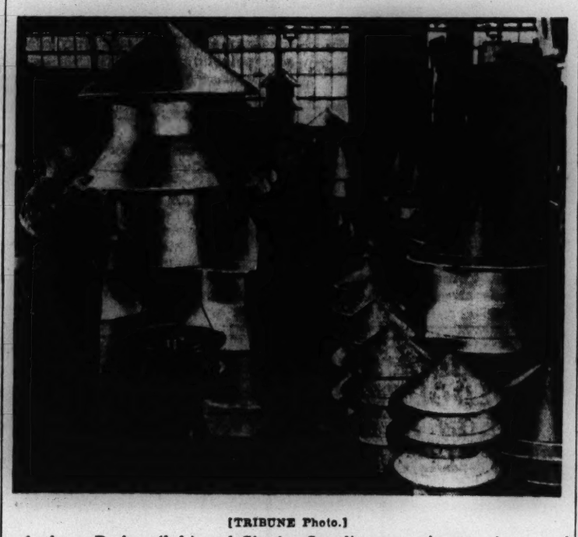
The German force around Mozhaisk, 57 miles west of Moscow, is in similar danger of being cut off by Russian advances from Volokolamsk to the north, the broadcast added.

A German division has been completely smashed in heavy Russian pressure upon Stalino, northwest of Rostov, on the southern front, another broadcast from London said.

Sink Two Russian Destroyers.

BERLIN, Dec. 22 [Official broadcast recorded by Associated Press].—Two Russian destroyers were sunk in a naval battle last night with German destroyers, it was announced today. The announcement did not locate the encounter.

Making Air Raid Sirens in City



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Make 445 a Day

Air raid warning sirens at the rate of 445 a day are being turned out by the signal division of the Federal Electric company, Inc., 8700 State street. They range in size from portable hand operated sirens weighing a little over four pounds, to the five foot high, 525 pound warning signal which at the touch of a button will send an eerie wail more than two miles.

According to W. W. Scott, general manager of the signal division, the Office of Production Management is making necessary arrangements to insure a steady flow of material—secondary aluminum, steel, iron, and copper wire—to maintain the rate of production, which can be tripled if necessary. Most of the sirens now are being shipped to the east and west coasts and to the Canadian west coast. Some also are being sent to inland cities.

Scott estimated that between 500 and 600 sirens would be necessary to completely equip Chicago, at an estimated cost of $178,000.

WAR REFUGEES' PLIGHT GRAVE, RUSSIA ADMITS

'Tens of Thousands' in Shelter Holes.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 22.—For the first time since the war began, the communist party paper, the Moscow Pravda, took cognizance today of Russia's refugee problem.

The shortage of housing, the paper admits in a long article, is causing great suffering for tens of thousands of evacuees from provinces occupied by the Germans, who now are living in holes dug in the ground, but reports current in Finland that famine is threatening the lives of many of them are not discussed.

Local Authorities' Aid Asked.

The entire article was broadcast today over the soviet radio, with both appeals and demands upon local authorities to show more efficiency in dealing with the evacuees. All persons who refuse to help house refugees are threatened with the supreme measure of punishment, which means death.

Pravda emphasizes that care must be taken, first of all, to protect the lives of those who are most valuable to the state. Already, the paper says, special efforts are being made to preserve the lives and health of the engineers, skilled mechanics and other personnel and their families.

Placed on Farms.

Staffs of many important factories in Moscow, Kharkov and other industrial regions have been quartered upon collectivized farms, where the local peasants have been warned to treat the refugees hospitably.

The paper says that of the 75 million persons who lived in the provinces overrun by Germany, "several tens of millions have been evacuated," many are living in cities in the Urals, and some have managed to reach Siberia.

EX-KING CAROL'S SERVANT TURNS UP NAZI SUSPECT

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 22 (AP).—A chambermaid in the household-in-exile of former King Carol of Rumania was credited with an assist today in the arrest of a Mexican who allegedly presented himself as an "official lieutenant of German militia Mexico."

After being turned up to military police by his erstwhile girl friend, Hernan Farrigno Garza, a 21 year old tourist guide, said he had found a "German militia" card, imposed his own picture on it and flashed it to impress his friends.

The newspaper Ultimas Noticias reported he admitted Nazi leanings but denied belonging to any German organization. He was charged with committing acts "not authorized or approved by the government" and "making political propaganda which disturbs the public order."

FAMILY ALL AWAY, BUT ROOSEVELTS PLAN CHRISTMAS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—President Roosevelt is 5 times a father and 11 times a grandpa [the latest grandchild—a boy—was born last night], but not a Roosevelt child nor grandchild is expected at the White House for Christmas. The Roosevelt children and their families are widely scattered this year. This is the first time there hasn't been a young Roosevelt home for Christmas since the Roosevelts moved into the White House.

The White House is being decorated as usual. An all-white Christmas tree will be in the East room with another and smaller family tree on the second floor.

Wednesday there will be a reception for the White House staff and their children. Toward dusk the President will light the nation's community Christmas tree. That night, Christmas eve, there will be the usual private family dinner. The President and Mrs. Roosevelt will go to church Christmas day. Afterward there'll be turkey and trimmings.

Voroshilov Heads Russian Armies in the Far East

LONDON, Dec. 23 [Tuesday]—(AP).—A London authority said today Marshal Klementi Voroshilov, who organized the all-out defense of Leningrad as commander of the northern Russian front, had been appointed commander of soviet forces in the far east. The appointment does not necessarily mean the Russian contemplate action against Japan, the source said, tho he acknowledged that such action is a possibility.

DECLARES BRITISH POLICIES MAKE REBEL OF INDIA

Congress Party Leader Withholds Support.

[Copyright 1941 by the New York Times.]

BOMBAY, India, Dec. 22.—The conviction that India could only be a rebel against the British government was expressed today by Pandit Jawaharal Nehru, president of the Indian Congress party.

"The British government," said Nehru, "has had the insolence and audacity to speak often in patronizing terms about moral, spiritual and political values but has demonstrated that it possesses none of these values, not even ordinary efficiency, either in war or peace."

The remarks of the Indian leader, who recently was released from prison by the British authorities after serving a sentence for violation of the defense of India regulations, were made at a press conference in response to statements in London by Leopold S. Amery, secretary of state for India.

Won't Support Policies.

Nehru said he could not in any circumstances, function as a camp-follower and recruiting sergeant for the British government and to thus support its India policy and its general policy towards subject countries.

"The British government has not only to face its 150-year-past in India—such a past is always in our memory—but even the recent past when it has sown the seeds of trouble which bear evil fruit," he declared. "Only by an entirely different policy based on ending the empire's imperialistic policy can it avoid the effects of this policy and win the sympathy of the eastern peopies."

Nehru said he was not interested in Amery's repeated performances on the public stage.

Friendly to Foes of Axis.

"My only answer to Mr. Amery and the British government," he said, "is in the words of Oliver Cromwell, cited by Mr. Amery himself in commons in the debate which preceded the resignation of Mr. Chamberlain's government—'We have had enough of you, get out'."

Nehru admitted that after looking at the international situation all manner of considerations arose that made India give her sympathy to the group of powers fighting against Germany.

"If I have been in favor of giving help to China all these years I cannot change my attitude now," he said. "I am in favor of assistance being given to Russia and I cannot change my mind on that subject because of the soviet's association with Britain."

Property of Axis Interests Seized by Nicaragua Bank

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 22.—By order of President Gen. Eduardo Somoza, the national bank of Nicaragua has taken over and is operating all plantations, stores, and other properties of Germans, Italians, and Japanese for the duration of the war. The properties include the largest printing establishment, some of the best coffee plantations, and many stores in Nicaragua.

JAP CROWN PRINCE EIGHT TODAY; GETS PICTURE IN PAPERS

TOKIO, Dec. 23 [Tuesday] [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—Crown Prince Akihito is 8 years old today and the Tokio morning papers display his picture prominently, Domei says.

"The crown prince is reported to be in the best of health and has shown a keen interest in the progress of the greater east Asia war," Domei continues. "Recently he visited the Meiji and Yasukuni shrines to pray for an early Japanese victory and the restoration of world peace."

[The Meiji shrine is dedicated to the soul of the prince's great-grandfather, the Emperor Meiji, and the Yasukuni shrine to the souls of all Japan's warrior dead. Both are in Tokio.]

FARLEY BELIEVES POLITICS IS NOT QUITE ADJOURNED

James A. Farley, the man who managed all the Roosevelt presidential campaigns until last year, expressed the opinion yesterday that the wartime adjournment of politics should apply only to the war effort.

"There will be party primaries and conventions next spring," he said, "and there will be the country-wide election in the fall. That is as it should be. Free elections are a basic American institution and American institutions are what we are fighting for. However, the nation is united in its determination to win the war."

The former chairman of the Democratic national committee came here with his young son, James Jr., to see the game between the Chicago Bears and the New York Giants on Sunday. They returned to New York last night.

TANKS FIGHT JAP LUZON INVASION; FOIL 2 LANDINGS

Artillery Puts Destroyers to Flight.

Jack Adams of Anadarko, Okla., and his crew were credited with three.

Two Landings Frustrated.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—American tanks and artillery roared fiercely into action today against one Japanese force that succeeded in landing north of Manila, after the defenders of the Philippines thwarted enemy efforts to land at two other nearby points.

Just how many of the huge force of 80,000 to 100,000 Japanese who arrived at Lingayen gulf in 80 transports had succeeded in getting ashore was not made known, but it was clear that they were encountering terrific resistance by the Americans and Filipinos.

The text of the war department communique follows:

"Intense fighting continues along the coastal areas of Lingayen gulf, about 150 miles north of Manila on the Island of Luzon.

"Attempted landings by the enemy near San Fabian and Damortis were frustrated. Japanese infantry landed near Agoo and moved south toward Damortis. American and Philippine troops, using artillery and tanks, have engaged the enemy south of Agoo.

"Japanese destroyers moved into Lingayen gulf to cover a landing at Damortis, but were driven off by our artillery."

Pincers Move Seen.

The Japanese attack was regarded in military circles as possibly the first prong of a powerful pincers attack on Gen. MacArthur's main defense army.

Defense plans were drafted in anticipation that the main enemy thrust would come at Lingayen. It was also anticipated that an enemy might attempt a landing on the coast of Zambales province, northwest of Manila, and attempt to drive across the rugged Zambales peninsula.

Such a force would serve as the other jaw of a pincers movement against MacArthur's forces defending the valley north of Manila.

Soon after hostilities started, it was noted here, a large Japanese naval force appeared off the Zambales coast in the vicinity of the town of Iba, but withdrew without attempting to put troops ashore. Iba is about 80 miles northwest of Manila. An improved highway extends southward from Iba to Subic bay, on which is situated Olongapo, a secondary base for Adm. Thomas C. Hart's Asiatic fleet.

[The New York News radio listening post picked up a Berlin broadcast saying "Gen MacArthur's field headquarters in the center of Luzon Island was destroyed by Japanese bombs on Monday."]

"Major Invasion," Says Tokio.

TOKIO, Dec. 22 [Official Broadcast Recorded by (AP)].—Japanese imperial headquarters declared today that large numbers of seaborne Japanese troops had landed on Luzon with the support of the Japanese navy in a major invasion of the Philippines.

Claim 17 U. S. Bombers Destroyed.

BERLIN, Dec. 22 [Official Broadcast Recorded by (AP)].—The Japanese newspaper Nichi Nichi was quoted tonight as saying that in one of the first Japanese attacks on Clark field near Manila 17 American four motored bombers were destroyed.

TOKIO PAPERS SAY JAP CIVILIANS ARE BEING SHOT

New York, Dec. 22 [Recorded by the New York News].—A Domei [Japanese news agency] radio-telegraph dispatch says:

"Metropolitan [Tokio] papers are indignant over the disclosure by the foreign office that 70 Japanese residents of Mindanao have been jailed. The newspaper Chugai, in a dispatch from Shanghai, said Japanese nationals have been attacked and outraged by American troops, as well as civilians.

"Japanese laborers on hemp plantations, the paper continues, have been ruthlessly attacked, while Japanese women and children have been slaughtered in their homes, and Japanese employés of American farms are reported to have been shot to death with hunting rifles. 'The Asahi headlines its story, 'Cruelty of American Troops Reaches Peak.'

"The Asahi notes that the numerous Japanese in Mindanao were pioneers there and played a historic rôle in developing Mindanao as the center of the famous Philippine hemp industry, also building roads and engaging in other activities contributing to the general welfare."

When Life Hangs by a Hair

Saved by a Red Thatch.

MANILA, Dec. 23 [Tuesday] (AP).—One American pilot who bailed out of his plane over the mountains of central Luzon, inhabited by fierce Kalinga tribesmen, literally escaped death by a hair—or rather a head of hair.

Floating to earth the pilot saw a whole village of Kalinga tribesmen, who seldom are able to distinguish among foreigners, shouting and waving their spears and bolos. The pilot feared he didn't have much chance since Japanese bombs already had killed several Kalingas. But as he hit the ground the Kalingas lowered their spears. This intruder definitely was not a Japanese—he had flaming red hair.

Gets Blistered Feet.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Lieut. Walter Cross, a United States army pilot, said tonight on a CBS broadcast from Manila that Japanese airmen, after crippling his pursuit plane over northern Luzon, continued to machine gun him as he took to his parachute and even after he had landed in the middle of a river and was swimming ashore.

The aim of his assailants, however, was poor, said the pilot, and his only injury was a pair of blistered feet in an eight-day hike back to Manila thru mountainous terrain inhabited only by savage tribesmen—a distance he had covered in little more than an hour by air.

CORREGIDOR ABLE TO HOLD OUT EVEN IF LUZON IS LOST

Even assuming the worst—that the current Japanese attack on the island of Luzon in the Philippines should be successful to a high degree—the island fortress of Corregidor and several other fortified islands lying at the entrance of Manila bay would prove tough nuts for the Nipponese to crack.

Corregidor and the islands of Caballo, El Fraile, and Carabao guard the heavily mined 12 miles of harbor entrance thru which two narrow ship channels have been plotted. Manila bay, to their rear, could harbor the entire American Pacific fleet. Corregidor, most formidable of the island defenses, has been compared to England's Gibraltar. It is three miles long and has its own air field. Gun emplacements have been cut into its rocky cliffs, and there are underground and presumably bomb proof storerooms for food, water, and ammunition.

Army experts recently predicted that Corregidor could hold out unaided for six months even after the Japs gained possession of the rest of Luzon's strong points, and would thus be a continuing threat to Jap communications.

DIES FROM FRACTURED SKULL.

A listing of American foreign service officers assigned to Japan, published Dec. 9, identified Jule L. Goetzmann, vice consul at Yokohama, as from St. Paul, Minn. His father, George L. Goetzmann, of Moline, Ill., said Jule was born in St. Paul but had lived in Moline most of his life and was assigned to foreign service from that city.

HEAVY OFFSHORE BLASTS HEARD ON MARYLAND COAST

Ocean City, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—Loud explosions offshore rattled windows and slightly shook houses in this resort city today and were heard in Berlin, Md., eight miles inland, as well as in lower Delaware. Henry Burbage, a garage owner, said the explosions began between 9:30 a. m. and 10 a. m., and continued at intervals for more than an hour and a half.

Burbage and other residents said there would be three or four quick explosions, then silence, followed by other outbreaks. G. E. Henry, who lives at Berlin, said the explosions shook his house slightly and rattled windows.

Coast guard officials here would not comment. Army officials at Fort Miles, Lewes, Del., and at Fort Saulsbury, Del., reported hearing the explosions, and said neither fort had been firing its guns.

U. S. CASUALTIES IN INVASION LIGHT, SAYS A WITNESS

Air, Sea and Land Battle Described.

BY VICENTE A. PACIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 23 [Tuesday].—A reporter sent to Lingayen and mistakenly detained by the military today gave me the first eyewitness account of the annihilation by United States forces of one of the blitzkrieg spearheads of the Japanese invasion near the Lingayen gulf.

A tank battle developed as the invaders landed the first wave. Meanwhile, both sides were supported in the air. Shore batteries matched the fire of destroyers; probably submarines shared, too.

Before sundown, three or four enemy transports were sunk, and the landing forces were wiped out. At one stage of the land, sea and air battle, shore batteries did effective shooting, driving destroyers and transports beyond range. As in the first battle at Lingayen, the casualties among the defenders were notably small.

MacArthur's Strategy Vindicated.

It is believed that the Japanese will try another landing shortly unless, in the meantime, the air defense succeeds in disorganizing them.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Scotch strategy in husbanding forces, refusing to mass against the initial Japanese landings in the extreme north of Luzon, seemed on the verge of vindication today.

So well has the commander handled defense to date that observers say the new thrust can be handled in the same way as was the first smaller wave of invaders at Lingayen.

Air Force in Action.

The United States air force, its morale bolstered by the award of 13 distinguished service crosses, immediately went into action against the invading forces at Lingayen today. Results of their efforts have not been revealed.

Gen. MacArthur is believed to have his main striking power just where the enemy is landing for a second time. Crack mechanized units of the American-Filipino army, which wiped out the first wave of an estimated few thousand Japanese, were still there, waiting to repeat the performance.

New Jap Landing Reported.

It is reported—but not confirmed by the army—that several transport loads of Japanese have landed on the La Union province coast, near San Fernando [north of Lingayen].

Meanwhile the province of Ilocos Norte, in northern Luzon, where the Japanese made one of their first landings, continues in a state of siege, with Japanese controling the highways. The capital of Ilocos Norte has been moved inland from Laoag to Dingras.

TOKIO CLAIMS SEVEN 'ENEMY' BATTLESHIPS AND 776 PLANES LOST

New York, Dec. 22 [Recorded by the New York News].—A Berlin broadcast quotes the Japanese imperial headquarters in Tokio as announcing "enemy" losses as follows:

Sunk—Seven battleships, two cruisers, one destroyer, nine boats, two gun boats, one minesweeper, one patrol vessel, six torpedo boats, 114 enemy planes shot down, 662 enemy planes destroyed on the ground, 776 total of enemy planes lost.

Japanese losses were given as 75 planes, five submarines, one destroyer sunk and one minesweeper sunk.

RAID SIREN SHATTERS; INJURES 5.

Martinez, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—An air raid siren flew to pieces while it was being tested in front of the city hall today. Five boys were injured by fragments which peppered a half-block area.

MISS GISH FINDS WEST PANICKY AT TALK OF AIR RAID

Tells of Blackout System on California Coast.

Fear of air attacks on the west coast has caused a rapid exodus to inland America, Lillian Gish, the actress, said here yesterday.

So strong is the movement that travelers find it difficult to get reservations on eastbound trains, Miss Gish said. She paused in Chicago on her way to spend Christmas in New York with her mother.

Reports Coast in Panic.

"The California coast is in a panic," she said. "They are expecting air raids hourly. Eddie Rickenbacker says that while raids are not impossible they are improbable and impracticable, and I think he should know, but no one out there thinks so."

In general, she said, people go about their business as usual, but all windows are blacked out with paint, a nightly blackout is observed, and no one ventures abroad after 6 p. m. This latter rule entails a 4:45 p. m. closing of shops and offices.

When she got off the Santa Fe Chief, Miss Gish, a slim, lithe figure dressed in plum from head to toe and wearing the new long skirt [8 inches from the floor] which she termed "dowdy," found herself greeted by a tumultuous crowd.

Chicago Almost a Second Home.

"After all," she said in laughing explanation, "Chicago is almost my second home. I was here so long in 'Life With Father' that I feel I know every one here."

She recalled that the young, red-headed actor, O. Z. Whitehead, who played the rôle of Clarence Day Jr. in that play, enlisted in the army the day the United States declared war on Japan. "He's 40 pounds underweight," she said of young Zebby, as he was known here when he spoke for the America First committee, "but he's at San Pedro now."

Miss Gish said that her two weeks in California were spent visiting Mary Pickford at her estate, Pickfair, in Beverly Hills, and consulting with Paramount for the proposed filming of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." She is being considered for the title rôle.

Disagrees on Portrayal.

"But," she said, "I can't see Mrs. Wiggs played as an old woman, and they do. Maybe eventually they will decide the mother of a 12 year old son doesn't have to be fat, old, and decrepit, but if they are looking for a Marie Dressler in me they are not looking up the right street."

"I'd like to do something like Mrs. Wiggs, a story of goodness and kindness and America," she added frankly. "We're fed up with hate. When people go to the movies now, they want surcease from it. But I haven't been on the screen for 10 years. To go back as an old woman might hurt me professionally."

U. S. GROUNDS ALL PRIVATE PLANES ON PACIFIC COAST

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—The Civil Aeronautics Authority today grounded all private airplanes and pilots in the west coast combat zone, including the entire Pacific coast from the Canadian border to the Mexican line and extending 150 miles inland, for the duration of the war. Transcontinental mail and passenger air lines were not affected.

Private flying schools affected by the order announced that they would transfer equipment and personnel to Reno, Nev., and resume activities immediately. An army escort will accompany all private planes granted permission to fly inland. More than 200 private airplanes and about 2,000 civilian pilots were affected.

Owners of private planes were ordered to store their craft in hangars and to guard them.

Pledge 50 Million Dollars to Replace Sunk Battleship

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—R. J. Thomas, president of the United Auto Workers, today pledged his 700,000 members in auto and aircraft industries to buy 50 million dollars worth of defense bonds to replace the battleship Arizona, sunk in the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

PURSUE U-BOATS AFTER 5 ATTACKS ON THE PACIFIC

10,000 Ton Tanker Escapes by Zigzag Tactics.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 22 [Special].—Patrols, on the sea and in the air, hunted enemy submarines along the length of the Pacific coast tonight after a torpedo attack on a tanker raised to four the number of American ships attacked by undersea craft directly off the California coast since Dec. 11, while a fifth vessel was the victim of the enemy this side of Hawaii.

In announcing the attacks, the navy disclosed in Washington, D. C., that 30 survivors had been rescued and four crew members lost in the sinking of the steamer Lahaina by a submarine between Hawaii and San Francisco on Dec. 11. The survivors were landed at Kahului, on the island Maui.

The latest attack was on the Standard Oil tanker H. M. Storey this morning about two miles out from Point Arguello, rocky promontory 45 miles north of Santa Barbara, Cal. An enemy submarine launched three torpedoes at the ship but it escaped damage by clever maneuvering.

Zigzags Thru Smoke Screen.

Several persons on shore watched thru field glasses as the submarine tried to sink the 10,000 ton tanker. After the first torpedo was unleashed, the tanker sent out a heavy smoke screen and began a zigzag course. Shore watchers, seeing the smoke from the screen and the Storey under forced draft, at first believed she had been hit.

Navy planes soon appeared in response to an SOS and dropped depth charges that shook the nearby coast. A seaplane alighted at the side of the tanker and later, with her aerial escorts, the vessel proceeded toward her unannounced destination.

The loss of five crewmen of the tanker Emidio, torpedoed and shelled by a submarine Saturday, was acknowledged officially today when a coast guard cutter landed 36 survivors at Eureka, Cal. Five of the survivors were injured but not seriously. The damaged tanker was still afloat.

Sub Possibly Hit.

Capt. Clark A. Farrow of the Emidio said two big United States bombers dropped depth charges and possibly hit the sub-sea craft that attacked his ship. He expressed belief it was one of the largest type of Japanese submarines.

When the submarine was sighted, the Emidio put on full speed and dumped ballast to lighten the ship but it was unable to escape the rapidly pursuing enemy.

"Six shells were fired at us," Capt. Farrow related. "A torpedo hit in the stern in the engine room, the concussion throwing us to the deck. To us in the lifeboats it was a mighty welcome sight when the big American bombers came over.

Saw Torpedo Coming.

"One of the planes dropped a depth charge just after the sub submerged. Later, as the planes were still circling, the periscope of the sub came slowly up to the surface 200 yards away and, while still partially submerged, fired a torpedo. We saw the torpedo's trail as it headed for the tanker. There was a loud explosion as it struck.

"Back came the planes as the sub sank out of sight again. One of the planes dropped another depth charge. There was a big blast and plenty of smoke. That may have hit her, we figure, for we didn't see her again."

The miraculous escape of the lumber schooner Samoa from a torpedo that passed directly under the 2,000 ton vessel was related today by Capt. Nels A. Sinnes. The Samoa, under forced draft, arrived in San Diego harbor last night from the scene off the California coast where it was attacked by torpedo and shells from a submarine before dawn on Dec. 18.

Persons on shore, watching the freighter attempting to make port under forced draft before dark yesterday, believed it was afire. However, there were no casualties and the ship was not damaged.

The tanker Agwiworld escaped a submarine off Cypress Point 200 miles south of San Francisco, after eight shells had been fired at it Saturday.

JAPANESE SUFFER HEAVILY IN NEW MALAYAN BATTLE

Jungle Fight Rages 330 Miles from Singapore.

SINGAPORE, Dec. 22 (AP).—British Malayan troops inflicted heavy casualties on the Japanese in another sharp jungle fight about 330 miles north of Singapore, and the RAF smashed nine Japanese planes in two air actions, it was announced officially tonight.

The British were said to be holding firmly in new positions anchored apparently in the west at Kuala Kangsar, 20 miles north of the tin mining center of Ipoh, and extending eastward to a point some 45 miles south of Kota Bharu where the Japanese made their first landing on the peninsula Dec. 8.

Jap Ferries Carry Troops.

The new engagement occurred yesterday on the Grik-Kuala Kangsar highway in an area where the British said the Japanese were using rafts to ferry reinforcements down the Perak river from the north.

British defenses apparently ran irregularly thru the swamps south of the Perak river and over the mountains to the east.

While Ipoh is only about 20 air miles from Kuala Kangsar, the road and rail route between the two points is 50 miles.

Attack Japanese Air Field.

British planes attacking a Japanese airfield in the north were said to have put six enemy aircraft out of commission.

Three other planes were shot down in a Japanese attack on Kuala Lumpur, a railway point between Ipoh and Singapore.

The British lost three planes in this second fight, the communique said.

Singapore had a short alert tonight with some searchlight activity and a few anti-aircraft bursts but apparently no bombs were dropped.

Bomb Jap Base in Thailand.

RANGOON, Burma, Dec. 22 (AP).—The RAF attacked a Japanese air base in eastern Thailand, destroying grounded planes and gasoline reserves yesterday in the first aerial smash at the enemy forces there, it was announced today.

How many planes the Japanese had on the field was not disclosed, but the report said they were machine gunned from treetop altitude and none escaped destruction.

All the British planes returned unscathed.

Dutch Planes Aid RAF.

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Dec. 22 (AP).—Dutch army planes are supporting the RAF in Malaya, the Dutch command announced today. Lieut. Gen. Hein ter Poorten, commander in chief of the Netherlands Indies army, told his troops that "we already have inflicted severe blows upon the enemy."

The commander praised particularly the effective Dutch blows against the Japanese invaders of Miri, Sarawak, on Borneo Island, and pointed to German reverses in Russia and Libya as proof that "already the tide in Europe is turning" against the axis.

Heavy Jap Losses in Sarawak.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—British troops "are inflicting severe losses on the Japanese" who gained a foothold in Sarawak on the island of Borneo, the British Broadcasting company said tonight in quoting a Batavia dispatch.

No News of Attack on Guinea.

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—An Exchange Telegraph agency dispatch from Canberra today said that the Australian government, which was in constant touch with the territory of New Guinea, had no information of a purported Japanese attack there. The Rome radio had reported that Japan seized that half Dutch, half Australian island to compensate for the occupation of Portuguese Timor by Netherlands and Australian troops.

First Victim of Hawaii Air Raid Shelter Is a Jap!

HONOLULU, Dec. 22 (AP).—Oahu island's first air raid shelter victim was a Japanese alien. Motor Patrolman Edward Puulei said Susumu Katamaya, 40, was crushed to death yesterday by a 300 pound stone which rolled into the cave he and a neighbor, Tetsusaku Koizumi, were digging out of a hillside as a refuge from air attack. Koizumi was seriously injured.

NAVAL OFFICERS' OWN STORIES OF RAID ON HAWAII

Break Silence in Thrilling First Hand Account.

BY TOM YARBROUGH.

HONOLULU, Dec. 22 (AP).—Graphic firsthand narratives of what happened at Pearl Harbor Dec. 7 were told with dramatic coolness today by three naval officers who had leading parts in the defense of giant warships against a sky full of Japanese planes that pounced on them suddenly "from out of nowhere."

The officers related their thrilling stories to reporters at Pearl Harbor naval base, the first such conference since the raid. Details of damage to ships were not shown to the news men but the officers reconstructed many of the details for them.

These are some highlights of the stories they told:

Dive bombers, contested only by anti-aircraft fire, pulled out of their dives as low as 300 feet and dropped bombs that ripped men's uniforms from their bodies with blasts that swished like stiff wind thru foliage.

Shielded Powder with Body.

Men shielded ammunition with their bodies when the heat from many fires became perilously intense.

During the early morning attack, a marine said to an officer: "Pull this piece of metal out of my back." It was a bomb splinter so hot the officer had to use a rag to remove it. The marine returned to his machine gun and remained on duty until late that afternoon.

One captain, horribly wounded, refused to leave the bridge of his ship and commanded the burning vessel until he died.

"To Battle Stations!"

A lieutenant commander who took charge of his ship after the executive officer was knocked overboard by a blast, said, "We were just finishing breakfast at 7:55 when the alarm sounded over the loud speaker:

"'Japanese planes are attacking us. To your battle stations.'

"I went toward the bridge. The captain was just ahead of me. Very heavy explosions were soon shaking the ship and she started taking a list. Communications were disrupted and we established a messenger service.

"Bombs were coming down. The captain groaned and said, 'I've been hit.' He staggered a few seconds and dropped to his knees. I asked, 'Where are you hit,' and he said, 'In the stomach.'

Fires Sweep Ship.

"By this time fires had broken out in various parts of the ship. I was concerned for the safety of the magazines and had some plugged and some flooded.

"Searching parties were organized and the wounded were put into small boats. Practically all of the wounded were taken off.

"I was anxious to get the captain to a hospital and got a stretcher and lines. The captain emphatically refused. He said he wanted to stay where he was.

"There were huge oil fires on the water and it was a dangerous situation for surface ships.

"All this time the ship was subjected to aerial torpedoing, heavy dive bombing, and also to high horizontal bombing and machine gun strafing.

70 Planes Attack.

"We were under constant attack until 9:15 in the morning. There must have been a total of 70 planes.

"The aerial torpedoes were most effective. The pilots came in very close—about 30 or 40 feet above the water—and were very skilful. They didn't care much, just so they got their attack in.

"Two officers stayed with the captain. Finally the pharmacist's mate could detect no sign of life. The body was placed in the chart house on the bridge.

"Flames cut off others from the fo'castle where people were being evacuated and they went hand over hand on a line about 20 feet to another ship.

Stayed by Guns.

"All enlisted men and officers were wonderful. They stayed with their guns until all available ammunition was exhausted."

The senior medical officer who attended the wounded all day Sunday and Sunday night said:

"Burns caused more than 60 per cent of the casualties.

"There were many drownings because the oil on the water made it almost impossible to swim. Lots of men were blown overboard.

"More than 1,000 wounded were treated ashore not far from their ships. They got ashore any way they could and were picked up in trucks, ambulances and automobiles—everything available.

Worked by Flashlight.

"We worked that night with flashlights. . . . No, we didn't have time to put blue covers on them.

"Many of our men had their clothes blown off by the blasts. We worked all night and the next day. About 200 slightly wounded were able to return to their ships."

A 37 year old officer who found himself in command of a major ship said he was in the officers' lounge awaiting 8 o'clock mass when he heard machine gun fire.

Raider in Flames.

"We saw 25 or 30 torpedo planes approaching," said the officer. "One dropped a 'fish' and it came towards our ship. About a hundred feet from our stern one of the raiders burst into flame.

"Pretty soon the air seemed literally filled with planes. Dive bombers came over in two flights of five each and our anti-aircraft shells burst right around them.

"When I got to my ship all the guns were going and the bombs made a terrific blast—a swish like a stiff wind blowing through foliage. Flames were rising several hundred feet in the air.

Hit Several Times.

"We had our lines cut with axes and started working the bow out. Going down the channel we were dive bombed and hit several times. The ship shivered and shook violently from near misses as well as hits.

"We got the signal to stop and that interrupted our whole aim—which was to get out to sea and have a crack at them."

1,300th Recruit

Duane S. Seavey, 1,300th Chicago recruit for the navy, with Sonja Henie, skating star, at the navy recruiting station in the federal courthouse yesterday. Miss Henie gave Seavey a sailor's traveling kit.

Army, navy, and marine enlistment stations in Chicago were jammed with applicants again yesterday. The recruiting offices now are operating on a 24 hour a day schedule.

The navy recruiting station in the United States courthouse yesterday swore in its 1300th recruit since the war began, Lieut. David Goldenson reported. The recruit was Duane S. Seavey, 21 years old, 220 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, a former employe of a garment manufacturing company.

Seavey was welcomed into the service by Sonja Henie, skater and movie star, who was invited by the navy to attend the ceremonies as Seavey's sponsor.

Col. Edward Shaifer, army recruiting officer, reported that his office accepted 56 men last Saturday, 9 on Sunday and 100 up to 6 p. m. yesterday. This brings the total of army recruits since the war began to 968, he said.

At the headquarters of the aviation cadet examining board in the United States courthouse, Col. Frederick H. Chetlain, president of the board, said 100 cadets would be sent south for basic training on Jan. 6.

At the marine recruiting office 31 men were accepted for training, bringing the total number of men recruited since war started to 855.

REPORT CHICAGO SAILOR LOST AS SUB SINKS SHIP

One of the five men listed by the navy yesterday as dead or missing in the sinking of the S. S. Lahaina, Matson line freighter, by a submarine near Hawaii Dec. 11 is a 40 year old Chicagoan, Herman Freedman, a seaman, son of Louis Freedman, 75, of 4343 West 13th street.

Freedman visited in Chicago last spring after retiring from the navy, in which he had served 24 years, because of illness. Recovering his health, he signed as a seaman on the Lahaina and sailed for Hawaii on Nov. 18. The family recently received a postcard from him, postmarked Dec. 2 in Honolulu, stating that he would be home for Christmas.

Two brothers live in Chicago, Julius, a postal clerk, who lives at the 13th street address, and Morris, of 3914 Congress street, manager of a chain grocery.

JAPS SHOOTING CIVILIANS: LAST NOTE FROM GUAM

Island's Message to Navy Dated Dec. 9.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The navy said today its last message from the island of Guam—received two days after the attack on Pearl Harbor Sunday, Dec. 7 — reported that civilians in the streets and a native hospital in Agana, the capital, had been machine gunned by enemy planes.

Since Dec. 13, the capture of the island by the Japs has been considered "probable."

Unable to Contact Outpost.

The navy said at that time it had been unable to contact the Pacific outpost 1,600 miles east of the Philippines and 1,500 miles west of Wake. Four hundred navy men and 155 marines were stationed on Guam.

This was the navy's last word from Guam [3:30 p. m., Dec. 10, Island time and date, 7:30 p. m., Chicago time, Dec. 9]:

"Last attack centered at Agana. Civilians machine gunned in streets. Two native wards of hospital and hospital compound machine gunned. Building in which Japanese nationals are confined bombed."

Agana, with a population of 10,000, is on the southern shore of Agana bay.

"Mopping Up," Japs Say.

TOKIO, Dec. 22 [Official broadcast recorded by (AP)].—The Japanese today said mopping up operations had been completed on the island of Guam, captured from the United States in the first week of the war.

GEN. EMMONS URGES HAWAIIANS TO PULL TOGETHER AND WIN

HONOLULU, Dec. 22 (AP).—Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, in his first broadcast as commander of the Hawaiian department, today praised Hawaii's morale, stressed the necessity of censorship because of the potential threat of enemy raiders, and urged everybody to pull together.

Lieut. Gen. D. C. Emmons.

He disclosed that the distribution of foods, drugs, gasoline, and other essentials had been placed under single jurisdiction. Pointing out that some confusion was unavoidable, he said this would be remedied as soon as additional supplies were received.

As an example he cited the necessity of control over distribution of buckets, water, sand, and other equipment necessary for fighting incendiary bombs.

Gen. Emmons today issued an order today freezing wage rates of civilians engaged in war work as of Dec. 7. Labor contracts restricting the nature of the work performed were suspended.

273 Japs Interned.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The war department reported today that 273 Japanese aliens in Hawaii were now interned, adding that "for the most part, the Japanese population of Hawaii has given no evidence of disloyalty."

Stating there were no fifth columnists among members of the armed services in Hawaii, the communique added:

"However, as was reported by Secretary Knox on his return from his recent trip to Hawaii, there is strong evidence to support the belief that some Japanese were engaged in 'fifth column' activity and provided the enemy with valuable military information prior to the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor."

NEWFOUNDLAND'S GIRLS LOSE THEIR HEARTS TO YANKS

And They Also Lose Their Citizenship.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Passed by United States army and navy censors and British imperial censor.]

[Fourth article.]

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland—[By mail.]—A hard-bitten army major sniffed when asked about the "morale" of the American forces on the defense bases in this British colony, and snorted that as long as "you feed 'em and work 'em" troops will cause little trouble.

He said he was tired of hearing people back home worrying about "morale," but there is a pressing problem facing army and navy officers here. That is a sudden wave of marriages between their lonely men and Newfoundland girls.

Romance is blossoming despite the attempt of official frowns to wither it.

Rumor has put the figure of such marriages as high as 500, but it is probably considerably lower than that. Laxity and slowness in reporting vital statistics in this country account for the lack of information on the matrimonial trend among the American forces.

General Issues Circular.

The situation became so acute that Maj. Gen. Gerald Clark Brant, commandant of the American army forces in Newfoundland, was called upon recently to issue a circular on the hazards of outpost wedlock.

Newfoundland authorities have been warned by Consul General George Dunlap Hopper, the genial Kentuckian who is having to smoothe over numerous frictions between the Newfoundlanders and the newly arrived Americans, on the requirements for alien wives who want to enter the United States.

Consul Hopper pointed out that the girl loses her Newfoundland citizenship when she steps to the altar with a soldier and at the same time does not automatically become an American citizen with the right to enter the United States.

A soldier's wife, or any other wife, in order to enter the United States, is required to show an income sufficient to support herself. The pay of a soldier below the rank of sergeant is not enough to hurdle this requirement. She must also be in good health and of good character.

The soldier himself is not eligible for reenlistment when his term is up if he marries while serving without the written permission of the commanding general, an authority hard to obtain except in rare cases.

Recreation Facilities Few.

Recreational facilities for the sudden influx of service men are greatly lacking here in St. John's, the capital city, as well as in other parts of the country. It was a great tragedy one night recently when the big skating arena, where hundreds of uniformed men and their best girls cavorted over the ice every night, burned to the ground.

Ground has been broken for a united service organization building, with a bowling alley, lounge, recreation hall, restaurant, social hall, and writing rooms, but the structure will not be ready until late in February, perhaps not until spring.

Until recently, when the Canadian Knights of Columbus and Canadian YMCA completed their buildings with bed capacities of 350 to 500 each, there was only one hostel in St. John's for service men of all forces. This was the Caribou hut, operated by a local town group. The Caribou has the only swimming pool in all of Newfoundland—48 by 18 feet.

There is also a crying need in St. John's for an officers' club where the officers of the various forces may mingle. The officers are barred from the haunts of the soldiers and sailors.

Only Hotel Is Crowded.

Since the Newfoundland hotel, the only modern, first class hotel in the city, is always filled it is well nigh impossible for the men in uniform to find rooms when they come to town after a pay day and on week-ends. There have been nights when people have been forced to sleep in the police station.

Officers have made a conscious effort to keep their men in camp beer taverns and canteens, away from the noisome dives of the town. These joints, about 50 in number, sell a hop beer which is brewed overnight, and a homemade rum with the kick of a 16 inch naval gun. A chemical analysis of a bottle of this cheap "rum" by the army revealed iodine as one of the ingredients.

Because of the local taxes, good liquor sold in stores by the local control board is high in price and out of the reach of the service man's pocketbook. Most of the trouble the men get into is laid on the doorstep of the homemade stuff.

While there have been a number of socalled "disturbances," such as the drunkenness and disorderly conduct cases which hit a peak last summer and have dwindled since then, there has only been one serious trial involving an American in uniform. That was the Gilson case. It was important because of the precedents it set.

Soldier Runs Down Girl.

Earl R. Gilson, a 20 year old soldier from Fort Pepperrell, the garrison here, struck and killed a 12 year old girl one day last summer while driving down one of the rutty roads of St. John's. It was a friend's car, Gilson was not on military business, and after some negotiations the army yielded him to the local authorities who had demanded the right to prosecute him.

Gilson was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to a year in jail. He had not been drinking, and an extenuating circumstance was the habit Newfoundlanders have of walking in the streets because in the residential sections sidewalks are unpaved and often quagmires.

There was criticism in the United States at the army's handling of the case on the grounds Gilson should have been tried by court martial. Maj. William S. Sherrill, judge advocate at Fort Pepperrell, claims the army had no other recourse under the defense base's agreement.

According to Maj. Sherrill, when a soldier commits an offense which is not of a military nature and outside the leased area, then the local government may have the culprit if it demands him. There is, of course, provision also in the base agreement that the local government cannot supersede the United States army's right to discipline its own men.

Tried for Traffic Violations.

Traffic violations by American service men are being tried in the St. John's courts. One young lieutenant charged the American soldiers were being "soaked" with larger fines than the local citizenry. He cited several cases in which soldiers charged with speeding were fined twice as much as civilians clocked at the same rates down the same streets.

Morale of the garrison troops in Newfoundland has been helped rather than hindered by the hardships they have had to endure. They have been knitted together by common difficulties and their esprit de corps is evident to the visitor in the camps.

From time to time the troops race out to fight forest fires because of the lack of local facilities. When the skating arena caught fire, engines from the American army post sped to the blaze and the soldiers did yeoman service in keeping the blaze from spreading into other parts of town where the frame dwellings are virtually kindling wood.

CROWN PRINCE OLAV.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Crown Prince Olav of Norway said today that, because of military reverses in Russia and Libya, Germany was pulling troops out of occupied Norway and underground unrest among loyal Norwegians was growing day by day.

The crown prince has just arrived here from London, where he has been with the Norwegian government in exile. He told a press conference that with the entrance of all great world powers into the war, axis members were going to find that the way of the agressor "doesn't pay."

"I feel more convinced than ever that the war will end fairly soon," he said. "For the first time we Norwegians can see the end."

The crown prince said he would remain in the United States and Canada for the next two months. Crown Princess Martha and their children have been living in Washington for the past year.

CANADIAN MAJOR GENERAL SENT TO NEWFOUNDLAND

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 22 (AP).—Appointment of Maj. Gen. L. F. Page, former commander of Canadian troops in Iceland and now commanding the 4th division, to command Canadian army troops in Newfoundland was announced today by J. L. Ralston, defense minister.

He said the Newfoundland post had been raised to a major general's command in view of the increased importance attached to Newfoundland, defense of which has been recognized as an integral part of the Canadian scheme of defense.

Page, veteran of the World war, will relieve Brig. Philip Earnshaw, who has been detailed to duty overseas.

Mussolini Discusses War with Two of His Generals

ROME, Dec. 22 [Official broadcast recorded by (AP)].—Premier Mussolini discussed the general situation today at conferences with Gen. Ugo Cavallero, chief of the Italian general staff, and Gen. Geloso, commander of occupation forces in Greece, the Rome radio announced.

VON BRAUCHITSCH SAYS DISMISSAL DUE TO BAD HEART

Hitler Plans Quick Blow, British Declare.

BERLIN, Dec. 22 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—Field Marshal Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch, who on Dec. 19 was relieved of his command of the Nazi armies by Adolf Hitler, issued an order of the day saying he asked for dismissal "on account of heart trouble."

Hitler's action was disclosed yesterday and Von Brauchitsch's order of the day today. The order, appearing over Von Brauchitsch's signature said:

"Soldiers!

"The Fuehrer has personally taken over the leadership of the army as of today [Dec. 19]. He has at the same time complied with my request which I submitted to him some time ago, to relieve me of the leadership of the army on account of a heart ailment.

"Soldiers! Nearly four years I have, as your commander in chief, led the best army of the world. These years comprise for Germany a multitude of the greatest historical events and for the army the greatest military successes. I look back upon this period with pride and gratitude, I am proud of your achievements and thankful for your faith.

"Great tasks have been solved, great and difficult tasks still are ahead of us. I am convinced that you will solve these also.

"The Fuehrer will lead us to victory. Let your determination be as hard as steel and look forward.

"Everything for Germany!"

[A Berne dispatch to the New York Times said that despite all efforts by the German propaganda machine to keep it quiet the world has learned of the sudden and simultaneous "illness" of Field Marshal Fedor von Bock, German commander on the Moscow front, whose condition is regarded as "warranting some concern."]

"Planning to Hit Harder."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 23 [Tuesday].—London dailies in their early Tuesday editions expressed jubilation over the army command changes in Germany, but Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express cautioned:

"Germany and her satellites still are the greatest single military unit in Europe . . . not yet has the German army been beaten on a battlefield in western or central Europe. . . . Until that is done, Hitler is not throwing up the sponge. He is planning to hit harder."

The Daily Sketch demanded:

"The allies must here and now determine among them to carry the war at the earliest possible moment onto German soil. In that determination lies the sole secret of victory over Germany."

The News Chronicle, interpreting the changes as resulting from "a clash between the Nazi party and the army," at the same time contended that Hitler "will strike soon in some new direction, at whatever cost to his countrymen."

One London observer predicted that Hitler was preparing for a swift attempt to close the Mediterranean. This, he added, might take the form of a drive thru Spain and Portugal, a thrust thru Turkey at Suez, or an attempted air-sea jump into North Africa from Greece and Italy.

A move thru Turkey presumably would be intended to cut the British-American Red sea line to Egypt or their Persian gulf line to Russia, and to gain position for another German effort to get at the oil of the Caucasus and Iraq.

Berlin Hints at Action.

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 22 (AP).—Suggestions that Adolf Hitler was planning to lunge out soon in new or currently inactive theaters, perhaps in the near east or in the west, now that he has grasped personal supreme command of the German armed forces were strong today in official Berlin broadcasts.

The official Germans news agency DNB declared that the war was "now approaching its decisive stage."

Other broadcasts were at pains to assert that there had been no rift at all between Hitler and Von Brauchitsch; that they had parted "in the most dignified manner"; and that in any event the dismissal of the highest officer of the German army had been simply a case of the "omission" of an intermediary. Hitler, it was added, now planned to execute for himself all campaigns "like those of France, Norway, and Crete."

BRITISH RACE 150 MILES INTO NEW SECTOR OF LIBYA

Destroy an Axis Garrison and Flying Base.

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 22 (AP).—A British desert patrol plunging 150 miles westward into Tripolitania was reported officially tonight to have wiped out an axis garrison and air base in a brilliant move to trap the main German and Italian forces in flight near Bengazi.

Gen. Erwin Romme]'s main German armored troops were reported beating a hasty retreat toward Agedabia, south of Bengazi, with British troops at their heels, while Italian rear guards tried to check the British only 25 miles east of Bengazi at El Abiar. These rear guards were being pressed back.

Tell of Surprise Thrust.

The brief British account of the daring thrust into Tripolitania said: "A few days ago one of our mechanized patrols operating over 150 miles into Tripolitania carried out a brilliant surprise against an enemy airdrome which had just been taken into use.

"No less than 24 German and Italian aircraft were destroyed on the ground, dumps of gasoline and bombs were demolished, and the entire garrison which outnumbered the raiders by six to one, was accounted for."

This action put the British 450 miles beyond the Egyptian frontier and almost half way to Tripoli, the main axis Libyan base whose capture would be a death blow to Premier Mussolini's shattered empire, and would place allied forces in contact with French North Africa.

Not Mentioned for Weeks.

The British did not name the site of the demolished base, but the distance suggested that it was at Sirte or nearby on the Bengazi-Tripoli coastal highway.

The dispatches indicated that the Italians in Cyrenaica were doing nearly all the rear guard fighting, with the Germans desperately trying to salvage their mechanized equipment in a retreat into Tripolitania.

The main British units now were more than 280 miles inside Cyrenaica, the eastern division of Libya.

Northeast of Bengazi British units swept into Cirene and Appolonia, about 50 miles west of Derna on the coast. Axis troops also were said to be retiring toward Bengazi along the coastal road from those points, while other units were pocketed in the intervening mountain regions.

The British already have taken more than 10,000 axis prisoners in the five week old push, 4,000 of them Germans.

ITALIANS SHOW CONCERN.

Berlin dismissed the African operations by declaring "no major operations took place," but the Italians showed open concern.

Virginio Gayda, Italian commentator, said nearly all of Italy's armed forces had been thrown into the conflict in an effort to stop the British. The battle would decide all Italy's fate, he said bluntly.

The Italian high command acknowledged the fighting now was in the mountains of northern Cyrenaica. Widespread British air attacks on Tripoli, Bengazi, Barce, and Derna caused no serious damage, the communique said.

British attacks on the isolated garrison of Bardia, near the Egyptian frontier far behind the British advance, were said to have been repulsed.

Report Turkey's President Receives Nazi Ambassador

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—The Ankara radio reported that President Ismet Inonu of Turkey received the German ambassador, Franz von Papen, today at an audience attended by the Turkish foreign minister, Sukru Saracoglu.

MARTINIQUE WILL REMAIN NEUTRAL, HULL ANNOUNCES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull indicated today that an agreement had been reached with French authorities of Martinique assuring the neutralization of that strategic Caribbean island.

Hull conferred for an hour with Rear Adm. Frederick J. Horne, who last week was reported to have reached an agreement with Adm. Georges Robert, French high commissioner, after lengthy secret conversations at Martinique.

The secreary told his press conference later that the result of the admiral's mission was simply a continuance of the status quo. This was interpreted to mean that French authorities on the island were in accord with precautionary measures taken by the United States to prevent axis seizure of the colony and at the same time were satisfied that this country had no desire to infringe on the sovereignty of the island.

While Martinique is strategically located athwart the approaches to the Panama canal area, there is no military air field there.

BRITISH BOMBERS DAMAGE DOCKED NAZI WARSHIPS

Deck of Scharnhorst Is Pierced at Brest.

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—A direct bomb hit on the gates of the drydock at Brest, France, in an RAF raid Dec. 18 is believed to have trapped the 26,000-ton German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau in the docks and damaged them anew, the air ministry news service reported tonight.

It said aerial photographs taken during the raid gave reason to believe a heavy bomb fell amidship and penetrated the deck of the Scharnhorst.

In addition, the service announced, it is "quite certain that a heavy armor-piercing bomb" fell between the stern of the Gneisenau and the side of the drydock and another similarly between the Scharnhorst and her dock. It added, "a great number of bombs have fallen close to them, altho how much damage these have done can only be conjectured.

Submarine Pens Hit.

"Important submarine pens at Brest also were heavily bombed during the attack and received one certain and two probable hits. Buildings, possibly workshops, behind the submarine pen have been demolished."

The air and home security ministries issued this communique:

"A very few enemy aircraft were over England early last night. Bombs were dropped at one point in the northeast and at two points in East Anglia. No casualties were reported but at one place in East Anglia slight damage was caused."

Claim Aircraft Carrier Sunk.

BERLIN, Dec. 22 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—The German high command announced in a special communique today that a British aircraft carrier had been sunk in the Atlantic.

"A submarine operating in the Atlantic under the command of Capt. Bigalk," the announcement said, "torpedoed a British aircraft carrier. The ship sank."

Authoritative quarters said later that the aircraft carrier was one of the Formidable class of 23,000 tons.

[Britain previously has lost the 22,500 ton aircraft carriers Ark Royal, Courageous, and Glorious. There was no comment in London on the new German claim.]

German sources said only the class, not the name, of the carrier could be given. They said the ship was of Britain's most modern class, capable of a speed of 30.7 knots, and carrying 40 planes and a complement of 1,600 officers and men.

ISTANBUL AWAITS EARLE'S ARRIVAL FROM BULGARIA

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 20 [Delayed] (AP).—Advices from Sofia today said the United States minister to Bulgaria, George H. Earle, III., of Philadelphia, and a party of nine Americans, mostly members of his legation staff, would arrive here Friday.

Unaccounted for since Bulgaria declared war against the United States were about a dozen other Americans including teachers in the American college in Sofia, missionaries and some oil and tobacco men. The Bulgarian government was believed urging some of these people to carry on their work in Bulgaria.

Some Americans arriving in Sofia from Rumania were turned back to Bucharest, the advices said.

IRAN PARLIAMENT ACTS ON ALLIANCE WITH THE ALLIES

TEHERAN, Iran, Dec. 21 [Delayed.] (AP).—A British-Soviet-Iranian alliance treaty was placed before parliament today and observers expected it to be approved by the end of the week.

Under the pact, Britain and Russia undertake to defend Iran and to withdraw their troops from Iran six months after the end of the war. The two nations are granted unrestricted right to guard, use, or control all means of communication, railways, roads, ports, airdromes, and oil pipelines.

All parties agree to follow the spirit of the treaty in their foreign relations.

French Ship Again Hit by Fire at Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 22.—Fire broke out today on the French merchantman Aurigny which has been anchored in the port of Buenos Aires since the fall of France. This is the third fire on this vessel and one of a long chain that has occurred in or near the port. There is suspicion, therefore, that saboteurs may be at work. The Aurigny is one of the ships that Argentina is negotiating with Vichy to buy.

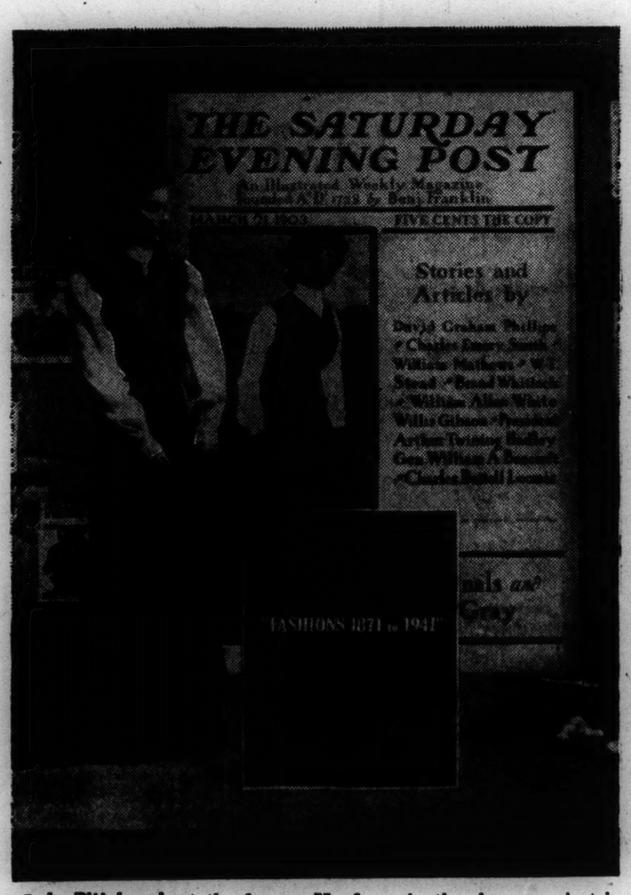
THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

1 Great excitement on Fifth Avenue . . . Crowds stop to gape at Bonwit Teller windows displaying the Saturday Evening Post Traveling Fashion Show . . . famous artists' paintings . . . Historically rare gowns . . . new fashions inspired by celebrated "Post" magazine covers. (Reporters jot down shoppers' enthusiastic comments, and discover the display draws double Bonwit's usual crowds).

2 Carson windows stop thousands on State Street . . . The same show with its immense Post cover enlargements, decorative screens of gay Post covers, combines with Carson Pirie Scott fashions to make sales history for this Chicago store. Along with the traveling show is a fabulously valuable collection of dresses used on models to reenact old scenes. Carson Pirie Scott writes: "Show a great success."

3 Famous Post artists . . . James Montgomery Flagg, Harrison Fisher, Leyendecker, Coles Phillips . . . all are represented in the show. Presented in Baltimore at Hutzler's, these famous Post covers were used as a selling vehicle for a whole series of modern clothes. (Which is no particular surprise, as the whole show idea was designed to harness Post selling power to build more sales for department stores.)



4 In Pittsburgh at the famous Kaufmann's, the show was just in time to whoop up excitement in connection with Kaufmann's Seventieth Anniversary. The show produced unusual commotion, both inside and outside the store. Kaufmann executives wrote: "Our windows attracted thousands of women. Fashions were shown all week to customers during luncheon. Parade of mannequins through the store was a decided hit."

5 Philadelphia's Strawbridge & Clothier staged a special "opening night" when the show ran in Philadelphia. Not even standing room was left. (Latest news: Post show booked 50 weeks in advance at 38 other famous U. S. department stores.) No other magazine in the United States produces such electrifying results—whether in window displays or in advertisements. No other magazine matches the results you get when you tie your story to the power of the Post.

BILL INCREASING NAVY TO 500,000 VOTED IN SENATE

Enlisted Force to Get 200,000 More.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—Without debate or a record vote the senate today passed a bill increasing the authorized enlisted strength of the navy from 300,000 to 500,000 men and the authorized enlisted strength of the marine corps from 60,000 to 104,000.

Adm. Randall Jacobs.

The senate approved the bill and sent it to the house only one hour after Rear Adm. Randall Jacobs, new chief of the navy's bureau of navigation, had testified before the naval affairs committee that a total of 1,000,000 enlisted men will be required by the two ocean navy now under construction. Adm. Jacobs testified that the two ocean navy will be manned by 500,000 regulars and 500,000 reservists. There is no legal limit on the number of naval reservists.

1,000,000 Includes Air Arm.

The projected naval strength of 1,000,000 enlisted men when the two ocean navy is completed in 1944 or 1945 will include the navy's air force. War department officials have testified that the army air force alone will require at least 1,000,000 men, and some officers have intimated that it may reach 2,000,000. The new military conscription age limits of 20 to 44, inclusive, contemplate the possibility of ultimate armed forces aggregating from 7,000,000 to 10,000,000 men.

Sen. David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the naval affairs committee, asked immediate action on the bill increasing the authorized strengths of the navy and marine corps because, he said, enlistments in the marine corps have increased very rapidly in the last two weeks, and the authorized strength of 60,000 will be filled within a day or two.

Repair Yards Burdened.

Damage sustained by American warships in the Japanese surprise attack on Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, imposed additional burdens on this country's repair facilities, which already were being used extensively for the repair of British war vessels.

Many warships authorized and appropriated for under the two ocean navy program have not been laid down. Construction of new ways and other shipbuilding facilities will expedite the completion of the two ocean navy program. The bills introduced today authorize appropriations of $300,000,000 for equipment and facilities to build and equip naval vessels, $275,000,000 for facilities to repair, alter, and convert naval vessels, and $70,000,000 for facilities to produce naval ordnance, munitions and armor.

GARY INDUSTRIAL AREA HAS SECOND SMOKE BLACKOUT

The Gary industrial section had its second daytime blackout yesterday. Dense black smoke was sent streaming from a score of locomotives and all the smokestacks in the six square miles of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's Gary works in an experiment testing the feasibility of smoke blackouts as a defense against bombers. Observers flew over the area in planes. The blackout, intended to form a huge smoke mushroom to hide the region from air raiders, was first attempted last Thursday. On that occasion, as yesterday, the wind lessened the blackout's effectiveness.

Sailor Who Tore Down Nazi Flag Re-enlisted

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 22 (AP).—The navy has accepted the application for reenlistment of Harold L. J. Sturtevant, who was dismissed from the service for pulling down the Nazi flag in front of the German consulate in San Francisco last January.

Gives Her Blood

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, wife of the governor of Massachusetts, giving a pint of blood for the American Red Cross blood bank at the Red Cross headquarters in Boston yesterday. The operation is in charge of Dr. C. W. Walter.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 22 (AP).—Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, wife of the Massachusetts governor, was one of the first to donate her blood today at the Metropolitan chapter of the Red Cross. She responded to a call for 15,000 volunteers and gave a pint of her blood for the plasma needed as a reserve for America's armed forces. "It is little enough we all can do," she said.

Brother Is Charged with Burglarizing Sister's Home

Ralph Wojtanowski, 20 years old, of 3146 Washington boulevard, was in jail today charged with burglarizing the apartment of his own sister, Mrs. Florence Zimmerman, 4948 Ohio street. The loot, comprising a radio, jewelry, and clothes, valued at $275, was recovered from a flat at 1704 West Chicago avenue, where police said Wojtanowski had hidden it, and where he was arrested when he returned.

PRESIDENT SIGNS BILL EXPANDING DRAFT PROGRAM

First Registry Is Likely to Be Next Month.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The draft expansion bill was signed into law today by President Roosevelt, and selective service officials began laying plans for registering the nation's men between 18 and 64, inclusive, who have not already registered under the draft law.

They said the men may be registered on several dates, by age groups, rather than en masse. It was believed the first registration might be next month. Registrants between the ages of 20 and 44, inclusive, will be liable to military service. It is expected 23½ million men will register under the new program.

Local boards have been advised by Brig. Gen. Lewis M. Hershey, national draft director, to prepare to tackle the job of classifying the additional man power made available by the measure.

17½ Million Enrolled.

Existing machinery, used to register and classify according to eligibility for military service the 17½ million men between 21 and 35 already enrolled, is to be employed and expanded as required.

No hint has been given by the war department as to how fast the armed forces are to be expanded to meet war requirements.

Secretary Stimson has said only that strategic considerations would dictate the expansion, that no ceiling would be set, and that the draft would be relied on to the exclusion of voluntary enlistments, which are to be discontinued "as soon as the present rush subsides."

200,000 a Month Suggested.

Some officials thought, however, the armed forces might be increased at a maximum rate of 200,000 a month, beginning in January, until additional mobilization and training camps are provided.

A reservoir of approximately a million class 1-A men under 28 already is on call from the previous two registrations.

The army now totals nearly two million men. Official plans submitted to congress before the war emergency contemplated expansion to some three million as the next stage of building up ground forces.

SEEKS SHUTDOWN OF SCHOOL NEAR CHICAGO AIRPORT

Mrs. I. R. Scheurle, president of the Central West council of the Parent-Teacher association, yesterday asked civic, school, and defense authorities to abandon in the interest of safety the Hale school, which adjoins Chicago airport at 62d street and Linder avenue.

"The people of the community are up in arms," said Mrs. Scheurle, asserting that the possible danger of air attack had been added to present hazards at the school. "There are 500 homes represented. We don't want to make a mob scene at the city hall, but if we have to do so we will."

She said the noise of arriving and departing air liners makes study almost impossible and that plane motors are warmed up near the school. She added that the smokestack of the school had been cut to three feet to allow planes to zoom over the building in takeoffs.

ALDERMEN URGE SECOND SPECIAL ASSEMBLY CALL

The city council yesterday passed unanimously a resolution asking Gov. Dwight H. Green to call a second special session of the legislature on defense. The measure, which originated in the finance committee, requested that the call include a provision that the city of Chicago take $3,000,000 dollars from the motor tax fuel funds for civilian and national defense in Chicago.

"We don't know exactly what is necessary," explained Ald. James Bowler [25th], chairman of the finance committee. "But we do not want to be caught flat-footed. There is no emergency now, but we want to be prepared."

SAY NAVY YARD WORKER SOUGHT TO BLAST SHOP

Ohioan Is Arrested on Sabotage Charge.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 22 (AP).—A 42 year old American born navy yard worker was arrested today by federal agents on charges of sabotage, including the cutting on Dec. 8, of a power cable by means of which, a United States attorney said, he hoped to "blow up" a shop in which naval construction was taking place.

William P. Collins.

The prisoner, William Patrick Collins, who said he was a native of Cleveland, O., and had been working in the navy yard here for 16 years, first pleaded guilty to a charge of "injuring, interfering with and obstructing the national defense by cutting a cable used in connection with the operation of an acetylene cutting machine being used in the [Boston] navy yard."

High Bail Is Urged.

However, United States Commissioner Edward Donovan ordered him to change his plea to innocent. He set bail at $10,000 and continued the hearing until Jan. 6.

United States Attorney Edmund J. Brandon urged the court to set the highest possible bail on Collins.

"While we do not want to create a wave of hysteria," he said, "we are determined to make an example of this case, which is the first of its kind in this section."

Destroyed Much Oil.

The United States attorney said he expected to show that Collins had punctured holes in huge oil cans and had left oil spigots open, thus wasting "thousands of gallons" of the fuel.

He also contended that Collins had loosened bolts on machinery so that gears would fly off, and that he had burned identification numbers off key parts used in naval construction. In the past, Brandon said, the arrested man had committed acts effective enough to delay work for at least a week on naval vessels now in service.

Factory Worker Arrested.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 22 (AP).—Antonio Dominick Forti, 28 years old, was accused by a fellow worker today of turning valves that might have caused an explosion in a plant of the Lukens Steel company in Coatesville, Pa. Forti previously had been arrested charged with "intent to interfere with, injure, and obstruct the national defense program."

A Reno Divorce

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

MRS. BEVERLY PATERNO.

Reno, Nev., Dec. 22 (AP).—Mrs. Beverly Paterno was granted a divorce here today from Sergt. Joseph Paterno Jr., New York real estate heir now at Camp Davis, N. C. She charged extreme cruelty. She told reporters that an out of court settlement had been reached whereby she was to receive $25,000 cash and $25,000 in stocks and bonds.

Mrs. Paterno denied reports that she intended to marry Tommy Manville, asbestos heir, or any one else. Mrs. Tommy Manville No. 5 is now in Reno, establishing residence at the same hotel where Mrs. Paterno has been staying. Mrs. Paterno said she met Mrs. Manville and found her "very charming."

The Paternos were married at Armonk, N. Y., March 24, 1936. Mrs. Paterno said she understood her husband would marry Mrs. Janet Malley Compton. Mrs. Compton was divorced here last May.

PLAN TO DRAFT FACTORY LABOR IS CONSIDERED

Pay Scale Would Compare with Army, Navy.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—Some high officials are toying with the idea of establishing a "war production corps" consisting of those unable to serve in the military forces, it was disclosed today.

This plan would put men in factories and plants and other jobs to aid in increasing production of war materials. They would be asked to work for wages corresponding with those of the army and navy.

The "corps" would consist of those rejected for active military service because of physical disqualifications or else above the age of 44.

Reports Knox Favors Plan.

It is understood that Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox is among those favoring the plan, altho it has received considerable opposition from other quarters.

Reaction from one OPM official was that it sounds "fantastic." He observed that army and navy personnel are granted maintenance—room, board, and clothing—along with their base pay and that similar allowance would have to be made civilians enlisted in the corps. Labor unions could also be expected to oppose the plan bitterly, as they would not favor cheap nonunion labor working along with union members on a high wage scale.

A special committee was appointed today by Federal Security administrator Paul V. McNutt to draft a program of "vocation rehabilitation" of war veterans and civilians to alleviate present and postwar hardships. The committee is headed by Watson Miller, assistant Federal Security administrator and includes representatives of other government agencies. Representatives of labor and management will be added later.

Officials think that eventually it may be necessary to take able bodied workmen in war industries for military service and replace them with men ineligible for service and women, as well. This is part of the program to be worked out by the committee.

Labor Accepts Thomas Plan.

Meanwhile, on the war labor front there were other developments. Labor representatives participating in the joint labor-management conference accepted a 3 point plan for uninterrupted production of war materials as proposed by Senator Elbert D. Thomas [D., Utah] associate moderator of the President's conference.

The plan calls for [1] no strikes or lockouts for the duration of the war, [2] peaceful settlement of all labor disputes, and [3] establishment by President Roosevelt of an agency to administer a program of uninterrupted production. Management had not accepted the proposal when the conferees recessed for the night.

Closed Shop Ban Sought.

Spokesmen for three leading farm organizations today urged in a statement to the labor-management conference that the closed shop be outlawed for the duration of the war.

The statement was signed by A. S Goss, master of the National Grange; Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and John D. Miller, president of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives.

SMOKING ON JOB DISPUTE TIES UP TANK ARSENAL

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 22 [Special].—The army tank arsenal operated by Chrysler corporation was tied up temporarily today because of a dispute over smoking by workmen. A no smoking rule has been in effect since the plant was opened.

The company said 38 employés began smoking at midnight and foremen ordered them to leave. Within two hours a large number of the approximately 1,500 men on the night shift departed and the plant was closed at 3 a. m. The day shift went to work as usual this morning.

Many of the employes are members of the United Automobile Workers [CIO]. Union stewards said there had been no authorization for a walkout. A company statement said the no smoking rule was established because of fire hazard.

U. S. RATIONING VITAL IMPORTED DRUG SUPPLIES

Chemical Shortage Due to Far East War.

Large government purchases of medicines for lend-lease shipments abroad and for our armed forces, in the face of reductions of some basic material supplies, are straining the resources of the drug industry, a survey revealed yesterday.

Opium, called the "most abused and most valuable drug" in its rôle of pain alleviator, is imported from Turkey and China. Immediate supplies of opium are not endangered as the government has amassed a two or three years' supply.

Morphine, the leading opium derivative, is being rationed by drug firms. However, one Chicago hospital which ordered and received five ounces was compelled by the government to return the entire amount.

E. R. Squibb & Son reported no menthol crystals are being shipped. Used in cough syrups and lotions, menthol is made of oil of peppermint, most of which came from Japan. The supply is about 10 per cent of the normal quantity.

Cod Liver Oil Shortage.

Cod liver oil is another common item which has reached the critical stage. After Norway was removed as principal supplier Canada stepped up its production but recently placed an embargo on the oil.

"Since our navy patrol was established we have been getting cod liver from Iceland but the Icelanders no longer want to risk meeting submarines, said a spokesman for Squibb.

"As the largest users of cod liver oil, it's a good thing that we have enough in stock for this winter," he said.

There is a serious shortage of vitamin A obtained from tuna and halibut livers of which Japan has been the main source.

A company which is the principal manufacturer of ether reported the government's demands for alcohol for use in munition making has doubled its price. Priorities assure sufficient alcohol for ether, however, it was said, and many whiskey manufacturers are converting their stills to produce pharmaceutical alcohol.

Quinine Supply Adequate.

Agar, a base for laxatives, is made of Japanese seaweed and hence is virtually stricken from the drug list. However, an industry spokesman did not regard this as of prime importance.

The supply of quinine is adequate, but as in the case of opium, only because of government buying during the last few years. Ergot, derived from a rye fungus in Spain and Russia, will not be available, it was said. One of the largest drug manufacturers said zinc oxide, used in skin ointments, is limited to shipments of one pound to a customer.

Arsenic, chief ingredient in compounds used in treatment of syphilis, is being back-ordered because of unprecedented government purchases.

The "sulfa" family of drugs responsible for medical miracles in recent years are awaiting new plants for a fully sufficient supply. When the plants are completed the supplies will be ample.

All Drugs Scarce.

Reagents for synthetic compounds of some vitamins are almost unobtainable, it was reported. Potassium permanganate, used in building nicotinic acid for vitamin B, is required for munitions.

"All drugs and medicinal chemicals are scarce," one spokesman said.

The manufacture of surgical instruments, now that European imports are cut off, is progressing satisfactorily, according to a spokesman for V. Mueller & Co. Favorable priority ratings assure materials for instruments altho brass must be substituted for aluminum and copper in some instances. The variety of instruments has been reduced in number.

"We have increased production 200 per cent since the war started," the Mueller spokesman said. "Our chief difficulty is in training workers more rapidly for precision methods in manufacture of instruments."

Marquette Queen

MARY JANE MONROE.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 20 [Special].—Mary Jane Monroe, Milwaukee, a junior in the Marquette university college of liberal arts, today was announced as the queen of Marquette's 1942 junior prom to be held on Feb. 13. Miss Monroe, a member of Kappa Beta Gamma sorority and of the Intersorority council, will be the partner of Eugene J. Cramer, 1025 W. 76th street, Chicago, a junior in the Marquette school of law and the prom king.

BURGLARS LOOT APARTMENT.

Morris Podolsky reported to police yesterday that burglars broke into his apartment at 3329 Crystal street and took his naturalization and immigration papers, a shotgun, life insurance policies, and four shares of stock.

GUNS, BAYONETS GUARD WELDERS IN SHIPYARDS

Few Are Reported Out in West Coast Strike.

BULLETIN.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 23 (AP).—The army announced tonight that troops had been withdrawn from San Francisco bay area plants where the Independent Welders' union had placed picket lines in an autonomy dispute with the American Federation of Labor. The announcement said troops would be available for further duty at the plants "if need for them arises."

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—Soldiers, armored cars, police, and counter-picket lines confronted welders today as 495 workers walked out of eight San Francisco bay shipyards and a magnesium plant in an inter-union dispute.

Picket lines here were the only response to a call for a nationwide strike by the United Welders, Cutters and Helpers, to force recognition of their independent organization.

In Washington, Sidney Hillman, associate director of the OPM, said that "when American ships are being sunk and enemy subs lurk off our shores, the strike of some welders in west coast shipyards is a shocking act of disloyalty to the nation."

300 Out at Todd Yard.

The 495 strikers represented about a fifth on the 2,578 employed in the nine plants, Dean Jennings of the office of emergency management's division of information, reported.

Three hundred failed to report at the Todd-California shipyard in Richmond, Cal., where armored cars and trucks mounted with machine guns flanked 300 soldiers carrying fixed bayonets.

"The army is here for one purpose—to see that any man who wants to go to work will be given the opportunity," said Maj. Gen. Charles H. White, in command of the troops. "The right to picket will not be infringed."

Insistence of Todd-California that the men pay dues to AFL unions in accordance with the closed shop contract precipitated the strike call.

Troops and armored cars also appeared at the Richmond Shipyard. Fifty-six of 400 welders failed to report there. Other soldiers guarded the Pacific Bridge company's yard in Alameda and the Western Pipe and Steel plant in South San Francisco.

50 Pipe Welders Quit.

At the Permanente Magnesium plant near San Jose, 50 pipe welders failed to report but welders in other categories went to work.

Other affected plants were Bethlehem Steel company yards in Oakland and Alameda, General Engineering and United Engineering. All reported operations at or near normal.

Similar reports came from the California Shipbuilding corporation and the Consolidated Steel company in Long Beach. United Welders in Seattle postponed any action at least until Tuesday.

TWO IN ALIMONY ROW SPURN YULE GIFT OF FREEDOM

Every Christmastide the county jail's alimony row prisoners go before the judges who committed them. If they promise to resume their alimony or support payments they usually are granted their freedom.

Yesterday five men came before Judge Joseph Sabath. And—surprise!—Edmund Zabalewicz, who had been in alimony row since Sept. 26, didn't want to get out. "I like it in jail," he said. "I have everything a man could wish for and no worries."

Zabalewicz and Joseph Sargin of 653 West 120th street, who also did not appear to be interested in freedom, were both sent back.

Three others were released: Oscar Mumford, 2108 North Keeler avenue; Sigmund Pluskota, 1344 North Artesian avenue, and Fred Battle, colored, 3842 South Park avenue. Mumford was committed last July 2 for being in arrears $8,175 on payments to his divorced wife, Margaret.

Four other men committed within the last month by Judge Sabath had no hearings. Judges Rudolph Desort and Thomas J. Lynch will consider the cases of another 25 alimony row inmates today.

ILLINOIS HOUSE READY TO PASS MILITIA BOOST

May Reach Agreement on State Police.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 22—Three major developments today highlighted the work of the special legislative session called to bolster state defense. They were:

1. The house prepared to pass, tomorrow, the $5,000,000 reserve militia appropriation, which would make it possible to increase the military arm of the state to 10,000 officers and men, and the $750,000 appropriation for the state council of defense.

2. Governor Green's leaders marked time on the administration's bill to increase the state police force from 350 to 1,000. Hope is that Democratic resistance to this measure will be withdrawn following a meeting in Chicago today between Mayor Kelly and members of the city council.

3. The senate advanced to third reading the bill to give the governor a $3,000,000 contingent fund, to be used either for war defense or to combat disasters or epidemics.

Seek to Divert Gas Tax.

Tonight the legislators received word that the Chicago city council had adopted a resolution requesting a second special session be called to grant the city permission to divert not more than $3,000,000 of its share of the gasoline tax for municipal defense needs.

The governor has indicated that if the call for the present meeting is not broad enough to cover the city's problems, he would summon a second, concurrent session.

This circumstance might change the present political aspect of the session, or at least relax some part of the Democratic opposition to the police bill, which the governor thinks should be passed in order to augment the mobile fast moving highway force.

Democrats Want More Militia.

The Democrats, on the other hand, think that the militia should be increased beyond 10,000 if that is desired—rather than to have 650 jobs added to the state pay roll.

"One policeman can do a great deal in a hurry," the governor told reporters today, "but it takes time to get the militia into action."

House Democrats tried without success today to secure an admission from Adj. Gen. Leo M. Doyle that he needed more than 10,000 men, and that the armed force could function better in wartime emergencies than the police. Try as they did, the admission was not forthcoming.

Filibuster Methods Charged.

By suggesting that amendments to all bills be printed before they are voted upon, the Democrats also called down upon their heads a charge of using filibustering tactics—the phrase of Reed F. Cutler [R., Lewistown]. Printing amendments slows procedure by one day.

In the senate, Richard J. Barr [R., Joliet], dean of the legislature, was aroused to the point of accusing the Democrats of playing politics when they picked away at a measure to permit Rodney H. Brandon, director of public welfare, to hire attendants to do the work of nurses, whose services he cannot secure. A shortage of nurses affects most state institutions.

"Let's cut out this political stuff," Barr exclaimed. "Three thousand American boys were killed two weeks ago. Our soldiers need nurses. Let us follow the recommendations of our governor for the good of the country."

M'HALE ASCRIBES HIS WAR DEAL TO PATRIOTISM

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 22 [Special].—Patriotic motives inspired his investment of $25,000 in stock of the Empire Ordnance company from which he has as yet received no return, Frank McHale, Indiana Democratic national committeeman, said in a statement issued today.

McHale's statement was in reply to a denunciation of his connection with the company given out last week by Ralph E. Gates, chairman of the Indiana Republican state committee, following revelations before a senate investigating committee in Washington that the company was organized on a $150,000 shoestring and now holds shipping and munitions contracts with the American and British governments totaling $38,000,000.

"I am proud to say that I am a stockholder in the Empire Ordnance company and furthermore to state that I have not received one dollar in dividends or profits since my connection with the company, nor has the company paid any," McHale asserted.

THE QUESTION.

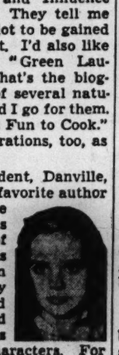
What three books would you like best to receive for Christmas?

WHERE ASKED.

Kroch's Book store, Michigan avenue.

THE ANSWERS.

Charlotte Klewitz, secretary, 4032 North Western avenue—I'd like Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People." They tell me there's a lot to be gained from that. I'd also like Peattie's "Green Laurels." That's the biographies of several naturalists and I go for them. And to top it off—"It's Fun to Cook." It has some nice illustrations, too, as a special inducement.



Madell Hegeler, student, Danville, Ill.—Walt Disney's my favorite author right now and I'd like to have three of his books. His "Dumbo of the Circus." That has Timothy the Mouse in it, too, and he's very popular right now. And the "Life of Donald Duck." I like biographies of such well known characters. For the third one I'd like "Fantasia" with color illustrations.

Alan Gardner, bookseller, 733 Montrose avenue—Hugh Walpole said if he were to have but one volume of fiction it would be Proust's "Remembrance of Things Past." That's my choice, too. His works are complete in two volumes, so I'd like both of them. For my third book I'd like the "Treasury of Gilbert and Sullivan." It has the operas complete—music and all.

Audrey McGowan, secretary, 1335 North Austin boulevard—The three I'd like are all the same type—all travel guides. I'd like the three latest ones out on California, Maine, and Hawaii. I hope to go to all three places some day and I want to know all about everything when I get there so I can be my own travel guide.

Nevin J. Stevenson, representative for Dodd-Mead, publisher, Upper Montclair, N. J.—If that offer includes every kind of book there is I'll limit my choice to three very usable little books. First, a bank book with a lot of figures in it. Then a check book, so I could make good use of the bank book. And third, a travel book, so I could make good use of all three.

Henry Ericsson, general contractor, 534 Surf street—I've just written a book myself of my own experiences in building in Chicago. It's "60 Years a Builder." The publisher just won't give me enough copies, so if Santa would bring me three extra ones I'd have that many more to give to my good friends and then we'd all be happy.

Shirley Moore, student, 903 George street—First I'd like "It's Fun to Cook." It's very simple and easy to follow and has beautiful illustrations. I'm also interested in entomology and there's a swell new book, "Insects," that just came out, so that would be my second choice. And if I could have "A Treasury of Art and Masterpieces" I'd have a beautiful reproduction of every painting from the Renaissance until today.

DEFENSE BONDS WORTH $35,495 SOLD BY JUDGES

Christmas buying is keeping the sale of defense bonds and stamps at a high level, Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen said yesterday. Daily sales in Chicago set a new record of $370,000 Friday.

Municipal court judges began selling defense securities yesterday morning and by the end of the day they disposed of $35,495 worth of bonds. Judge J. M. Braude was high with $25,525, and Judge Joseph Sabath of the Superior court, a "guest" in their drive, was second with $5,100.

Chicago's 100 Coreans have purchased $6,000 in defense bonds, according to J. William Lar, executive chairman of the local chapter of the United Corean Committee of America. Lar said Coreans consider themselves independent of Japan and have their own provisional government in China working for the defeat of the Japanese.

STRIKE TIES UP 3 CHICAGO BUS LINES; 250 OUT

80 Runs Canceled; Others Asked to Quit Today.

Stoppage of three Greyhound bus lines operating out of Chicago was forced late last night by a strike called against the Central Greyhound company by the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employés [AFL]. About 250 men ceased work and some 80 scheduled runs were canceled.

The lines tied up last night were those to St. Louis, Detroit, and Grand Rapids-Muskegon, Mich. Union officials said 12 hours' notice had been given to employés on other subsidiaries of the Greyhound company, operating north and northwest from Chicago, to go out in sympathy today. About 150 men and some 50 runs will be affected if the men answer the call.

200 to 300 Stranded.

The sudden cessation of service left between 200 and 300 prospective passengers, many of them soldiers, milling in confusion in the loop terminal on Randolph street and at the Union bus terminal at 12th street and Wabash avenue.

At the company's garage and dispatching center, 3418 Cottage Grove avenue, buses from the lines affected arrived at intervals, were taken in, and the drivers then walked out. No buses were reported left on roads or streets.

Union's Charges.

The strike was called in Cleveland, O., after nearly three weeks of negotiation. The general contract expired on Dec. 1, according to the union, and a new one was agreed upon and ready for signing when, on Dec. 3, the company is alleged to have hired Negro women to take the place of washers and cleaners in the Cleveland center at a scale 20 cents below the wage paid to men maintenance employés.

Federal conciliators held conferences over the week end in Washington, D. C., where further meetings are scheduled for tomorrow.

COUNCIL HANDED 1942 BUDGET AND DELAYS ACTION

The city council yesterday received the proposed 1942 budget from the council finance committee and deferred action on it until the next meeting, Jan. 5. A public hearing will be held Dec. 30.

The budget, including all funds, totaled $166,138,734, or $2,603,889 more than this year. The corporate, or operating fund, totaled $55,329,439 or $752,498 more than this year. Increases in this fund were attributed to several items not in the 1941 budget, such as primary and general election, $600,000; fund for civilian defense, $500,000; appropriations for the Service Men's center, Auxiliary center, and Defense headquarters, $115,018.

The following table gives the 1941 appropriations and proposed appropriations for 1942 for the various funds:

Fund.	1941.	1942.
Corporate	$54,576,941	$55,329,439
Water	15,040,789	15,712,161
Water certificates	11,200,000	13,506,300
Bond funds	5,024,863	4,434,550
Vehicle tax fund	5,548,284	6,252,315
Motor fuel tax fund	12,760,000	17,320,000
Traction fund	24,975,975	19,033,814
Judgment tax fund	1,250,000	1,250,000
Bond redemption	13,155,435	12,842,135
City relief	4,821,423	4,890,570
Library	2,800,000	2,775,000
Tuberculosis San.	2,940,320	2,610,000
Pension funds	9,049,315	8,939,450
Other funds	382,500	343,000
Total	$163,534,845	$166,138,734

Ald. James Bowler [25th], finance committee chairman, said the proposed budget provides for a reduction of $40,000 in the appropriation for the law department.

Tonight Price left by plane for Mississippi to make arrangements for the wedding. Miss O'Hara will leave Wednesday by plane.

Dairy Union President Fined $50 for Assault

Howard Floyd, president and business manager of the Elgin Milk Wagon Drivers' union, was fined $50 and costs yesterday by Justice David B. Trott of Maywood. Floyd was held guilty of assault and battery on Helmuth Miske, nephew of Oscar Miske, proprietor of the Maywood Farms dairy, last Nov. 28.

MUNDELEIN FARM YOUTH REPORTED MISSING BY NAVY

Lewis L. Meyer.

Lewis L. Meyer, 21 year old gunner's mate, was reported missing in a navy notification received yesterday by his father, John J., a Mundelein farmer. Lewis enlisted in the navy two years ago and recently had been stationed in Hawaii.

Word was received yesterday by Mrs. Jacob Nesler, 115 College street, Elgin, that her brother, Bruce D. Bradley, 19, had been reported missing in action. Bradley was a seaman aboard the battleship Arizona which was sunk Dec. 7. The official notification was sent to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bradley of Paw Paw, Ill. Bradley attended Elgin High school and made his home with his sister until he enlisted in the navy in October, 1940.

Mrs. Helen L. Noble, 1357 East 83d street, received her "best Christmas present" yesterday. It was a cablegram from her son, Frank, a government employé at Pearl Harbor, and a former army sergeant, that he and his family were safe.

Burglars and Fire Attack Office at the Same Time

Fire and burglars struck at the same time yesterday at the Chicago Furniture Mart, Inc., 320 South Michigan avenue. The burglars arrived first, cracked open the safe, and took at least $700, according to Earl Goldboss, company president. While they still were searching the office, fire broke out on a third floor stairway and caused $5,000 damage. The burglars left their tools behind in their flight when the fire started.

Behind a closely guarded curtain—in secrecy and silence—500 engineers, technicians and mechanics worked 4 years to perfect America's greatest aerial weapon—the formidable Douglas B-19 super-bomber.

Even 82 TONS can FLY!

"A bird is an instrument working according to mathematical law, which instrument is within the capacity of man to reproduce... deficient only in the POWER of maintaining equilibrium. We may therefore say that such an instrument constructed by man is lacking nothing except the life of the bird, and this life must needs be supplied from that of man."

LEONARDO DA VINCI

WHEN THE B-19 LEFT THE GROUND, and flew, the theories of Leonardo da Vinci came to a thrilling climax... Fully loaded, the B-19 weighs 82 tons. But its 8,000 horsepower, fed by 11,000 gallons of gasoline, flies the B-19 7,500 miles non-stop!

Are 82 tons the limit? Of course not. What power can do with 82 tons, MORE POWER can do with even greater weight and bulk. Fuel, engines, propellers—not lack of weight—are the secret of flight that gets somewhere.

* * *

Advertisers who use The American Weekly, the magazine distributed nationally through 21 great Sunday newspapers, experience, in their business, the lift and forward thrust of unrivalled POWER.

They learn that, for long flights, with heavy loads, there is no substitute for the volume of selling power which The Weekly releases in 7,323,945 homes (A. B. C. figures for 3 months ended March 31, 1941).

For full throttle, they use one or more cycles of BIG COLOR PAGES in The American Weekly. With these power units a business, no matter how big, "has its nose up." The controls are set for climbing! For example:

The advertising of the Parker Pen Company has appeared in The American Weekly every year but two since 1925. It is a consistent user of BIG COLOR PAGES. The December 7 back cover was the third Parker Pen BIG COLOR PAGE to appear in The American Weekly during the past eight months and the order has already been placed for color-page advertising in 1942.

The management of the Parker Pen Company believes that dealer support is vital to the success of its advertising and thousands of window displays are regularly provided by small retail stores and big department stores throughout the United States.

Advertisers with less weight to lift—or those who are "cruising"—get the power they need from regular continuity of smaller color units in The Weekly—or these interspersed with black-and-white advertisements—or black-and-white space alone, ranging down to 28 lines. Regardless of size, the POWER is there—for these smaller advertisements also reach 7,323,945 homes—the greatest mass market of all time, at the lowest cost in the history of advertising.

1942 will be a POWER YEAR such as America has never known. The opportunities will be great—but the loads will be enormous. The advertiser who is hoping and planning to "keep his nose up" with dribbles of power—a little magazine, a little newspaper, a little radio, a little outdoor—would do well to pause and consider, right now, the feeling of confidence that would shoot through his organization if the POWER of The American Weekly were under his throttle hand.

Remember, The American Weekly audience alone is big enough, and will buy enough, to take the entire output of most products for years to come!

* * *

The proof is ready—a major presentation, entitled The Advertising Dollar. Compact. Clear. Conclusive. It can be presented in three-quarters of an hour. And the advertiser who plans for '42 without this vital three-quarter-hour of preparation will miss the most cogent grouping of facts that can be brought to bear.

4 SEIZED IN NEW RAID ON BOOKIE 'NERVE CENTER'

Police Break Down Door with a Crowbar.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Another "nerve center" of the Guzik gambling syndicate was raided yesterday by Capt. John Cartan of the Desplaines street station and Detectives Lawrence Welch and James Fitzgerald, who broke down a door with a crowbar when refused admittance to an office above a garage at 1345 Jackson boulevard.

Capt. Martin McCormick.

They arrested Herman Yaffe, 43 years old, 3827 Grenshaw street, and Abe Schwartz, owner of the garage, as well as Irving Berman, 45, of 5215 Woodlawn avenue and David Seigel, 43, of 3820 Adams street, whom they found hiding under automobiles on the first floor. Gambling paraphernalia, including racing sheets and a daybook, also were seized.

Telephone Wires Traced.

The police were led to the garage by tracing telephone wires from the closet of a rooming house at 1333 Jackson boulevard, half a block away. Mrs. E. L. Doyle, 85, operator of the rooming house, told them the room and closet were rented for $30 a month by a man whose name she does not know. Capt. Cartan said he received a tip that the "nerve center" was in the rooming house, and that when he picked up the receiver of one of three phones in the closet he heard voices.

The garage office had two switchboards and 10 telephones. First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley said he would take Yaffe and Schwartz before the grand jury today.

The grand jury yesterday used State's Attorney Courtney's own records of gambling places that were open in Chicago and the county last year, as well as lists supplied by the Chicago Crime commission, during the questioning of Capt. Martin McCormick and Sergt. Tom Lee, former heads of the morals squad which Commissioner Allman disbanded a week ago.

Skidmore Influence Hinted.

Courtney said that in none of the raids conducted under the direction of McCormick and Lee did it appear that the intent actually was to halt gambling, except in rare instances where some outside influence had been brought to bear. He said he was seeking to determine if that influence was that of William Skidmore, reputed fixer for the syndicate.

It was learned that a comparison of Courtney's or the Crime commission's records with those of the morals squad showed that the day after the squad made a raid the gambling place often was doing business again.

Prosecutor Courtney explained that he had been investigating the prevalence of gambling since the series of ax raids made by his office two years ago. He said he was able to place certain interpretations on the raids made by the morals squad, taking into consideration the dates they were made and the methods used. He said he also had evidence about the lax presentation of evidence in gambling cases.

Accusing 'the Other Woman'

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Anita Little (left), who had just been granted a divorce, confronting Everett Little and an unidentified companion outside courtroom.

A Court Tussle

Mrs. Anita Little, 23 years old, 4300 Drexel boulevard, was granted a divorce on the ground of cruelty by Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday, but that did not end her marital battles. Outside the courtroom she got into a tussle with the husband she had just divorced, Everett Little, 40 a garage operator, and with an unidentified woman accompanying him.

"That's the woman who broke up my home!" said Mrs. Little. "Everett always brought her home to annoy me and the children at crazy hours of the night."

Mrs. Little was granted the custody of the children, Carol, 4, and Morris, 2, and $10 a week for their support. The Littles were married in 1936 and they separated last June 17.

MAN, 80, COLLAPSES, DIES.

An unidentified man about 80 years old collapsed yesterday in front of County hospital and died a short time later.

PAROLES GIVEN IN YEAR DOUBLE THOSE OF 1940

Crime commission records disclosed yesterday that more than twice as many convicts were paroled to Chicago sponsors during 1941 than in 1940. Milton H. Summers, superintendent of supervision of parolees and member of the five man board which grants paroles, said the increase results from three factors:

1. It has been easier to find jobs for convicts this year, and a job is a requisite for the freeing of a prisoner.

2. Several hundred of those freed this year had been made eligible for parole under the previous administrations of Gov. Horner and Gov. Stelle.

3. Under the Horner administration the board continued until 1941 numerous cases on which it hesitated to act, preferring to wait until after the election of a new governor.

Rudolph W. Dvorak, acting director of the crime commission, and Fred Pretzy, chief clerk, said records they are compiling for the year show that nearly 1,300 Joliet, Stateville, and Pontiac prisoners have been released in 1941. Last year 622 were paroled.

Accused of Chasing Girls in Park; Faces Mental Test

A mental examination was ordered yesterday for Charles Oyen, 39 years old, 6753 Oshkosh avenue, when he was arraigned before Judge Thomas A. Green in Shakespeare avenue court on a charge of disorderly conduct. Police charged that he had chased girls in Hanson park. Oyen denied this. Judge Green fined him $200, but on Dec. 30 will hear a motion to vacate the fine.

LIE TEST FAILS TO LINK RAPIST WITH SLAYING

Grand Jurors Will Hear Evidence Today.

David R. Steffey III., named by 23 women and girls as the young man who either had raped or attempted to rape them, yesterday was subjected to a lie detector test concerning the murder of a northwest side mother of twins. The test tended to reaffirm previous convictions of the police that Steffey was not involved in the murder.

Steffy, 18 years old and a first year student at Wilbur Wright Junior college, was seized Saturday night in a store in the vicinity of some of his crimes. The 23 women and girls identified him as their assailant at a police showup in the Albany Park police station Sunday night. Steffey admitted raping three of the women and trying to rape the other 20.

Woman Murdered Dec. 13.

The murder about which he was questioned during the lie detector test was that of Mrs. Bergit Kyvik, 43, who was killed Dec. 13. Her body was found next day in an empty lot at East Ravenswood and Thome avenues. Steffey's home is at 4818 North Kostner avenue.

After taking the test in police headquarters, Steffey was removed to the state's attorney's office. There he was examined by Julius Sherwin, an assistant state's attorney, to whom he made a formal statement concerning his crimes. In it he repeated in detail what he earlier had admitted to police.

Evidence will be presented to the grand jury today. On instructions of Chief Prosecutor Wilbert F. Crowley, Sherwin will seek separate indictments on each of the three rape complaints. The plan then will be to prosecute Steffey in each case, and pyramid the convictions, if possible.

Wants Mental Test.

Attorney Ben Ehrlich, retained as defense counsel, said he would demand that the state alienist subject Steffey to a mental examination. Police said the move implied that insanity will be Steffey's chief defense, but Ehrlich refused to commit himself.

Steffey, in recounting his crimes, screened his story with phrases and theories gleaned from his reading of philosophy, and from the records of the murder trial of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb.

In a self-analysis, Steffey suggested he was affected by the superman theories of Nietzsche, yet intimated he suffered from an inferiority complex.

TAVERN OWNER SLAIN WHEN HE OBJECTS TO DOG

Farrington Constable Held for Murder.

Salem, Ill., Dec. 22 [Special].—A dog's desire to mingle with dancers on a tavern dance floor resulted today in one man being dead and another being wounded and a third being held in jail on a charge of murder.

The man slain was Harry L. Mercer, 39 years old, owner of the tavern, who objected to the dog's terpsichorean antics. The prisoner is Jasper Donoho, 50, a constable in Farrington township of Jefferson county.

Chief Deputy Sheriff L. R. [Pete] Rhodes of Marion county said the following account of the affair was reported to him:

The dog, a screw tail bull, was brought to the tavern by its owner, Gail Bond, a farmer, who was accompanied by Constable Donoho and the latter's cousin, Roy Donoho.

Dog Wandered Among Dancers.

The three men sat a table drinking beer and permitted the dog to wander among the legs of other customers trying to dance. Mercer finally objected and told the men they would have to take the dog out of the tavern or he would put them out. They refused either to leave or to control the dog.

The tavern owner then put them out. But they decided to return. Mercer met them at the door and pushed them back a few feet from the tavern. Suddenly the constable drew a revolver and began firing.

Owner Shot to Death.

Mercer fell with three bullets in his stomach, one of them having been fired at such short range he was burned by the powder. Hearing the shots, Sammy Gaston, a bartender, ran out of the tavern. Donoho shot at him, the bullet striking him in the forehead and inflicting a scalp wound.

The two Donohos and Bond were taken into custody immediately and placed in the Marion county jail. However, Roy Donoho and Bond were released after Assistant State's Attorney Robert M. Crain obtained a warrant charging murder against the constable. A coroner's jury recommended that Jasper Donoho be held without bail for grand jury action.

SENTENCES 'MAID' TO 6 MONTH TERM ON THEFT CHARGE

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, 72 years old, who sought jobs as a maid and then allegedly stole from her employers, was sentenced to six months in jail by Judge John V. McCormick in Felony court yesterday. The charge was petty larceny. Mrs. Smith was accused of working for a week as a maid in the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Ruetsche, 6312 Hyacinth avenue, and then disappearing with $35 in cash and two rings valued at $200.

Snowed under this Christmas?
Yes...in spite of all we can do!

LAST Christmas Eve and Christmas Day so many people telephoned their greetings to friends and relatives that Long Distance calls to many points were SIX times normal.

This year holiday calls will go far beyond anything in history! We've done our best to prepare for it. Extra operators, special workers and others will be on duty Christmas—in addition to our regular forces. We've added new facilities just for this occasion and more lines and equipment will be in service than ever before. And we'll do our best to complete your calls.

But, we are, of course, deeply concerned with the increased necessity of keeping adequate lines open at all times for the big job of winning the war.

We know now that some Long Distance calls will be delayed—a few perhaps for long periods. For these, we ask your patience and understanding.

Thank you... and Merry Christmas

ILLINOIS BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

HOW YOU CAN HELP

1. Please call by number—if you know it.

2. If your call is delayed, it is not necessary to call the operator again. She will call you the moment it is ready.

3. Extend holiday greetings early and avoid the rush. Call today, if it will suit your purpose.

GOOD FELLOWS GO ON ERRANDS OF CHEER TODAY

Armed Forces Also Will Be Remembered.

For the 32d time in as many years, the Good Fellows of Chicago this morning will start their march of good cheer and Christmas joy into the homes of the city's needy. Almost at the break of day some of the 2,500 well filled baskets that will be distributed on the first day will be on their way.

And the Good Fellow visitations will be only one phase of three great campaigns for Christmas giving sponsored this year by THE TRIBUNE. The other two were intended to brighten the holidays and supply comforts for the nation's valiant fighting men who will be away from home.

Surprise Gifts to 21,100.

More than 21,100 soldiers, sailors, and marines will receive surprise gifts from 17,944 big hearted Chicagoans and midwesterners who enlisted in the "Adopt a Yank for Christmas" drive. The gifts range from shaving and toilet kits to watches and portable radios.

For men of the armed forces who are stationed in America's outposts, there are many thousands of packages of cigarets and cigars arriving at their destinations for Christmas distribution.

These were supplied by donors to the "Smokes for Yanks" campaign. More than $5,500 in cash and smoking supplies were contributed. The cash was used to buy additional cigarets at the lowest prices possible.

On Errands of Cheer.

Since 1909, when the Good Fellow movement started, there have been thousands of these jolly gentlemen from all walks of life. This year again their ranks will include Good Fellows who will complete their errands of cheer in limousines as well as those who, perhaps, will not be much richer in worldly goods than the families upon whom they will bestow their baskets.

The day's biggest ceremony will be that of the Aviation Good Fellows at 10 a. m. at Chicago airport. A program will precede delivery of more than 300 baskets. C. S. [Dusty] Miller will be master of ceremonies and E. J. Galbos will direct.

Today also the Chicago Rotary club, with 500 members, will deliver their Sunshine-Good Fellow baskets. Tomorrow the Traffic Club of Chicago will distribute 400 baskets from the Chicago Tunnel Terminal company warehouse at 754 Jackson boulevard. At 1 p. m. the Chicago Motor club will make a large distribution.

Fraternity Good Fellows.

Yesterday's big event was the luncheon in the grand ballroom of the La Salle hotel of the Fraternity Good Fellows, attended by several hundred men, representing 20 college fraternities. The title of "Typical Fraternity Mr. Good Fellow of 1941" was conferred upon Norwood Burch, 535 Brier street, Kenilworth, class of 1922 at Northwestern university, a Sigma Chi.

Another event of the day was the Sixth Annual Good Fellow Carol Sing, presented by 400 high school students at 4:15 p. m. in the audience studio of W-G-N. Erhardt Bergstrasser, choral conductor at Wilbur Wright Junior college, directed. The massed chorus was organized by Dr. Helem Howe, director of music in the Chicago public schools, assisted by Capt. Howard Stube, bandmaster at Tilden Technical High school.

Hundreds of names remain on the rolls at Good Fellow headquarters. The names represent families who are hoping that at the 11th hour, additional Good Fellows will appear to carry Christmas cheer into their homes. And there is still time. The Good Fellow office is in THE TRIBUNE'S public service office, 1 South Dearborn street, and the telephone number is Superior 0100.

3 MONTHS' TERM FOR REFUSAL TO TESTIFY UPHELD

Ruling Recalls Collapse of Gangster Case.

A sentence of 90 days imposed last April on Herbert Schultz, 26 years old, of Stewardson, Shelby county, for refusing to answer certain questions in the trial of his cousin, Walter Appelt, was affirmed yesterday by the Illinois Appellate court.

Appelt was tried on a charge of murdering Joseph R. Lorenz, whom he had suspected of stealing his wife's affections. He was acquitted. While Appelt was being sought, he visited Schultz downstate and allegedly admitted having shot Lorenz.

Schultz told the grand jury of that alleged admission, but refused to repeat it before the trial jury on the ground that he might incriminate himself. Judge Joseph Graber sentenced him for contempt. The Appellate court in its opinion asserted that Schultz's "sole and only purpose to defy the court and refuse to answer was his own desire to protect his cousin from prosecution."

Recalls Gangster Trial.

The decision in the Schultz case recalled the trial of Frank Nitti, Capone gangster; Murray Humphreys, and Louis Romano, in which the prosecution collapsed because George B. McLane refused to repeat the charges he had made against them before the grand jury. This was the notorious Bartenders' union case.

McLane was business agent of the union. He told the grand jury that Nitti and the others had seized control of the union and its rich treasury. The accused men were placed on trial before Judge John F. Bolton in Criminal court in November, 1940, charged with conspiracy.

Refuses to Testify.

McLane, regarded as the state's star witness, refused to testify against them on the ground that he might incriminate himself. Judge Bolton upheld him. Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, was then forced to abandon the prosecution and the defendants went free Dec. 2, 1940.

Crowley said last night that he might have obtained a conviction had McLane been required to testify. The prosecutor said there is no way of reopening the bartenders' union case, but that the Appellate court's decision would put teeth in future prosecutions in which witnesses refuse to testify.

DEATH CALLED ACCIDENTAL.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the case of Josephine Perrito, 2 years old, who fell from a third floor apartment at 9 West Pearson street Sunday while her mother was answering the phone.

CHARGE FORMER POLICEMAN WITH THEFT OF $5,000

A warrant charging embezzlement of $5,000 was taken out yesterday in Felony court against George J. Weber, 52 years old, a former policeman and former vice president and assistant treasurer of the Chicago Patrolmen's Federal Credit union.

Weber, a policeman for 31 years, resigned Nov. 6 after a shortage allegedly was discovered in his accounts. According to Daniel Andrews, president of the organization, and Herbert Dalton, executive officer, Weber denied taking the money, and asserted any existing shortage occurred thru general carelessness.

The police credit union was established in 1938. Its assets amount to $500,000. Weber was under $80,000 bond, Andrews said, and the shortage will not affect the union treasury.

U. S. BOY SCOUT PROGRAM ADDS AVIATION RANKS

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Boy Scout training was extended today to cover thoro preliminary training in aviation.

Dr. James E. West, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, said senior scouts would be given an opportunity to qualify for the rank of air scout observer, air scout technician, and air scout craftsman.

As in Great Britain and Canada, the program will not involve actual instruction or experience in flying. Subjects to be offered include history of aeronautics, a study of engines, instruments, navigation, and weather, and supervised visits to airports and factories.

Gas Stations Will Close at Noon Christmas Day

Most of the citys' 2,500 gasoline filling stations will be closed at noon Christmas day, it was announced yesterday by Bradley M. Provis, president of the Gasoline Retailers' association, so that 10,000 filling station employés may spend the rest of the day with their families. Some of the stations will reopen at midnight.

John Lashley, one of the 10 month old Lashley quadruplets of Louisville, Ky., meets a teddy bear at a Christmas party for John and his three sisters.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 22 (AP).—The Lashley quadruplets were guests at a pre-Christmas party today and were all agog at their first sight of the glittering tree and toys around it. The 10 month old quads—Mildred, Martine, John, and Beaulah—had an exciting time in the nursery for a while, altho Beaulah was all tears at first.

Times Square Will Have Usual New Year's Eve Fete

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine set at rest today fears that the war would prohibit the traditional gathering in Times square on new year's eve. After consulting with army officials, Valentine said crowds would be permitted to gather in the famous theater district as before. For years Times square has been the midnight mecca for thousands bent on saying adieu to the old year and welcoming the new year.

THIS MAY START BUMS' RUSH FOR DEFENSE BONDS

Don't be surprised if a panhandler steps up to you and says, "Say, Bud, yuh gotta dime for a defense stamp?" There is a new economic policy on West Madison street. It started this way:

The first case yesterday before Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green in Desplaines street police court was that of 62 year old Nickola Boyogiess, a Bulgarian. He had been found asleep in a Madison street gutter during a pouring rain. But Boyogiess had $598 in the bank.

Arraigned last Friday before Judge Green, Boyogiess was told that if he bought a $25 defense bond he would be discharged. Yesterday he showed Judge Green a $50 bond.

"What's more, judge, I'll sink all my dough in defense, if you say so," Boyogiess said, as he shuffled off to the postoffice to apply for his first citizenship papers.

Henceforth, Judge Green announced, he will not fine minor offenders, but, instead, will sentence them to buying defense bonds or stamps. Thus began West Madison street's new policy.

20 UNION LEAGUE CLUB EMPLOYES FETED AT DINNER

Officers and directors of the Union League club sat down to dinner last night with 20 employés as their guests, employés who have served the members for more than 20 years.

Eleven of the directors hadn't been born when John L. Enright, assistant manager, went to work for the club 53 years ago. However, there are seven who were members when Enright went to work as a checkroom boy.

Oldest in point of service among the women was Mrs. Bessie Frank, who soon will end her 25th year as custodian of the club's priceless library. Mark Twain and William Dean Howells were her friends.

President Ferre C. Watkins presented each employé with a club service pin.

TWO ABANDONED CHILDREN FACE A LONELY DEC. 25

Donna Dye, 6 years old, and her 18 month old sister, Josephine, faced a lonely Christmas yesterday as police continued the search for their mother, believed to be a Mrs. Ellie Dye, who abandoned the children Sunday in a rooming house at 2204 Orchard street.

Josephine was being cared for in St. Vincent's orphanage. Donna was taken to the juvenile home. Their crying Sunday morning prompted an investigation by the landlady, Mrs. Rosine Brucker, who discovered the abandonment and called police.

She told police the apartment had been occupied by a couple giving the name of "Mr. and Mrs. Best." A note in the room asked that the orphanage be called. It was signed with the initials E. D. Correspondence in the room contained the name of Mrs. Ellie Dye.

He's got a bigger job now...

TIME WAS when we could urge this boy, and thousands like him, to use our typewriters and fit himself for a better job. But he's not buying typewriters today. He's got a bigger job . . . the biggest job a man can have. And well he knows how our hopes and prayers march with him.

So this advertisement is not to him, but to millions of stay-at-homes . . . and perhaps it is not even an advertisement. Maybe our typewriters can help you with your daily work; whether they can or not, the point is that we all have that daily work to do. Beside the job given to these boys of ours, our jobs seem small and dull . . . but never in our country's history have they meant so much.

Some millions of us are helping directly, in mines and fields and shops. The rest of us can only do each day's task as it lies before us . . . do it the best we can . . . and then find more to do. Our part is to keep things going at home for these boys of ours. And no hand is fast enough, no day long enough, to do all that we want to do.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."
—Stephen Decatur.

THE NEED FOR CRITICISM.

Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr., in his capacity as chairman of the Republican national committee, has pledged the full support of his party to the successful prosecution of the war and precisely for that reason has insisted upon the preservation of the two party system. There will be no division on the necessity for winning the war, but the right and duty to expose incompetence, inefficiency, and complacency wherever they may be found in the government will not be waived.

This is as it should be. Criticism is always wholesome, but never more so than in time of war. Nothing but criticism, alert, vigorous, and unrelenting, can be counted upon to shake the self-esteem of the burocrats. Their instinct in war as in peace is to hold their jobs by playing safe, to do the things they have always done in the ways they have always followed. If lack of energy and errors of judgment on the part of public officials are allowed to pass unnoticed, the war will be needlessly prolonged and it may be lost.

The country and its navy would be much better off today if the navy had been subjected to sharper criticism in the months before the war. The admirals would not have been so complacent about the impregnability of their out of date battleships. The Japanese attack would not have found any admirals and generals in bed, the army's airplanes would not have been destroyed on the ground, and the anti-aircraft weapons would have been fully manned when the first wave of enemy bombers came over.

It is too late to undo the destruction of Dec. 7, but if similar incidents are not to occur again and again criticism must be encouraged. Burocratic complacency is by no means the least of our national enemies.

PAY AS YOU ENTER.

William Fulton's informative articles on the United States base being established in the British crown colony of Newfoundland demonstrate that altho this country has assumed the defense of the colony and of Canada's front yard, Americans are still regarded as Good Time Charlies by their neighbors. The rule in dealing with a G. T. C. can be stated simply. It is, "Pluck him."

The Newfoundlanders insist on exacting import duties and war taxes on goods sold in the USO recreational building, where American troops seek a little light and cheer after their bleak days out in the wintry fogs that roll in from the Atlantic. Cigarets, with duty, cost 32 cents a pack, and other things are in proportion. An American Legion post organized among construction workers from the states had to abandon its plans for a Christmas party for the poor children of St. John's because the colonial government refused to permit the toys to enter duty free.

Perhaps it is human nature that impels the Newfoundlanders to clean up while their American cousins are around, but we have a right to demand better treatment. Not only are we undertaking the defense of a vital bastion of the British empire, but our expenditures have done much to improve the prosperity of a land that was down and out when we came. Most important, we have freely given the products of our war industries to imperial forces everywhere, and have asked no quid pro quo.

SHIPYARD STRIKES.

The flower of complete coöperation in industry that bloomed so luxuriantly the day after Pearl Harbor has begun to droop. The most serious of the new strikes and threatened strikes is that of the welders in the shipyards and other defense plants on the Pacific coast.

Until the garrison in the Philippines has been rescued, any man who strikes on naval construction deserves to be regarded a traitor. Congress, if necessary, should provide the same penalties for such strikes as are provided for mutiny in the army or navy in time of war. Whether such legislation is passed depends to a very large degree upon the wisdom of the leaders of labor. It will be better if the country can avoid repressive legislation in the labor field as well as in all other fields of domestic activity. But if it is shown that the legislation is needed, the country is certainly in a temper to back congress in passing it.

THE OTHER SIDE OF 28.

The draft bill excludes all young men under the age of 20 and calls men thru the age of 44. It is hard to say which is the greater error—refusing the young or insisting upon the old.

If the nation is to call up all men within the age limits for active service as soon as their numbers are drawn and unless there are strong reasons for deferment, we are going to have a badly mixed army. A 40 year old will be marching shoulder to shoulder with a 20 year old. Their physical capabilities and fighting abilities will differ greatly.

We cannot afford to have a lot of 40 year olds falling out of a march or action from fatigue and cutting the combat force in two. The army must be composed of the young and strong. Professional optimists may have fattened their pocketbooks by assuring the world that life begins at 40, but all military experience shows that men beyond 28 or 30 do not make good combat troops.

They are past their physical peak, they are inclined to be cautious when the demand may be for audacity, and they are likely to come to the army molded by a routine that may hinder them in learning to fight. Their steadiness and judgment may be useful in some military duties, but other circumstances will tend to outweigh these attributes.

Congress reached this conclusion when it revised the original conscription bill to relieve from service all men who had passed their 28th birthday. If congress was right then, why is it wrong now? Apparently because it has an eye on next year's elections and did not want to alienate parents and particularly mothers by calling up the youngsters who would make the best soldiers.

There is no better material for the army than the youth of 18 or 19, who has physical buoyancy, adaptability, and courage, and who is accustomed to obey. It is probable that in the long run congress will have to amend its views and take in the younger man, particularly if our eventual effort depends largely on air power, as it must. The air service now refuses to take men beyond 26 because others have not the resilience and speed of response necessary for the service. The ground services impose greater strain than the air.

The minimum age should be lowered to 18 and the maximum to 28. The safety of the country and the kind of world the youngsters themselves inherit depend upon our having the best army we can raise. That is a youthful army.

HITLER AS A GENERAL.

The "inward call" which Adolf Hitler said he had answered in assuming personal command of the Nazi army is the most significant confession yet of the Russian successes. It is a dangerous step for Hitler, but for the very reason that it is such a dangerous step it should give the world fighting against him reason to temper its optimism.

The world has been saying that dictators cannot stand failure. To an extent this is true. They certainly stand it less well than a democratic government. The spirit of England was raised, not lowered, when Churchill replaced Chamberlain. On the face of it, Hitler has done more than seemed necessary in accounting to his people for the Russian reverses. In a democracy it would have been sufficient to have sacked the commanding general.

But since the commanding general, Von Brauchitsch, bore Hitler's imprimatur, it seems to have been required not merely that he should be replaced but that the man who placed him in power and certified him to the people should himself take command, as an assurance to the Germans that all henceforth will be well.

Obviously, if Hitler meets further reverses his position with his own people will be greatly damaged. Obviously, also, he knows this. There is little in his record to date to prove that he is one to take uncalculated risks. His assuming the supreme command, it is true, may be a measure of desperation, but until we have further facts it will be wise not to raise hopes too high. There is the possible alternative that Hitler has assumed command because he feels that the worst is over and that soon he will be able to present the German people with new successes.

Those who cherish the notion that Hitler is approaching the end of his rope might do well to read about a little known war on the South American continent some 70 years ago. It was the bloodiest war in Latin American history. It lasted for five years. Lopez, the dictator of Paraguay, involved that tiny country in a simultaneous war with Argentina, Brazil, and Uruguay. In addition to being a bloody tyrant he was a conceited and incompetent military commander. Yet his power over his own people was so complete that when they finally turned on him and killed him there was hardly an able bodied man left alive in the country and the population of Paraguay was, according to different estimates, one-third to one-sixth of what it had been when the struggle started.

Hitler, if his ill fortune continues, may be depended upon to be such a fanatic as was Lopez. It is not a question of the German people's refusing to follow him but a question of his ability, thru the world's most perfect machine of oppression, to force them to continue to do his bidding. Let us not make the error of assuming that all henceforth is to be easy merely because the Nazis have met reverses. If there is a German collapse, let it come as a pleasant surprise. For our own security we must assume that the struggle ahead will be long and stern.

THE SHERIFF'S POLICE.

The recommendation of the county efficiency survey that the sheriff's force of 145 county highway policemen be abolished and its work taken over by the state police is constructive. It is a suitable answer to Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien's preposterous argument that he must be given 200 additional policemen because of "national defense." The recommendation deserves to be acted upon at once.

The conduct of the county highway police has been scandalous. Its former chief, Lester Laird, was driven from office because of his penchant for dining out with William R. Skidmore, who is known as the front man and fixer for county gambling. Laird has run off to Florida at a time when the grand jury investigating gambling is trying to lay hands on him. One of his lieutenants, Fred Hager, has been ousted after ducking out of town.

A series of highway police witnesses called at Skidmore's trial for income tax evasion presented a sorry spectacle as one after another was called upon by Skidmore's counsel to deny that he was a grafter. Some persons may decide that Sheriff O'Brien is being pursued by his usual misfortune in being burdened with such a force. Others may choose whatever interpretation pleases them.

The legislature and the Circuit court judges' committee on help should determine without further delay whether the state police can take over the patrol of unincorporated parts of the county before new county appropriations are voted. Gov. Green may be overplaying national defense himself in asking that the state force be increased from 350 to 1,000 men, but if additional personnel is authorized the changeover should be its justification.

Money will be saved by eliminating duplication of function, and the new state policemen, selected with care, are certain to be an improvement over the old county force. At least, it can be expected that they will be strangers to gamblers and crooks.

Editorial of the Day

THE WEIGHT IS MOVING.

[Illinois State Journal.]

Some time since, Floyd B. Odlum, director of contracts distribution, was quoted as declaring: "We will overwhelm Hitler and his creature nations and all they stand for with the very weight of metal."

The prophesy is supported by the season's record of Great Lakes ore shipments. More than 80 million gross tons of iron and copper ore from the region were delivered to the smelters, topping all previous records by 15,000,000 tons.

We hope Mr. Kurusu doesn't think he can be of further use to his government by sticking around Washington. The next United States-Japanese peace talks will be held in what is left of Tokio.
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

It is supposed that among friends, like the 12 cosigners of the anti-Red pact, Ribbentrop lays his marked cards on the table.—Winnipeg Tribune.

TIME FOR TREE WORSHIP.

Christmas trees began to gleam early this year. Places of public resort, of course, are always early starters, but the domestic trees also have rushed the season. Many were installed, ornamented and lighted last Saturday evening, and thus were in time to celebrate the prehistoric festival of the Return of the Sun, known to us moderns as the shortest day in the year, or winter solstice.

* * *

"Flowering Earth," by Donald Culross Peattie, contains a flash of insight into the symbolic value of the evergreens. The literary botanist says, in effect, that civilization has an instinctive urge to refresh its spirit among the forests of the high hills or high altitudes. He himself fled from the exotic gardens of Santa Barbara to seek the sequoia cathedrals of the Sierras. . . . Moreover, the pine and its numerous cousins are more useful to the human race than any other form of vegetation.

* * *

The old school schedule for the lighting of the tree, so far as firesides are concerned, is from Christmas Eve to Twelfth Night.

* * *

Charles Dickens' longest stretch of Christmas tree description—a full-length fantasy in essay form—calls it "that pretty German toy."

* * *

The trees for the holiday trade came into Chicago, within the memory of many citizens now hale and hearty, in lake schooners. The Christmas tree fleet was, indeed, quite a sight of the river front. But now prosaic motor trucks haul the trees down from northern Wisconsin and Michigan, and woodsy fellows who hewed them down are often the merchants in charge of the vacant lot markets. When the Linemaster buys his Christmas tree he always selects a salesman in a lumberjack's shirt.

A CAROL OF CANDLES.

["And God said, 'Let there be light.'"—Gen. 1,3.]

O, bring ye candles slim and tall
And shaped for lovely light,
To set by door and hearth and hall
Their beams, and build a radiant wall
Against the night.

For bravery, crimson candles bring,
That shine as do men's eyes
When danger draws its tightening ring,
And death is like a tiger's spring
For sheer surprise.

Bring next those waxen spires of green,
The hue of April's bough,
That token hope, whose flame serene
Was never thru fear's darkness seen
So clear as now!

And last, for proud, pure symbols of
The truth that sets men free,
Bring snow-white candles, and above
Set these, to cheer with prayer and love Humanity.

Thus shall our shrines of Yule be lit
With a hushed and holy spell:
Each taper there a borrowed bit
Of beauty from the infinite
Where angels dwell!

Biography of a Pet.

From a litter of boisterous, fuzzy and clumsy puppies you pick one that appeals to you, then it starts.

His trousseau consists of a collar, ball, and rubber mouse, whose tail is soon chewed off, as are the straps on the wife's best new slippers. You nurse the pet thru his childhood diseases, extract burrs from the little paws, carry him when he gets tired and goes on a sitdown strike on the sidewalk. His cute ways are many: The first bark, the frantic whoofing when he sees himself in the hall mirror. The successful try to get his paws up on the table.

You cannot get mad at the pup, even if he chews at your pet pencil, upsets a clothes hamper, or drinks out of the tropical fish tank. The attachment is mutual: He watches at the window for members of the family to come down the street, then joy unrestrained. In owner's illness he is sympathetic and refuses to budge from underneath his bed. . . . If there be a dog heaven the little fellow will be there, greeting new arrivals with lusty whoofs. C. O. R.

THE JAUNTY JAGUAR.

(The 50th Brookfield Ballad.)

Altho he's not spectacular,
Let's stop and watch the jaguar.
To suit his own convenience
He lives in forests deep and dense;
He climbs with ease, knows how to swim,
And covers ground with speed and vim;
He robs bird's nests, he catches fish,
And deems small mammals quite a dish;
So all in all he fares quite well,
And if he spoke I think he'd tell
The secret of success is still
To keep awake—and versatile.

Quizzicuss.

The Indians of Chicago, 1941.

"Hey, mister! Buy a bottle of good old Indian snake oil for your grandma for Christmas." . . . I turned to see a tall stalk of loveliness in an abbreviated Indian squaw costume and the shapeliest shanks imaginable. She held a bottle toward me, "Only a quarter, and how about an Indian mustard plaster?"

I bought one of each and queried, "Isn't this a new version of the old time medicine show?" She smiled, "This seems to sell 'em faster," and indicated her short skirt.

I hurried home and looked up the census figures. I found that about 600 full blooded Indians make Chicago their home. So I thought, wouldn't it be nice if I could bring all 600 of them together for a powwow, have them make a chieftain eagle feather headgear, wampum and all, and to title me Heap Big Chief Loud Mouth as they do the movie stars? Chet Swital.

Overheard at a Traffic club luncheon:
"Elizabeth is going to cancel her reservations for Miami because she does not want to be that close to Manila." Traveluster.

It's a curious thing—the favorite exclamation of the year among humorists has been "Boom!"

IMPROVE THE DIET IN RAYNAUD'S DISEASE.

RAYNAUD'S disease is characterized by blanching of the fingers, toes, the tip of the nose, the lobes of the ears, etc. In consequence, the affected areas become as white as paper. While cold is a factor, the malady must not be confused with frostbite, wherein the tissues are actually congealed because of freezing.

The episodes are likely to be observed following exposure or fatigue, altho the symptoms may not persist for long. On visiting the physician's office there may be no visible manifestations and, only from the story as related by the patient, can a diagnosis be made.

As a rule, seizures come suddenly and women are more likely to be affected than men. In a sense, the paroxysms can be likened to chilblains because, after the pallor disappears—as it will shortly—the parts become bluish, later red.

Early detection is important because, unless something is done, actual changes in the blood vessels may occur, with complete blockage. Furthermore, the skin may become fibrous and there is considerable likelihood that lime in the bones of the fingers, for example, will be reabsorbed.

Until recently, no remedy has been suggested which will prove permanently effective, other than training the blood conduits to maintain their caliber [thru the use of heat] and protecting the parts with clothing. Certain drugs have also been employed to dilate the capillaries. Sex hormones likewise have been administered because it was found that there is a marked remission of symptoms during pregnancy.

Because of our greater interest in diet and all of the problems of nutrition the question has been raised, may not this ailment—along with many others—be traced to some food failure? Recently, in a report by Spiegel, a number of individuals afflicted with Raynaud's were subjected to high vitamin feedings. All the sufferers were instructed to prepare diaries so that the total daily intake in calories could be measured and the vitamin supply calculated. An inventory of these figures showed that out of 21 victims, only three were receiving enough C, one adequate A, and one sufficient B complex.

These patients were then given capsules containing either B complex, or a general mixture of all the lacking elements. In addition, the minerals were increased. Within a week, all but two stated that the sense of well being was enhanced. Within 14 days, many asserted that their extremities were considerably more comfortable. In fact, the fingers and toes looked normal in shade. They were warm to the touch, and the pre-existing clamminess had diminished.

At this stage sieges were still possible but the bloodless appearance was not so extensive. As progress continued, the severity of the attacks abated until redness was the only sign remaining.

The doses of the vitamins were large, several times the ordinary requirement. As soon as B complex was omitted some members of the group experienced a relapse. Our author states that 15 obtained complete relief altho many were obliged to continue the food accessories. If further trials bear out Spiegel's conclusions, many will have occasion to pay homage to these aids to a balanced menu.

RETAINING FLUID.

M. G. L. writes: What is meant by fluid in the tissues?

REPLY.

This is commonly referred to as "edema" or "dropsy." It may be confined to the extremities or involve the entire body.

NO DANGER.

Mrs. O. B. writes: Can cancer be caught by wearing a watch that belonged to some one who had this disease?

REPLY.

Not the slightest danger.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, The Tribune.

WORK OR FIGHT LAWS.

Hanover, N. H., Dec. 19.—As the labor-industry conference meets in Washington to draft a basic war labor policy, it ought to be clearly understood by every one that this is an important step toward insuring against stoppages, but not a substitute for legislation in this field.

For legislation is surely needed. It is too much to expect of our labor leadership that they will enforce a no-strike agreement which lacks the force of law. Britain relies largely upon patriotism to insure all-out production, but the law is there, to be used upon the slothful or the self-seeking minority.

Let no one be so optimistic as to think that the ardor which burns so hotly today will carry us thru this struggle, unaided by work or fight legislation. Too many of us are unable to see that victory for our cause is related to the hard and faithful performance by every one in the land, day after day. We must be denied the right to lie down, individually or collectively, whether we are employers, employés, independent artisans, or professional persons. JOHN P. TROXELL,
Professor of Industrial Relations, Tuck School, Dartmouth College.

SERVICE MEN AND TAVERNS.

Elmhurst, Ill., Dec. 17.—As a veteran of the last war and in the interest of the young men in service today I take exception to the expression of one of your contributors that men in uniform should be barred from taverns and other places of drink.

As one who knows from experience the folly of this policy I object. Advocates of such a narrow idea simply do not know what they are talking about. It would be far better that these activities be governed by the respective branches of the service. Such a restriction upon a young man leads to far worse conduct.

In Rockford the too good people will not permit the proper conduct of ballrooms, such as we have here in Chicago, with the result that I have seen men in uniform forced into taverns to listen and dance to the jute boxes and what else? If the good people would come out of their shells, face facts, and deal with others with a tolerance toward human nature much more would be accomplished toward their aim. E. C. S.

UNITY IN OUR COUNTRY.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—It was with much feeling that I read the editorial "At War with Germany, Italy, and Japan." Altho I have not agreed with some of your writings relative to our going into another World war, I feel that the surreptitious action of Japan has done more to weld a divided people into one grand unit, yes, to make them in truth what our motto says, "E pluribus unum," than any one incident I can think of this morning. We are all, young and old alike, offering our lives as well as money on the altar of sacrifice to win an everlasting peace for the whole world.

I hope this expensive lesson we are teaching to the world in this effort will have a continuous beneficial effect here on our own shores, after we have accomplished what we have started out to do, in really making us one with every group here. DR. K. DAVID CAMMACK.

KOREANS IN AMERICA.

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 17.—In the present situation of our country, when it is so necessary to protect ourselves against enemy aliens in our midst, the writer has been gratified at repeated expressions of hope that aliens who are not inimical might, as far as possible, be spared from molestation.

It is the small group of Koreans in Chicago, about a hundred in number, to whom especial attention is called. Korea, one of the oldest countries in the world, was the first victim of modern aggression, being forcibly annexed by Japan in 1910, and for 31 years has suffered the kind of administration you would expect at the hands of Honolulu's attackers.

From the repressive atmosphere of Korea to the freedom of America it is like coming into a new world, and no group of aliens among us could be more appreciative of what they find here than are these Koreans. And none could be more anxious than they to aid the American cause.

This letter is from one who has spent many years in Korea, and feels that he is capable of speaking for these affable, intelligent people whose spirit the last 31 years have failed to break.
E. W. ANDERSON.

PRISON GUARDS' PAY.

Joliet, Ill., Dec. 17.—Being a prison guard at the Illinois state penitentiary, Stateville branch, I got a hearty laugh out of the comparison of the policeman's pay with that of a civilian. Compare the prison guard's lot with that of your husband and then thank your lucky star. The prison employé took a 10 per cent cut during the depression and had only five per cent restored, his pay still being the lowest of any of the public servants. A guard receives $1,425 per year, subject to 24 hours duty, works eight hours a day for six days a week, can get time off without pay for very slight infractions of numerous rules, and has to take a lot of 'guff' not only from the convicts whom he supervises but has no "face" in the eyes of the very public he serves to protect. The police receive $2,140 yearly to start, sick leave with pay, two weeks vacation and a retirement pension for future security. PRISON GUARD.

NEGROES WANT TO AID DEFENSE.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—The executive committee of the American Consolidated Trades council has declared support of the President and of all defense agencies at a meeting Dec. 15.

Our message read: "The skilled Negro building trades workers who compose our membership offer you a reservoir of labor that has been untapped, to assist in wresting victory from the aggressor nations."

E. L. DOTY, Secretary,
The American Consolidated Trades Council.

WHERE WERE OUR PLANES?

Richland Center, Wis., Dec. 20.—This morning's Tribune tells of the heroism of Second Lieutenants Welch and Taylor during the Japanese attack on Hawaii on Dec. 7. The war communique is quoted as follows: "Both officers showed great initiative, presence of mind, and coolness under fire against overwhelming odds." In view of the fact that probably not more than 150 planes constituted the attacking force, it certainly is humiliating for any American to be told that such a force constituted "overwhelming odds." We have been led to believe that Pearl Harbor was perhaps the strongest base in the world and that thousands of planes were available for its defense. Where were they? FRANKLIN E. FOGO.

MUNITIONS AT TULA.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—In connection with the communique from Russia that the route Moscow-Tula is quite free from German invaders, it is interesting to mention that Tula was the place where the corner stone of Russian munitions making was established. In 1632 a Dutchman, Vinius, organized a metallurgical establishment near Tula. All the ammunition produced was supplied to the state.

MORTGAGE OBLIGATION.

Racine, Wis., Dec. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People].—1. Can a mortgage be outlawed in Wisconsin after a certain period if there has never been any interest paid or principal payments? The principal signer has been dead for 17 years.

2. Can heirs be responsible for it?

3. Can an outsider purchase a tax receipt without notifying all heirs of estate?

4. Is it legal to just notify one of them?

5. If the address of one of the heirs is not known can the proceedings be delayed until he can be located?

6. On the notice of application for tax deed is it legal to have just one of two names of heirs on the copy? L. M.

1. Yes.

2. The facts that you state would not be conclusive.

3. Yes. In some cases, personal notice to all of the heirs would be impossible.

4. We cannot advise to advantage without having a narrative statement of the facts on which your question arises. In addition, it probably would be advisable to have a personal interview with an attorney.

5. What proceedings?

6. To answer these detailed questions it would be necessary for us to examine books that are not available in our own library. If we are to do this, we should have your facts before us.

SEEK $3,935,000 SANITARY BOARD BUDGET INCREASE

Proposal Bared at Public Hearing on Funds.

A tentative increase of $3,935,000 in appropriations for the 1942 sanitary district budget was made public yesterday at an open hearing of taxpayers and civic organizations.

The budget and the proposed increase have not been approved by the board of trustees. The money would be used to construct additions to the southwest sewerage treatment works at Stickney, according to J. M. Mercer, sanitary district engineer.

Cites Two Large "If's."

"Those plans hinge on two large 'if's,'" he declared. "We may never use those appropriations. The if's that stand in the way are: First, if we can purchase the materials, and second, if we can sell our present bonds at a fair price."

Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the Civic federation, said in a statement made to the sanitary district at the hearing yesterday that the federation has advised at previous hearings the reduction of the number of trustees from nine to three.

"The administrative record of the present district régime has been good, not because of the cumbersome organization, but in spite of it," he said in his report.

Without leveling any criticism at the total sum asked in the proposed increase, Sutherland declared, "This increase is due entirely to jumps in the appropriations for the bond and interest in construction bond funds. The $1,000,000 increase in the corporate levy [from $5,400,000 to $6,400,000] was necessary in our opinion, to finance essential increased activities, and increased costs, and to make up for a large item of nonrecurring revenue available in 1941."

Criticizes Proposed Hirings.

The report did criticize, however, the budget provision for appropriation of $19,126 for the hiring of seven secretary-stenographers as secretaries of the trustees. It approved the elimination of an assistant senior attorney in the legal department, at a saving of $7,425. Sutherland added that "substantial further cuts could and should be made in the law department's budget."

The tentative appropriations for 1942 total $46,273,000. Sutherland urged that work be started on the "installation of a completely coördinated and fully integrated system of general, budgetary, and cost accounts."

LICENSE TRACED; TWO SEIZED IN STORE HOLDUP

Two men accused of holding up a store at 6754 Stony Island avenue and slugging the owner, Max Brown, were in police custody last night within two hours of the crime. They are Nathan Weiner, 29 years old, 705 Independence avenue, and William Kavinski, 31, who has no permanent address. A woman who witnessed part of the holdup told police the license number of the car in which the bandits fled. The car was traced to a sister of Weiner, who said she had lent him the machine to look for a job. Police waited for the car at a public garage at Fillmore street and Central Park avenue, and arrested Weiner and Kavinski when they appeared.

CAROLERS PAY HONOR TO HEAD OF HULL HOUSE

Despite the cold drizzle last evening, 70 members of the Hull House Neighbors sang Christmas carols beneath the windows of 1430 Astor street, the home of Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, Hull House's most devoted friend since the days of Jane Addams. For the last five years the Neighbors, who come from all walks of life and are of many nationalities, have paid this tribute to Mrs. Bowen. They were rewarded last evening at her annual reception at which both she and Miss Charlotte Carr, head resident of Hull House, presided. Mrs. Bowen has been president of Hull House for many years.

Open 2d Half of Grade Separation at Belmont Av.

The second half of the new Belmont avenue grade separation on the Outer drive was opened yesterday afternoon for rush hour traffic. The project, on which men were working up until several minutes before the opening, completes the express Outer drive highway from Jackson park to Foster avenue. The 15 mile stretch originally was authorized in 1929.

Mean Man, or Gay One, Steals Christmas Tree

Some one with no Christmas spirit whatever—or too much—stole a Christmas tree, complete with lights and decorations, early yesterday from the porch of a home at 6528 South Bishop street.

PEDESTRIAN HIT IN UNDERPASS BY 'AUTO DIES

John Dwyer, 42 years old, of 6417 South Artesian avenue, was killed yesterday when he was struck by an auto as he was walking in a railroad underpass in 63d street near Hamilton avenue. The driver was Frederick Winkler, 19, of 6122 South California avenue, a student home for the holidays.

Max Siegal, 45, of 1643 South Trumbull avenue, died in the Franklin Boulevard hospital shortly after being hit by a car as he walked across the street in front of 734 North Central Park avenue. The driver was Elmer Stelzriede, 18, of 1846 North Albany avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 941 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 664 were killed in Chicago where 25,730 were injured in the same period.

Council Defers Action on Night Parking Ban

The city council deferred action yesterday on a traffic committee recommendation that wintertime night parking be banned on 14 thru traffic routes. Ald. George D. Kells [28th], chairman of the traffic committee, said the proposal is a step toward improving the night parking problem and recommended its passage. Several aldermen whose wards were affected said they wanted time to study the proposal.

GEN. CUMMINS' YULE MESSAGE CARRIED ON W-G-N

A Christmas message from Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Cummins, commanding general of the 6th corps area, was broadcast over W-G-N on the "Your Army" program yesterday by Chaplain Robert Lee Logan, assistant to the chief chaplain of the area.

"This war and all the wars in which the army has engaged," said Gen. Cummins' message, "were not started by soldiers. Soldiers hate war because they know it so well and see it face to face. War comes because sacred rights are violated, or because aggressors become greedy, or when dictators outrage every sense of decency.

"At this season, we of the army join with civilians in dedicating ourselves to the supreme ideals of Christmas, the restoration of peace on earth, and the establishment of good will among men."

The Fort Sheridan a cappella chorus, directed by Private Stuart Cooper, a former orchestra player of Joliet, sang Christmas music. This group was organized by Lieut. Lynn Fairbanks of the Fort Sheridan staff, formerly manager of KFIZ, a Mutual network station of Fond du Lac, Wis.

FIREBUG BEATS DEATH; MAY FACE ARSON CHARGES

John Pustavrh, 22 years old, confessed Waukegan firebug who was awarded a stay of prosecution last March because physicians believed he was dying of tuberculosis, was discharged as cured from the Lake County Tuberculosis sanitorium yesterday. State's Attorney Harry A. Hall ordered the young man held in the Lake county jail to await a sanity hearing. If Pustavrh is found sane, Hall said, he will be prosecuted on charges of malicious burning of two Waukegan churches and several other buildings.

CHRISTMAS FOOD PLENTIFUL, THO HIGHER IN PRICE

Shoppers Get Advice on What to Purchase.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

American homemakers will be able to "set a good table" as usual on Christmas day. The cost of the food will be higher than it was a year ago, but there'll be plenty of food.

Even tho prices are higher there are larger supplies of many traditional Christmas foods than a year ago. Supplies of Christmas foods which are larger this year than last include turkeys, roasting and broiling chickens, sweet potatoes, oranges, walnuts, filberts, and cranberries. That adds up to plenty of Christmas cheer, doesn't it?

Chicken is usually a first choice of Christmas diners who had turkey at Thanksgiving. Roasters are a good buy and supplies are relatively large right now. Broiling chickens will be a better buy a little later in the season.

Tom Turkey Suggested.

If you're in the group that will have its turkey on Christmas day, buy a tom and get out your turkey leftover suggestions. Toms are not only lower priced per pound, but also have more meat per pound than hens. Even 20 pound birds will fit into the average sized oven. Very small families would find it impractical to buy so heavy a bird, of course, but the average family can deal with leftovers in short order.

Duck and goose also are available for shoppers who want to serve something other than chicken or turkey. Beef, lamb, and veal, as well as smoked hams and picnics, are all good buys this week.

So much for the meat of the meal. This year sweet potatoes are a better buy than whites. All sweet potatoes are unusually low priced and you may choose from the Nancy Hall, Jersey, and Puerto Rican varieties. If white potatoes are your choice, look to cobblers for the best buy.

Vegetable Outlook Good.

The vegetable outlook for the holidays is good. Broccoli, carrots, and tomatoes are all a little lower in price. This brings carrots and broccoli back down into the reasonable class and makes one feel a little more kindly disposed to tomatoes, which are still plenty high priced.

Cauliflower is quite a bit cheaper this week, making this food a pretty good buy.

You'll find the price tag is slightly higher this week on radishes, white potatoes, cucumbers, brussels sprouts, and beets. Potatoes went down, but are up again now. Cucumbers are scarce as well as very high priced. Lettuce went up in price since last Friday, but dropped back down again, so that it's costing about the same this week as last.

Cranberries are a bit cheaper this week. Cranberries aren't any too plentiful, in spite of much heavier crops this year than last. It's getting toward the end of the season, tho, and cranberries don't enjoy much of a sale after the holidays. Therefore the tempting prices.

Michigan Celery Up.

Michigan celery, the kind used for celery hearts, is up in price this week. Those tempting green stalks of California pascal celery are unchanged in price.

Greens to take the place of lettuce in your salad bowl are escarole and chicory. These are both reasonably priced and good buys. They're less widely merchandised than lettuce, of course.

In fruits, oranges and grapefruit continue to be the top notch buys. Apples, avocadoes, and Christmasy tangerines are all moderately priced and pretty good buys. Bright red unpeeled apples and green avocadoes make a seasonable salad that comes in Christmas colors.

For fruit bowl variety there are a few persimmons and some winter pears and late California grapes. Rhubarb is available, and there are a few kumquats here from Florida. The kumquats aren't any too plentiful, but their price is moderate.

Strawberries Available.

Want strawberries on the table? You can have them, but be prepared to pay plenty for the privilege. They're selling at around 50 cents a pint on the wholesale market.

Almonds, so often an important ingredient in Christmas cookies, are very scarce and very expensive this year. But walnuts are plentiful and cost very little more than they did a year ago. While pecans are less plentiful than usual, there are many more of the popular "paper shell" variety around than a year ago.

Christmas trees, so the experts say, are plentiful and should be moderately priced this year.

Star-Studded Turkey Potpie

It's wonderful the way the Christmas spirit lasts and lasts even to the end of the turkey leftovers. This star-studded turkey pot pie looks pretty festive, doesn't it. To make it combine 2 cups leftover fowl, 1¼ cups milk or stock, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 2½ tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, ¼ teaspoon salt, and dash of pepper and a dash of paprika. Turn into greased casserole and bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven for 5 minutes. Then stir well and bake 5 minutes longer. Top with baking powder biscuit stars, which have been rolled about ¼ inch thick, giving the stew another stirring before putting on biscuits. Continue baking for 12 to 15 minutes or until biscuits are browned. This makes a nice little casseroleful—just enough to serve 4 persons.

Try This Oyster Stuffing for Christmas Turkey

Having turkey or chicken for Christmas dinner? Then consider this excellent oyster stuffing for the bird:

3 cups bread crumbs
1 teaspoon mixed dried powdered herbs
1 pinch grated nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons butter
1 pint oysters
2 eggs, well beaten.

Mix crumbs with herbs, salt, and nutmeg. Drain liquor from oysters and bring to boil. Add crumbs and butter. Heat oysters in double boiler until edges curl, then mince and add to bread crumbs, bind with beaten eggs. Stuff into fowl at once.

HOLIDAY SPIRIT IN THIS FROZEN TOMATO SALAD

For real holiday spirit freeze this salad in star or ring molds. It's pretty just cut in squares, tho.

FROZEN TOMATO SALAD.
1 teaspoon plain gelatin
1 tablespoon cold water
1½ cups canned tomato soup
3 ounces cream cheese
1 tablespoon onion juice
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup whipping cream.
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sliced stuffed olives
¼ cup finely diced celery

Soften gelatin in water for five minutes. Heat soup in double boiler and add cheese and softened gelatin. Stir until gelatin is dissolved and cool. Fold in whipped cream, mayonnaise, salt, olives, onion juice, and celery. Freeze in mechanical refrigerator, using star shaped molds if desired. When frozen, unmold. Garnish with bits of green pepper and place on bed of greens.

Jellied Cranberry Salad Is a Decorative Dish

Jellied cranberry salad in ring molds look like little Christmas wreaths on the holiday table. Try making them with orange flavored gelatin, using 1 cup crushed cooked or canned cranberry sauce, ½ cup crisp celery, and ¼ cup nuts for the "filler" and half orange juice and half water for the liquid.

SIMPLE HOLIDAY DINNER WILL BE A PATRIOTIC ONE

Foods Can Be Good Even if Not Elaborate.

BY RUTH ELLEN LOVRIEN.

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

This Christmas is not going to be a very happy one for any of us. There's no peace anywhere in the world. There are going to be vacant places at the table because the sons, husbands, and brothers are in the army or at sea. A huge dinner with lavish display of rich and traditional foods would be grossly out of place.

Our dinner must be a simple one, and I hope that many families will choose this Christmas to fill extra places at the table with persons who haven't any close family ties or can't get "home" for the holiday.

The foods can be very good, even if not elaborate. Plain dishes, perfectly cooked, often satisfy the appetite better than rich, expensive ones. Here's a "patriotic" Christmas dinner:

Economical Christmas Dinner.
Chilled Orange Juice
Smoked Picnic or Pot Roast, Cook in Cranberry Sauce
Mashed Sweet Potatoes Served in Orange Shells
Spinach Ring with Creamed Carrots and Onions
Celery and Pickles
Plain Hot Yeast Rolls, Jelly
Plum Pudding, Vanilla Sauce, or Apple Pie with Cheese
Coffee
Bowl of Nuts in the Shell

Use whole or strained cranberry sauce for the meat. If it's a smoked picnic you're cooking, bake it uncovered, and baste occasionally with the cranberry sauce. A beef pot roast always is cooked covered, in the oven or on top of the stove. Low temperature is the rule of either. About 325 degrees is correct.

Plum Pudding.
[Serves four.]
½ cup finely chopped suet
½ cup molasses
½ cup milk
1½ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon cloves
1 cup raisins or chopped prunes

Add molasses and milk to suet. Sift dry ingredients together and sprinkle raisins with a portion of the flour mixture. Stir mixtures together just enough to blend thoroly. Fill greased mold two thirds full and steam two and a half hours. Serve hot with vanilla sauce.

Vanilla sauce: Combine ½ cup sugar, one tablespoon cornstarch and 1/16 teaspoon salt. Add one cup boiling water gradually, stirring constantly. Boil five minutes, remove from heat, and add one teaspoon vanilla and two tablespoons butter.

SUES TO CANCEL PLANS FOR HIS OWN FUNERAL

And He Objects to Having Casket on Display.

Sebastiano Caruso, 58 years old, 817 Arthington street, did not like to have his casket used for display purposes after he had purchased it. In fact, he did not want it purchased in the first place, his attorney, John S. Charone, told Judge Cornelius J. Harrington yesterday.

Caruso is seeking to have the court declare void an agreement into which he entered with Ralph Salerno of 724 De Koven street, on July 22, 1940. Under the agreement, Caruso's Circuit court suit asserts, he was to pay Salerno $1,150, and Salerno in return was to make arrangements and pay for his [Caruso's] funeral.

Now Hale and Hearty.

At the time the agreement was made, Attorney Charone said, Caruso was ill and expected to die. Fortunately, the time for his funeral has not yet come. In fact, he is hale and hearty, Charone said, and is not as much interested in funerals as he was in July, 1940.

After hearing Charone's argument, Judge Harrington denied a motion to strike the suit, brought by Salerno's counsel. He ordered Salerno to file an answer within 20 days.

Caruso was under the impression that the $1,150 was to be placed in a trust fund, Charone said, charging that the money was actually used to buy a $600 casket and six bonds of Salerno's Building corporation, owner of the Rosario D. Salerno Memorial chapel building at 813-815 Taylor street.

Casket Put on Display.

Caruso's casket was then placed on display in the funeral home awaiting his death, it was charged.

The suit also asserts that such an agreement could only be entered into by a burial insurance society, that Ralph Salerno is not a burial insurance society, and that therefore his acceptance of the $1,150 was in violation of Illinois law.

An itemized list of funeral accessories to be provided at Caruso's death included the following: 11 limousines, $200; flowers, all six feet in height, at $15 for each display, to include one wreath with clock, an anchor, a cross, a broken heart, a broken wheel, and a lyre, and a ciborium de luxe, palms, and ferns, $25.

HAROLD TEEN—CLOUTING THE KIBITZERS

DR. DORNBLASER, CIVIL WAR HERO, PASTOR, IS DEAD

Helped Seize Davis; Succumbs at 100.

Services for the Rev. Thomas Franklin Dornblaser, 100 years old, who was one of the captors of Jefferson Davis, president of the confederacy, at the end of the Civil war, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in Grace English Lutheran church, where he formerly served as pastor.

Dr. T. F. Dornblaser.

Dr. Dornblaser died Sunday in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mabel E. Phillips, with whom he lived at 942 Belle Plaine avenue.

He was born in Clinton county, Pa., and enlisted in the 7th Pennsylvania cavalry, the "Saber Regiment" of the Army of the Cumberland. He saw service at Forts Henry and Donaldson, Nashville, Pittsburgh Landing, Chickamauga, Chattanooga, Murfreesboro, Crawfish Spring, Jonesboro, and Lovejoy Station.

Prays for Soldier He Shot.

During a skirmish near Rome, Ga., after his horse stumbled and threw him, Dornblaser shot and fatally wounded a southern colonel, then knelt and prayed for his foe at the latter's request.

When the southern cause was lost and word came that Davis and his cabinet were trying to flee thru southern Georgia to Texas, Dornblaser was one of those assigned to the pursuit and was present at the capture.

After the war he became a minister and served in Lutheran pulpits for 65 years. He came to Chicago in 1903, and in 1916, at the age of 75, tried to become a chaplain with the American army in Mexico. He was a member of the George H. Thomas G. A. R. post.

Crossed Ocean Dozen Times.

Dr. Dornblaser was the author of several books and had crossed the Atlantic more than a dozen times, once when he was 90. Two of his sons, now dead, served in the Spanish-American war, and his youngest boy, Paul, was killed in the Argonne, fighting with the American army in the first World war.

Surviving are his widow, Frieda, two daughters, Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Roger W. Walters, three grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

JURY SAYS LOVER ENDED LIFE IN INSANE MOMENT

A coroner's jury yesterday ruled that Wilbur Rodgers, 21 years old, who was found shot to death Saturday in Deer Grove forest, Palatine township, committed suicide while temporarily insane.

Miss Beverly Miller, 17, of 200 Wheeling road, Prospect Heights, testified that Rodgers, who lived at 407 Elmhurst road, Prospect Heights, had asked her for a date Friday night, and that she refused him. The youth left a note on her front porch indicating that he planned to kill himself because of this rebuff, and telling where his body could be found.

Rodgers was a junior chemist employed by the Dewey and Almy Chemical company, 6050 West 51st street, Summit.

POSTAL RECEIPTS DECLINE $100,000 IN 21 DAY PERIOD

A decrease of more than $100,000 in postal receipts for the first 21 days in December compared with the first 21 days of December last year was disclosed yesterday by Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen. Dec. 21 is usually a peak day in the Christmas mailing rush, the postmaster said, and the difference in receipts may result from the fact that Dec. 21 last year fell on a Saturday, while Dec. 21 this year fell on a Sunday.

NEWS SYNDICATE OFFICIAL KILLED BENEATH TRAIN

Greenwich, Conn., Dec. 22 (AP).—Robert B. McNitt, 30 years old, secretary and editor of the McNaught syndicate, was killed tonight beneath the wheels of a New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad train leaving the Greenwich station.

Police Chief John M. Gleason said the only witness to the accident was a cab driver, who reported that he saw McNitt hanging onto the handrail of a coach of the moving train just before he fell. It was not known whether he was boarding or leaving the train.

McNitt was the son of Virgil V. McNitt, chairman of the board of the McNaught syndicate, distributors of newspaper features.

In addition to his father and mother, McNitt is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Dyer McNitt, of Winchester, Mass., from whom he was separated, and a son. A brother, Frank, of Westwood Hills, Cal., also survives.

McNitt was managing editor of the Knoxville [Tenn.] Journal before joining the McNaught syndicate.

HANNAH KELLY, MAYOR'S SISTER, DIES AT AGE 56

Miss Hannah Kelly, sister of Mayor Kelly, died yesterday after a long illness in the home of another sister, Mrs. Joseph O'Donnell, 8115 South Morgan street. She was 56 years old and had lived with Mrs. O'Donnell since the death of her mother, Mrs. Nellie Kelly, five years ago. COUNTY CLERK'S OFFICE RECEIPTS BREAK A RECORD

County Clerk Michael J. Flynn yesterday reported that receipts from fees for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30 totaled $1,767,405, an all-time high and an increase of $360,854 over 1940 receipts. The 1941 total included, however, $745,551 reimbursed by the city of Chicago and sanitary district for 1940 election expenses.

A comparison of other fees, including redemptions, tax deeds, tax extensions, marriage licenses, county court fees, and other items showed a 1941 total of $862,256, compared with $746,546 in 1940. Marriage license fees were $140,070, compared with $131,601 last year. The clerk's operating costs were $742,504 in 1941, against $972,577 in 1940. The higher 1940 figure was caused by election costs.

Flynn yesterday told the county efficiency survey committee that the survey staff's proposal to drop 6 of the 32 employés in the county court division was unwarranted because the amount of work is increasing.

F. M. GUNTHER, 56, DIES; MINISTER OF U. S. TO RUMANIA

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The United States minister to Rumania, Franklin Mott Gunther, 56 years old, died in Bucharest today after an illness of several weeks, the state department was informed tonight.

Gunther was a native of New York City. Mrs. Gunther and the legation staff still are in Bucharest awaiting arrangements for return to the United States as a result of the state of war declared by Rumania Dec. 12.

The state department said that "with the unselfish devotion to the interests of the United States which had characterized his long career in the American diplomatic service, he had continued at his post in complete disregard of his health and contrary to his physicians' orders."

Gunther entered the diplomatic service in 1908. He served in various capacities in Tokio, Nicaragua, Portugal, Brazil, Norway, Holland, Italy, Egypt, and Ecuador.

Lawrence Tibbett Operated On for Appendicitis in N.Y.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Lawrence Tibbett, Metropolitan Opera baritone, underwent an emergency appendectomy today at Doctors' hospital, where later he was reported "doing very well."

Cecil Barnes Jr. to Wed Indiana Girl Saturday

BY JUDITH CASS.

MISS LORETTA VAN RIE and Cecil Barnes Jr., whose engagement was announced on Thanksgiving day, have decided to be married on Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Van Rie's father, Dr. Leo Paul Van Rie of Mishawaka, Ind. Mr. Barnes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes of Chicago, and his aunt and cousins, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, the junior Fairbanks, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Fairbank, and Miss Janet Fairbank will be among those going down for the ceremony.

The wedding will be a small family one and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's father. Mr. Barnes and his bride will live in Warrenton, Va., where he teaches in the Stuyvesant school.

Miss Van Rie will be attended by her sister, Miss Leona, as maid of honor and Miss Ruth Lawyer of New York as bridesmaid. Edward Barnes will be his brother's best man and another brother, Benjamin Ayer Barnes, will be among the ushers.

Others whom Mr. Barnes has asked to usher are Courtlandt Canby and Kenneth MacLeish of Washington, D. C.; Joseph Bradley of Boston, John Eric of Stamford, Conn., and William Marburg of Chicago. Just how many of these young men will be able to go to Indiana for the wedding is uncertain because of war conditions, but Mr. Barnes is hoping all of them will accept his invitations.

Near North Side District to Hear Carols at Dusk.

Come dusk this December day, any one in the vicinity of the little park at Astor and Goethe streets will see a typical Christmas card scene come to life. Carolers with brightly hued beaver toppers and shawls to match, and carrying lanterns, will assemble in the park to sing for about 25 minutes and then they'll wend their way around the neighborhood, stopping in at several places for some holiday cheer and warmth.

This is the ninth year that the Great Lakes Dredge and Philharmonic Friends of Music have sung carols on the near north side. The organization started in the most informal and casual way and has developed until now there is a professional director to rehearse the two or three dozen earnest singers and to lead them in their pre-Christmas caroling.

There will be candles in the windows of the houses of the James W. Rogerses, the Joseph T. Ryersons, the Charles Daniel Freys, and the Merrill Shepards, and at the Pump room to indicate that the carolers are expected. It will be supper time when the singers reach the Shepards' new home in East Elm street, so a hot buffet supper will be served there.

Dinner-Dance Club Party Reservations Set Record.

More reservations have been received for tonight's Dinner-Dance club party at the Saddle and Cycle club than for any other party in the five years since the series' inception, according to Mrs. Roger Faherty, chairman. Altho the parties are planned for the high school age group, dozens of college students have written or called Mrs. Faherty to ask whether they might come, too, so the occasion promises to be a real reunion. There will be special Christmas decorations and a dance contest.

Excitement among the first year high school students at New Trier High school and at the North Shore Country Day school is a dance which Mr. and Mrs. William S. Warfield III. and Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Larsson are giving tonight in the Indian Hill club's Bavarian Village for Dick and Hildegarde Warfield and Carol Larsson. The young Warfields attend New Trier, and Carol is at the Country Day.

The Sophomore Assembly Christmas dance will be held at the Skokie Country club at 7 o'clock tonight. Mr. and Mrs. Foster Hannaford, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Galloway, Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Kuehnle, and Ralph Batten will be the hosts and hostesses.

Barbara and John Straw Entertain Friends Today.

Barbara and John Straw will play host and hostess to a group of their young friends at a bowling, supper, and dancing party this afternoon and evening. The young people will meet at the H. Foster Straws' home in Lake Forest before going out together to bowl, and will return there for supper and dancing.

The Woman's Athletic club will give its annual teen age dance this afternoon from 4 o'clock until 7 o'clock. Mrs. Nicholas Starosselsky is in charge of arrangements and she is being assisted by Mrs. John Clarkson, Mrs. James H. Tatman, Miss Emily Goehst, and Mrs. John Scott Clifford.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stanley Hodges have invited a group of "young marrieds" to drop in after 5 o'clock today to have cocktails and to greet the Hodges' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nairne Jr. [Virginia Hodges]. Mrs. Nairne and her 15 month old son, Terry, arrived from Boston, Mass., two weeks ago, and they plan to stay for six weeks. Mr. Nairne is here just for the holidays.

Daniel H. Burnham III. and Wife Also Are Here.

Also back from Boston are Ensign and Mrs. Daniel H. Burnham III., for whom Mr. and Mrs. Burnham Jr. entertained at cocktails yesterday afternoon. Young Mrs. Burnham came out with Mrs. Nairne, and their husbands arrived together on Sunday. The John Hamilton Rices of Boston, too, are here for Christmas week. Mrs. Rice is the former Elinor Talbot, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot of East Division street.

Mrs. Richard T. Crane left on Sunday to spend Christmas at Castle Hill, her home in Ipswich, Mass. She will have several New York friends with her for the 10 days she is at Castle Hill, and she also will have a reunion with her children, for they both will be in Ipswich. The former Florence Crane and her husband, Miss Ruth Clifford as Mary in "The Magi's Gift," a Christmas operetta presented by students at Ferry hall in Lake Forest last Saturday. The operetta depicted medieval England on Christmas eve and is typical of the Christmas programs presented in Chicagoland schools before the holidays started. Miss Clifford is the daughter of State Senator and Mrs. W. E. C. Clifford of Champaign, Ill.

Stylist Writes of Fashions for the Inner Man

BY REA SEEGER.

There's no such achievement as completely appeasing the Christmas sweet tooth of this nation. Boxes and bags of candy from lozenges to mouth watering chocolates and old fashioned chewy morsels and nutty confections will vanish this week. In one of Chicago's candy shops, almost as old as the town itself, is without question the best of the sweets and favors for holiday celebrations.

In this shop you'll find such delectable goodies as marzipan in rosebuds, tiny pumpkins, pods of pears, carrots, acorns, and damson plums. You discover anew the fun of old fashioned molasses chunks in a box complete with the candy hammer with which to break the stuff into mouth size chews. You see again coffee beans, licorice slabs and drops, peppermint drops, opera creams, glazed nuts, paper thin cream patties covered with chocolate, candied fruits, and the gumdrops that always mean Christmas.

Pan after pan filled with hard candies, teasing clear Scotch "acid drops" and stick candy are not just for the youngsters. There are tiny lozenges to remind you of those that came out of granny's reticule in time of distress when you were a very small candy eater. Striped Christmas candy canes range from the boxed assortment about four inches long to the real honest to goodness walking sticks with a crook handle a good yard high.

Fascinating candy animals, from chocolate to white mice, Santas and Santa's boots filled with candy, snowballs, trees, and vividly colored "crackers" to pull for hats and prizes, together with the best showing of old fashioned white Christmas boxes tied with red bows and a sprig of holly or mistletoe make a sight that erases grim realities, at least for the time you linger round the displays.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

Quiz Kid.

If your're wondering about those 10 bars of music strung up in the window of the Wrigley building, they are Silent Night. The waiter didn't know, the coat check girl didn't know, but a small boy sitting and waiting as we were, painstakingly hummed it out for us.

Guam Are the Days.

Mary E. J. Coulter, in town from Los Angeles, says she considered moving to Guam 20 years ago because nothing ever happened there.

Lipstick and a Permanent.

A near north side beauty shop uses this motto in its letterhead: "He was one of the most foolish men who ever lived, for he believed that everything that pleased him or that he wished was true . . ." K., who sends it to us, observes: "Cynic, huh?"

Ssh!

It may not seem possible, but starting today the days are getting longer. This is a secret the weather bureau is not even trying to keep.

Business Is Jake!

Two signs hung in front of a San Francisco business establishment attracted special notice recently altho they had been up for some time. One read: "Business going on as usual." The other one, "Business is better than usual."

Hot-Cha.

Some special notes on the "Night of Stardom" the other night; Jigsaw Jackson, who hasn't a bone in his body apparently. We saw him tie himself into a granny knot but still don't believe it. Iron Jaw Wilson who clogs around holding three wooden tables in his teeth. Handy, but it may spoil his looks in time. Arthur Lee Simpkins, tenor, known familiarly as "Georgia Boy," who rounded out his performance by singing the aria from I Pagliacci about "Laugh, Clown Laugh." Beautifully as he sang that tragic song, when he got to the "Ha Ha Ha" part, the audience laughed merrily with him.

For Defense.

Seventh Grade Jo Anne Ely, who attends the Eugene Field school, contributes the following poem:

On December seventh in "forty-one,
A great injustice was deliberately done.
Accordingly, my friend, until we've won,
I'm going to help us to carry the gun—
By buying Defense Bonds, and so should you
To keep "Old Liberty" in plain view.

Double Duty.

A north side florist was asked by a customer to provide entertainment as well as flowers for her party. After some effort he obtained the services of a singer. He now plans to put up a sign on his shop reading: "Fun with Flowers."

Kopp Presents Music That Is New to Chicago

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Not until Strauss and Sibelius start writing pieces for the juke box will we have a situation comparable to that which existed in the 18th century when composers of the rank of Mozart contributed to the literature of the music box, the barrel organ, and other of the mechanical musical devices which were then fascinating Europe.

A Mozart fantasy for a musical clock, sonorously transcribed by Eric Werner, was given its first Chicago performance at the Eighth Street theater last night by the Illinois Symphony orchestra under Leo Kopp's direction. The piece belies its strange origin. It has the loftiness of style which we associate with its composer's most serious works.

It was followed by an arrangement [by Fritz Steinbach] of eight German dances of Mozart—festive little pieces full of melody and humor and offering in one instance a delightfully childlike representation of a sleigh ride. These pieces were also, so far as is known, new to Chicago.

Still another first local performance on the program was Vaughan Williams' five variants on the ancient English carol, "Dives and Lazarus." The composer uses his musical resources not to submerge but to accentuate the original character of the tune. Because he, himself, has long been deeply interested in medieval music, and because he regards modal writing not as something quaint but as a legitimate and timeless musical device, the composition turns out to be no mere tour de force but a natural, beautiful, and significant piece.

Then came the Ibert Divertissement, in which the composer, like a small boy making faces at his elders, mercilessly exposes the cliches, mannerisms, and formulae of a variety of different types of music. The piece's caricature is so pat—and the performance was so clean and clever—that smiles by the hundred lighted up the theater.

After the intermission the soloist of the evening, Henri Rose, played the piano part of the Moszkowski E Major concerto. The piece's salonlike showiness and attar of roses sentimentality should be more easily comprehensible to some one with a personal knowledge of late 19th century life than to a youth of 17, yet young Mr. Rose played with an astonishing feeling for the work's bravura aspects and with a gentle and understanding regard for its sentiment. He displayed an extraordinarily fluent and reliable technique.

Dean to Address Luncheon of Yale Fathers and Sons

A discussion of the function of Yale university during the war will be presented by Norman Buck, dean of freshmen at Yale, at the annual Yale Fathers and Sons luncheon in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House at 12:30 o'clock today. Ogden Miller, director of athletics at Yale, also will speak.

Chicago Opens Heart to Cheer Those in Need

Chicago is more than earning the title of the friendly city this Christmas season. Despite war worries, it has opened its heart to the poor, the crippled, the aged and the homeless, and in a splurge of real Christmas spirit is showering them with gifts, heaping baskets of food, brightly colored trees, entertainment and religious services.

In each of the state's charitable and mental institutions, a Christmas day dinner with "all the trimmings" will be served to the 51,000 patients and employés, Mrs. Christine Pensinger, chief home economist for the state welfare department, announced yesterday. Twenty-three tons of roast chicken are being prepared.

Veterans at Hines hospital near Maywood also will have a special Christmas dinner and a party at which gifts of tobacco, sweets, fruit, clothing and toilet articles will be distributed to the 1,600 patients.

Approximately 300 individual Christmas trees were set up and trimmed at the hospital by members of the American Legion auxiliary hospital service yesterday. While one group trimmed the trees, another distributed gifts to the patients, including 25 ex-service women patients in the women's ward.

Thruout County hospital, groups of singers will cheer patients with carols. There will be a turkey or chicken dinner and a Christmas tree in each ward. Santa Claus will distribute gifts to each child. At Oak Forest infirmary, 5,600 pounds of turkey, 600 mince pies, a ton of candy and 35 boxes of apples are being prepared for 3,700 inmates. Sixty-three trees have been set up in the buildings and on the grounds. Nurses directed by the Rev. H. V. Hopkins and Girl Scouts from neighboring villages will sing carols Christmas day.

More than 700 prisoners in the county jail will be given a roast chicken dinner, Warden Frank G. Sain, announced yesterday. Religious services will be conducted with Christmas carols as part of the program. There also will be gifts of fruit, cookies, candy and tobacco. Similar parties will be held in the Bridewell, and the Chicago State hospital at Dunning, officials stated. Friends and relatives will be allowed to visit patients in the hospital and bring gifts.

Special Christmas parties with Santa Claus as the special guest are being planned for the 175 children at St. Vincent's orphanage, the 210 children at the Juvenile home and the young patients in the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium. The sanitarium's Christmas program will begin this evening and will continue for a week with groups of carolers singing during the week and a Yuletide-New Year's dinner Monday, Dec. 29.

One thousand children from settlements, charitable institutions, and parishes of the diocese were guests of the Episcopal Church club of Chicago at a Christmas party held in the grand ballroom of Hotel Sherman last night. The Rev. Dudley S. Stark, rector of St. Chrysostom's church, 1424 Dearborn parkway, read the invocation, and the Rt. Rev. Wallace E. Conkling, bishop of the diocese, spoke. Charles H. Buras acted as toastmaster.

A corps of members of the Cook County council of the American Lefion auxiliary distributed Christmas baskets to 1,000 needy families yesterday. The food was collected by 15,000 members of the council in a drive sponsored by Morris B. Sachs, a south side merchant. Mr. Sachs also contributed $1,000 and provided fresh poultry, bread, and other perishable foods for the baskets.

Three hundred Negro children were guests of the welfare department of the Chicago Woman's Aid society at a Christmas party in St. Stephen's church, Damen avenue and Washington boulevard, yesterday. The party was held for the west side center of the Chicago Urban league located at 2024 Maypole street. Toys and presents, as well as ice cream and sweets, were given to the children.

Two thousand baskets of food, toys, and sweets were distributed to needy children yesterday afternoon by the Roti Social and Athletic club in Harding Square park, 26th street and Wentworth avenue. It was the club's third annual party.

Officials of the 42d ward Republican organization played host to 3,000 underprivileged children o the ward at a Christmas party yesterday afternoon in the hall at 1016 North Dearborn street. Samuel L. Workman, ward committeeman, was in charge of the arrangements for the party.

The children were entertained during a four hour party by dancing bears, clowns, a Punch and Judy show and a series of specialty acts. Later each received a present from the ward's official Santa Claus.

Three thousand school children from River Forest and Elmwood Park saw Santa Claus descend from the clouds by parachute yesterday afternoon into a vacant lot next to 7330 North avenue, Elmwood Park, and received gifts and refreshments. The event was sponsored by C. E. Olson, restaurant owner, and John A. Cullerton, village president. George Wells, school superintendent, spoke.

Debutante Guest

[Moffett Photo.]

Miss Bessie Cowles, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knight C. Cowles of Lake Forest, will be among the special guests at two parties today, a cocktail-dance at the Casino at which Miss Mary Ann Wyman will be hostess, and a dinner-dance at Mrs. Freeman Hinckley's home in Lake Forest drive at which Miss Barbara McClurg will be hostess.

The debutantes will be busy today and tonight, for several parties have been planned for them and their contemporaries. Mr. and Mrs. James R. Buck have invited friends of their daughter, Betty, to a large luncheon which they are giving at the Yar. Miss Buck is studying this year at Lake Forest college. A debut tea for Miss Buck on Sunday was called off because of the war.

Strolling troubadours will provide music for dancing at Miss Mary Ann Wyman's cocktail party at the Casino club. Mrs. William K. Kenly and her granddaughter are giving the party for Miss Diana Hill, Miss Eleanor Cochran, Miss Bessie Cowles, Miss Joan Peabody, Miss Shirley Hopkins, and Miss Leonore Cudahy, all of whom were at Miss Walker's school in Simsbury, Conn., with Miss Wyman.

Mrs. Freeman Hinckley and her younger daughter, Miss Barbara McClurg, have taken a vacant apartment in their building, 209 Lake Shore drive, for a small dinner-dance which they are giving tonight for four debutantes. Miss Cowles, Miss Betty Bennett, Miss Hopkins, and Miss Ada Blanche Wrigley, who went to school with Miss Barbara, will be the special guests. The walls and fireplace of the apartment will be hung with Della Robbia wreaths, and the theme will be repeated in the plaques of miniature fruits, balsam branches, and red candles on each supper table.

Citadel Club Will Give a Dance Next Tuesday

The Chicago Citadel club will give a dinner-dance at 7:30 o'clock next Tuesday in the Continental room of the Stevens hotel. The club is made up of young men from Chicago and suburbs who are cadets at The Citadel, South Carolina military college. Robert G. Stone heads the club.

Theater Guild Gives Chicago Pleasant Time

"PAPA IS ALL."

Comedy in three acts and four scenes by Patterson Greene. Staged by Frank Carrington and Agnes Morgan. Settings and costumes by Emeline Clark Roche. Production under the supervision of Lawrence Langner and Theresa Helburn. Presented by the Theater Guild, as the second subscription play of the Theater Guild and the American Theater society, in the Harris theater, Monday evening, Dec. 22, 1941.

THE CAST.

Mama	Jessie Royce Landis
Papa	Carl Benton Reid
Jake	Emmett Rogers
Emma	Celeste Holm
State Trooper Brendle	Royal Beal
Mrs. Yoder	Dorothy Sands

BY CECIL SMITH.

In these harsh and tense days, it is wonderful to discover that even the lofty Theater Guild has decided to let its hair down and give the public a thoroly good time, without undue preoccupation with such matters as art and the advancement of the stage. There is nothing ponderous or documentary about "Papa Is All," altho its Pennsylvania Dutch characters and locale might have led a more self-conscious author than Patterson Greene to take his mission too seriously.

The play was written for comedy. It is skillfully and heartily played for its excellent and continuous comic values, and the full-throated response of last night's audience was a joy to hear. The Guild originally thought that "Papa Is All" might be shipped off to New York after a fortnight, but I suspect that public demand will cause a radical alteration in this plan.

Altho Papa does not appear until toward the end of the first act, and in general is off the stage far more than he is on it, the comedy takes its whole tone and shape from his character. One of the fiercest and most unredeemed individuals to dominate a stage in many a year, Papa is virtually an old-time melodramatic "heavy" serving as the disruptive force in what otherwise might have turned into a placid essay in local color.

To Papa, who uses religion as a mask for complete selfishness, everything is sinful except his own perverse and inflexible will. Emma cannot bring into the house a young surveyor to whom she has taken a fancy, Jake's home study lessons in mechanics are thrown into the stove whenever Papa discovers them, and poor Mama spends her life in submission, mixing pancake batter at the crack of dawn every day and wistfully wishing for a telephone with which to keep in touch with the outside world.

When Jake announces that Papa has been killed by a railroad train the play develops a wry slant. The relief and pleasure of the entire family are unmistakable. Life becomes cheery and normal, and Mama rebukes herself for forgetting to mourn properly. Papa does ultimately return, but the author neatly remembers that he has a light comedy on his hands, and contrives an agreeably artificial solution which it would be unfair to reveal.

In its lines "Papa Is All" achieves a unique and altogether delightful flavor. The odd idiomatic twists and the backhanded sentence order of Pennsylvania Dutch speech keeps the dialog constantly fresh and inviting, at the same time that every word remains completely intelligible. With keen imagination Mr. Greene has managed to extract every ounce of humor from the unusual language without ever forcing his characters to speak unnaturally or clumsily. And in this homely vernacular the underlying sadism of the family's attitude toward Papa become more palatable and amusing, thru its naiveté, than the same quality seemed in "Arsenic and Old Lace," where it was made too plain and run into the ground.

Jessie Royce Landis, almost too lovely for the homespun part she plays, gives perhaps the most notable performance of her career, achieving a beautiful balance of reticence, candor, charm, and forthrightness of character. Mr. Reid's Papa is more of a stock performance.

Celeste Holm, blonde and fresh and a little buxom, is perfect for the blossoming young Emma. Emmett Rogers handles the dialect superbly as Jake, and is intermittently convincing as an actor when he does not drop off into dramatic school clichés. Dorothy Sands' portrait of a neighbor woman seems more East Side than Pennsylvania. The performance as a whole is well integrated and suavely directed.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Over the Transom.

An attractive residence hotel recently retained a woman manager. One of her duties is to keep everybody happy which, in an unhappy world, is no small chore.

A few days ago a quiet, sweet, little white-haired woman rented a tiny apartment in the hotel, and the manager, fearing she might be lonely, promptly went to call on her. As she approached the apartment she heard a great hubbub issuing over the transom. Inside, she found the little white-haired woman sitting serenely in a chair, surrounded by her five grown daughters, each voicing a different notion how mother should feather her nest.

Labor Omnia Vincit.

"Contrary to the suspicion fostered by the movies and by such phrases as 'office-wife,' the average secretary is NOT in love with her boss," says a pretty secretary-who-should-know. "The wife," says she, "need have no fear."

"The only thing the wife need worry about," according to the pretty secretary, "is that some day, in a fit of rage, the overworked secretary may slay the dear man!"

Man the Inquisitive.

Young women serving in information booths in department stores during the holiday rush have gained quite a bit of information about human foibles, chief of which is that people like to ask questions. Between 1,500 and 2,000 questions are answered each day from one booth alone, and when you count the other information booths in the store . . . and in other stores . . . you gain some notion of the stream of questions from shoppers' lips.

"Where can I find Junior's underwear?" [Maybe it's on Junior.] . . . "Where is the toy department?" . . . "What floor is furniture?" . . . "Where are pajamas for women?" [This from a man.] "Where can I buy crimping shears?" [This also from a man—he meant pinking shears.] . . . "Shall I take the escalator or the elevator?" . . . "Where can I buy hose?" [Men's or women's? . . . no, garden hose.] . . . "I'm looking for trunks." [To swim in or to travel in?] . . . "Where are can-openers?" [Ah . . . a bachelor . . . wrong again . . . a newly-wed, he confesses.] "How much did the decorations in the store cost?" . . . "How much is the store insured for?" . . . "Can I buy a picture of you to take back home?" . . . "How do you get in that little cage?" . . . "Where was I to meet my mother?" . . . and so it goes from morning to night. Patience and resourcefulness are personified in these information girls who answer questions on the average of one every twenty seconds.

They are well trained. They have no store directory before them and would not have time to refer to it if they had. Most of them have undergone a six weeks' training course given by the buyers in the various departments, culminating in a test requiring them to draw a map of the department store, designating the different sections.

So there they sit . . . answering questions, tending lost children [they take them inside the cage with them], finding missing relatives and keeping, with it all, a sense of humor.

"Wasn't I to meet my friend in the book section at 5 o'clock?" one woman asked. The girl said she didn't know.

"My goodness," the woman replied indignantly, "didn't we discuss it not a foot away from here an hour ago?"

SELF-DEFENSE.

SYNOPSIS.

Jack Waugh returns to Santa Rita, 20 years after he has seen his father ambushed and murdered, determined to bring the murderers to justice. He rescues Mary Lane from a holdup and possible kidnaping and finds she is the stepdaughter of Corbett Carey, friend of his father. With Corbett's son, Carl, Jack visits Jim Fallon, who was the first to arrive on the scene of the Waugh murder. Jim has been working at the Clinton ranch since the murder. Before Jack can question Jim, Tracy, foreman at the Clinton ranch, arrives, starts a fight, and is given a terrific beating by Jack. Jim, under Jack's protection, tells him he was sure old Ab Clinton instigated the murder as he saw Tracy and Ab's son, Brad, leave the scene of the murder just as he arrived. Old Ab still owns controling interest in the ranch, but Brad runs it and is as unscrupulous as his father. But two of Ab's sons are well thought of and are prominent bankers, and Abner III., his grandson, is Mary Lane's suitor. Jack learns that old Ab robbed his father of his money belt after the murder and bought the Waugh ranch with the stolen money. When Jack meets Ike Parker and Clem Peake, two of Clinton's hired men, he recognizes them as Mary's holdup men and notifies young Abner, who, investigating, finds it true. Abner talks to his grandfather, who assures him the men will be arrested, but instead old Ab offers Parker $500 to get rid of Jack. Parker, Peake, and Tracy lie in ambush for Jack, who has telephoned the sheriff to arrest Parker and Peake at the Clinton ranch. The men in ambush attack the wrong man and Jack arrives just in time to save the man's life and capture Parker, Peake, and Tracy. He takes them to the awaiting sheriff at the Clinton ranch, but the sheriff refuses to arrest Tracy as he claims he has no proof they attacked Jack. He does arrest Parker and Peake for Mary's holdup, but en route to town Brad and Tracy hold up the sheriff and allow the captives to escape to a hideout in the mountains. In the meantime, Paul Dillon, a small boy, is lost in the mountains and a posse, including Jack, sets out in search of the lost boy. Jack walks into a pocket and is captured by Parker and Peake, but before they kill him, young Abner, who has just found Paul, stumbles into their hideout and rescues Jack by promising not to notify the law.

INSTALMENT XXXVIII.

The long arm of Tracy reached out and dragged the lame man to him. With his right hand he drew from its holster the revolver at Jim Fallon's side. The old cowboy struggled to get the weapon back.

Against the iron strength of the foreman he was helpless. The big bully held him at arm's length and brought the barrel of the .45 down on his head. Knees buckling, Jim swayed backward and forward. His foe flung him against the wall of the building and strode into the store. Gun still in hand, anger at the taunt of his small victim still flushed the man's brutal face.

Tracy stopped in his stride, shocked into a momentary fear. At the counter, his back toward him, buying a box of cartridges from Joel Samson, stood Jack Waugh.

The fear slid from the foreman's mind. He had his enemy at last—had him cold. The Texan did not have a chance for his life. Bullets would tear into his vitals if he tried to lift a hand. Without knowing it, Tracy had been building up for this moment all day. The liquor he had poured down had swept away his caution and stimulated his sense of wrongs endured at the hands of this man. The attack on Fallon had renewed his self-esteem. In spite of hell and high water he would carry thru to a finish.

Harshly, he called out, "You won't ever need those cartridges, Waugh."

Even before Jack turned he knew Samson's putty cheeks, the staring eyes fixed on the man who had spoken, and he was about to look into the face of danger. His body came around slowly, the box of cartridges still in his hand. A flashing fraction of a second set the scene for Waugh. Shorty was ducking for safety back of a counter. The big foreman filled the aisle, his feet apart and slightly bent, the heavy body leaning forward, triumphant malice riding the wolfish face.

"Not now or ever," Tracy continued, his voice raucous with jubilant mockery.

The knuckles of Jack's fingers grew white as they tightened on the cartridge box. His mind was working in swift, stabbing thoughts. He must play for time—must keep Tracy talking.

"Got me at last," he said slowly, throwing a sop to his enemy's vanity. "Smart work, Tracy. I reckon I was right careless."

"You never had a chance from the start," the A C foreman boasted. "I gave you a little rope. That was all. Now you've come to the end of it."

"You're primed for another murder, eh?"

"Reach for yore gun," Tracy ordered hoarsely.

"And be plugged before I ever get it out. No, I think not. I'm not going to give you an excuse for a killing. You haven't the nerve to kill me now. You would be strung up before night."

Jack tossed out the challenge boldly, but he knew it would not move the man. Tracy had gone too far now to back down. He had to go all the way, even if explanations later would be awkward. But not for an instant did the Texan lift his gaze from the eyes of the man who meant to destroy him. The only hope of safety lay in reading them correctly, in guessing at what moment the fellow's snarling elation would break into violent and explosive eruption.

"I'll show you whether I have the guts—right—now."

Jack knew that the revolver was about to jump to position. He learned it from the mad glare in the eyes that suddenly drove away all restraint. His own gaze fastened on something back of the gunman. Clear and sharp his voice rang out.

"Plug him, Jim."

The startled glance that Tracy swept toward the doorway took only a thin fraction of a second. But it was enough. The box of cartridges flew arrow straight from Jack's hand to the face of the foreman. Tracy flung up an arm to protect himself, and at the same time fired wildly. The bullet struck the bottom of a galvanized tub and ricocheted into a barrel of ten penny nails.

The revolvers crashed simultaneously an instant later. As he fired Waugh flung himself to one side and down. He sent a second shot from his knees.

Tracy stared at nothing, from shocked eyes. His arms fell and the weapon clattered on the floor. Slowly he brought his left hand up to his heart, the strange puzzled look still on his face. He took a step forward, then fell to the floor face down. Once he groaned, after which he lay prone, figure and limbs lax and still.

From behind the flour sacks where he had taken refuge Samson cautiously appeared. He looked down at the huge sprawling figure. "My God, he's dead," the merchant said, a shiver running down his spine.

Shorty joined him. "Never will be deader." The cowboy chewed tobacco undisturbed. "I never did like a fool, and Tracy was sure one. My pappy was a deputy sheriff in the Panhandle, and a good one. He gave me one piece of advice that certainly was right. Never draw a gun till you're ready to start using it. Tracy had to talk a spell first. That's what he got for it."

Jack's troubled gaze rested on the man he had killed. He said, in a low voice: "It had to be one of us. You'll both bear witness that he forced me to shoot him."

"That's right," Shorty agreed. His light blue eyes took in the Texan admiringly. "You were that cool—led him on—didn't miss a bet."

"As soon as I saw him I knew he meant to kill me," Waugh said quietly. His face was impassive, but he was greatly shocked at what he had been forced to do.

Men poured into the room, crowding close to see the body and the Texan who had killed Tracy. Thru the crowd the town marshal shouldered his way. He was a long lank old-timer with a western hat tilted on his gray head. Grimly he looked down at what remained of Warren Tracy.

"I'll have to arrest you," he told Waugh.

Samson offered an explanation. "Tracy came in with his gun out. Said right off he was going to kill Mr. Waugh. He fired the first shot. This was self-defense."

"Don't doubt it for a minute," the marshal said. "All his life Tracy has been asking for trouble. But I have to make a formal arrest."

Fallon came into the store, supported by another man. He was bleeding profusely from a cut in the head. Those in front made way for him.

"Tracy pistol whipped me before he came into the store," he told Waugh. "I reckon he didn't know you were here."

"He found out," Shorty said. "I expect everybody is satisfied. Me, I never did like him. Nor did anybody else far as I have heard. He was a hell roaring bully, and he got what was coming to him. I am an A C man all right, but I never could go Tracy. Why, not 10 minutes ago he was bragging how he could skin me alive."

"Will somebody bring a doctor to look after my friend's head?" Jack asked. He had got a chair for Fallon and was tying a handkerchief around the wound.

Half an hour later Waugh was in the little office attached to the jail. "I don't reckon I'll put you in the calaboose," the marshal said, "if you give me yore word to stick around till this is fixed up."

To this his prisoner agreed.

Corbett Carey hung up the telephone receiver and walked back into the livingroom.

"I've just been talking with little Jim Fallon," he told his wife. "There has been trouble in Boonetown. Jack Waugh has just killed Tracy."

Mrs. Carey put down the magazine she was reading. She had come to like Jack Waugh, and the news alarmed and disturbed her.

"Do you know how it happened?" she asked.

"No. Except that Fallon says it was self-defense. Waugh has been arrested. I think I'll run into town and see what I can do for him."

"I'll go with you," she said quickly.

"All right." Corbett looked at her quizzically. "You're afraid I'll stick my neck out. That's why you are going."

DORIS BLAKE'S LETTER BOX

Have you a perplexing problem on which you need friendly counsel? Write to Doris Blake in care of the Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. If you wish a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Introductions Due.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl says she loves me. I've known her for six months, yet I haven't met any of her relatives or friends. She has met all of mine. Please advise. S. J."

Tell her you would like to meet her relatives and friends. It's strange that she has not introduced you. She should.

Competition Is a Good Tonic for Romance

A matter that pops up now and then is this one: A young woman has been going with a young man for several months. Before she met him he had gone with another young girl for seven years! The former flame writes to him frequently, but he never answers her letters. He claims that he no longer is interested in her. [How foolish the girl is to continue writing to him!]

The new young woman likes to hear he is no longer interested in the other, for she claims she is head over heels in love with him. He treats here nicely, is so kind, thoughtful, and buys her many little presents. He seems to be fond of her, altho he never has said so. He talks frequently of the other girl, altho he assures her he does not care for her any more. What our correspondent wants to know is, how can she find out of he loves her, and not the other girl?

There's no way she can find out, in our opinion, unless he cares to volunteer the information himself. It's pretty hard for her to "take" his talking about the other girl, but that is what she must do, apparently, whether she likes it or not. She might try putting a stop to such talk by asking him how he'd like it if she talked about some other man, of whom she once was very fond. If he's at all intelligent, and he surely must be, he will realize how unfair he is acting.

It doesn't make any difference whether he still loves the other girl. Time will tell if he goes back to her. In the meantime we'd advise his new interest to be a little independent and not give him all her time. She would be wise to have other men friends, too. She should profit by the other girl's mistake. She didn't get any place by going with him for seven years! His new girl will stand a better chance of getting him for a husband if she doesn't let him know she's in love with him.

Re-Create the Christmas Tale for Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

As Christmas draws very near I wonder how many children there are who have not had the beautiful, simple story told to them in words they can understand. In the Bible you will find it in the second chapter of Matthew, verses 1 to 11; it also is in the second chapter of Luke, verses 1 to 20. Here are beauty and dignity but also words and facts that are too remote for the understanding of a young child. This does not mean the story is too old for them, but that you must try to retell it yourself in a way that will bring it close to your little boy or girl. Perhaps an attempt I made to translate the stately version in the Bible into one a young child can understand will help you to find words of your own to tell the story of the first Christmas, surely, before the day arrives:

Once upon a time, far far away and long ago, long before even grandmother and grandmother's grandmother were born, this story begins.

There then was a little town called Bethlehem, and many people were traveling toward it from all the country 'round. But all those men and women were not traveling as we do nowadays, on trains or in cars, and, of course, not by airplanes. They were all walking, miles and miles and miles, or riding on donkeys, or on the backs of camels.

Now among all those who were going toward the little town of Bethlehem were a man and a woman named Joseph and Mary. Mary was riding on a donkey and Joseph was walking beside her.

Joseph was very anxious because it was night, and the stars had already come out in the sky in that land so far away and so long ago, just the way the stars will come out over our house on Christmas eve. Joseph was worried because he knew they must find a place to sleep and very soon, because Mary was going to have a little baby, and both the new little baby and its mother must have a warm and cozy place to rest. Still, altho they looked everywhere, there seemed to be no room for them. Every house and every inn was filled. But at last, when he was quite discouraged, Joseph found a stable, and there with the sweet smell of hay, with the soft breathing of donkeys and, perhaps, little lambs, Mary's baby was born, Jesus, the little Christ Child. Then Mary, his mother, wrapped him closely 'round and 'round with linen, as they did to newborn babies in those days, and laid him, not in a crib, but in a manger right there in the stable.

Outside the stable, over this baby Christ Child's funny little bed, high in the dark blue sky, a star seemed to shine with great brilliance. And shepherds tending their sheep far off thought the star beckoned them to the baby Jesus. And three great kings thought, too, that the bright star in the blue night sky beckoned them to the baby Jesus, so they all followed the star, and at last it led them to the manger where the tiny baby lay. There they all knelt down, and the three kings laid precious gifts before the little baby Christ, and worshiped him.

Today, or perhaps on Christmas eve, if you have not done it before, tell to your children the story of the first Christmas.

How can you amuse the convalescent child? What is the most difficult age? How may stubbornness be prevented? These and other problems are discussed in "You and Your Young Child." Your Handwriting

BY SHIRLEY SPENCER.

Winston Churchill's writing illustrates the saying "the pen is mightier than the sword," for it definitely shows his skill in the use of words. If the battle were one of words, his victory would be assured!

His writing is a typical literary script revealing mature mental development, a high degree of discrimination in the choice of words and excellent powers of concentration and observation. True modesty is indicated in the small, simple capitals.

Winston Churchill

There is also gentleness, humility, and kindness expressed in his cultured, gracious writing. This is a kindly man, simple in many ways, and with a sensitive love of beauty one might not guess he had if one judged from the rather gruff and rough exterior. He isn't vain about his personal appearance and would take more delight in choosing the right word for an occasion than in wearing the right tie. There is even shyness indicated in the light, delicate strokes.

For your own Handwriting Analysis send 10 cents (in coin) and a self-addressed envelope bearing a 3 cent stamp, together with a sample of handwriting, to Shirley Spencer, Box 116, General Postoffice, New York City. (IMPORTANT: Write 25 words and signature in ink.)

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 22.—There'll always be a Christmas, too. A year ago I decided that the strange people who inhabit this land, apparently suffering from a no-snow complex, overdid themselves in decorating the exteriors of their houses. The home of many a star looked, with all its colored lights, like a supergaudy dog wagon. Now the lights are in place again, and one can drive thru miles of residence streets looking at spotlighted Santa Clauses on chimneys, blazing 50 foot trees, glimmering mansions. And this time it all seems quite wonderful, like a way of showing that our kind of life won't change.

Bette Davis and Bob Hope get their golden apples from the Women's Press club tomorrow, for being good guys. . . . The climax of Alfred Bette Davis.

Bob Hope.

Hitchcock's "Saboteur" comes with a shooting battle between cops and spies in the Radio City Music hall, while shooting is going on on the screen. . . . Did you ever stop to think that the sound of a shot has never been duplicated on the screen? The sound track can give the whine of bullets accurately, but can't handle the sharp crack of gunfire. . . . Reginald Gardiner's impersonation of a Noel Coward type in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" is a dandy. . . . Ann Sheridan, who gets more glamorous from film to film, hits her acting peak in "Kings Row." . . . The war has made back-lot shooting more difficult than ever. Transports and private planes cluttered the sound tracks often enough, but nothing in comparison to military craft. There are more military ships and they often travel in groups. Some times the drone of one big bomber will penetrate even the sound stages. In the old days planes got a hearty cussing from directors and actors—but not any more. Everybody is glad to have 'em around and waits costly minutes for them to fly by with the utmost cheerfulness.

Mary Astor is turning blonde because she's with brunette Claudette Colbert in "The Palm Beach Story." . . . Wonder how Colbert would be as a blonde? She's grand as a gray haired lady in "Remember the Day." . . . Paramount didn't take Lillian Gish for "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" after all. . . . Paramount will campaign for some Oscars for "Reap the Wild Wind." . . . Mike Romanoff's rendezvous is selling an average of $200 worth of defense stamps a night. . . . Edward Everett Horton's valley home is one of the antique treasure houses of the coast. It recently was paid a formal visit by the old Treasures club, whose members reverently eyed the French, English, and American relics. Horton's own bed was used in the White House during the Lincoln administration.

International melange in "The Tuttles of Tahiti": British star Charles Laughton; Hungarian director Charles Vidor; Hungarian dancer Iren Gaye; Frenchman Victor Francen and two compatriots, still man Gaston Longet and dialogue director Paul Le Pere; Steven Muller, a German; Al d'Agostino, Italian art director, and dozens of Filipinos, Hawaiians, and Chinese. . . . Incidentally, there are only six Japanese players listed by the Screen Actors guild, and none is important.

Eddie Albert, who'll be Morton of the movies, has been traveling with a circus in Mexico. . . . Old time Bennett comedian, Billy Bevan, is playing Bob Benchley's butler on "Out of the Frying Pan." . . . Gregory La Cava is having a headache trying to find a leading man for Irene Dunne in "The Sheltered Side." . . . Out of 48 pictures now on the sound stages nine have war themes—and most of these are comedy. Most serious is the Tyrone Power-Joan Fontaine version of Eric Knight's "This Above All." . . . The motion picture relief fund's sale of Christmas cards has been bigger than ever this year. Hundreds of show folk are sending each other the same cards in a good cause.

More about Hollywood during the world war! Then Dell Henderson advertised himself as the world's greatest director. Today, age 57, he's an actor. . . . Dorothy Gish and George Fawcett were making "The Hun Within." . . . Bernard McConville, latterly a writer of western for Republic, and Harry Sherman announced "the publication of a series of original photoplays in printed form to be submitted to the producers." . . . Jane and Katherine Lee were in "Swat the Spy." . . . Edward Small, now a producer, was agent for Louise Huff, "the screen's most delightful personality." . . . Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne were called "the screen's idols and idealists." . . . And there was a star named Mona Lisa.

The great pictures of the World war weren't made during it, but several years later, when such smashes as "The Big Parade," "What Price Glory," and "The Cockeyed World" came out. . . . In the first year of peace Elmo K. Lincoln was doing Zane Grey's "Desert Gold." Herbert Rawlinson was working up a series of secret service stories based on the life of Chief Flynn. Katherine MacDonald was "The American Beauty." Tom Santschi was the hero in "The Garden of Allah" and "The City of Purple Dreams." . . . Prizman pictures were billed as masterpieces in color. . . . And Adolph Zukor was prophesying even better than he knew that world markets would open to American films.

Civic Leaders Start Drive for Red Cross

More than 100 business leaders, the majority of whom were responsible for the success of the 1941 Community Fund campaign, met in the Palmer House yesterday to undertake one of the largest tasks in their civic careers. The men volunteered to collect $3,750,000, Chicago's quota in the $50,000,000 national war relief campaign being sponsored by the American Red Cross.

"Our roll call in a normal year is approximately $145,000," James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter, told the volunteer workers. "But we have no idea how much will be needed during this war. In the last World war, the national Red Cross spent $400,000,000 but I believe it is now facing its largest operation in history."

Forgan explained a plan for a drive among employés thruout the city based on the appeal of "a day's pay from those who are working for those who are fighting." He said pledge cards would be available for employés who wish to give contributions over a period of months.

"I'm sure that contributors would be glad to know that when hostilities broke out in Pearl Harbor the Red Cross was already operating nine medical bases in Hawaii and 12 in Manila, all fully equipped and staffed. We are determined that wherever United States boys will go, the Red Cross will be there."

Directly assisting Forgan in Chicago's campaign will be Roger Holden, manager of the Chicago Red Cross; Joseph M. Cudahy, vice chairman in charge of the sponsors' division; Martin H. Kennelly, vice chairman in charge of the industrial division; James H. King, vice chairman in charge of the office, and Col. A. A. Sprague, vice chairman in charge of public departments.

A last minute request was issued at the Bundles for Bluejackets office in the Palmer House, asking mothers and housewives to fill Christmas stockings for navy men in the Chicago area.

"Our goal was 10,000 stockings but we are still under the mark," Mrs. John P. Cohane, Chicago chairman for the organization, said yesterday.

The appointment of a defense program committee to coördinate the Girl Scout defense activities with the Scouting program was announced yesterday by Mrs. Hays MacFarland, 1430 Lake Shore drive, president of the board of the Chicago Girl Scouts. The committee will be composed of Mrs. Richard Bentley, 1401 North Lake road, Lake Forest, chairman; Mrs. Keith Carpenter, 815 East Barberry lane, Lake Forest; Mrs. Harvey Ellerd Jr., 9368 Longwood drive; Mrs. Richard Mayer, 105 East Delaware, and Mrs. H. M. Ross, 6535 North Fairfield avenue.

Hebrew College to Hold 20th Anniversary Dinner

Rabbi Saul Silber, president of the Hebrew Theological college, 3448 Douglas boulevard, announced yesterday that the 20th anniversary dinner of the seminary will be held at the Stevens hotel, Jan. 11. John Balaban and Louis Eta Hokin, are cochairmen of the anniversary fund campaign for the college's development program. Mrs. Ben Lavin and Mrs. Nathan Goldblatt, are directing a committee of women workers for the fund. The anniversary dinner committee is headed by William Henning Rubin.

Engagements

At a tea in their home yesterday Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Corper of Evanston announced the engagement of their daughter, Gladys, to Roger Cushman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Cushman of Wilmette. Ensign Cushman was graduated from Northwestern university.

Mr. and Mrs. Rae Felid Hyman of Winnetka announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Philip Wellsley Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clark of Evanston. Miss Hyman was graduated from the Evanston Academy of Fine Arts. Mr. Clark studied at the Todd School for Boys and Carleton college and was graduated from the Evanston Academy of Fine Arts. He has enlisted in the United States naval intelligence corps.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis of Bridgeport, Ill., announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Robert W. Read, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle D. Read of Evanston. Miss Lewis also lives in Evanston.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

William L. Pittman, YMCA hotel, 826 South Wabash, is the second man cook to win a prize in THE TRIBUNE'S recipe contest. "As an interesting hobby I collect unusual recipes, try them out on my friends and pass the recipes along," he writes.

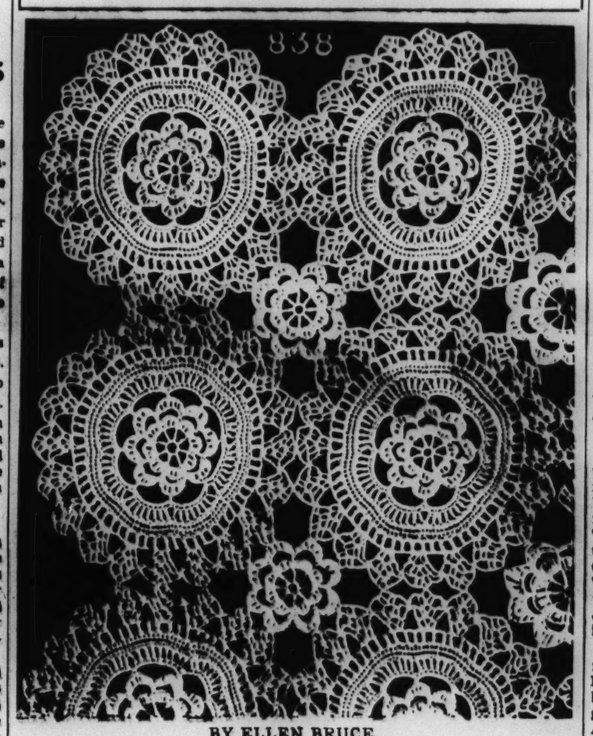
Five dollars are his reward for sending in this good avocado spread. Other readers are invited to submit their favorite recipes for consideration. There'll be a prize every day. Send your best recipe [only one, please] to Recipe Contest, Chicago Tribune.

AVOCADO HORS D'OEUVRE OR SANDWICH SPREAD.

Rub mixing bowl with garlic. Crush to a paste 2 medium avocados.
Add
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon sweet pickle relish
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ pound bacon cooked crisp and crushed
Salt to taste [may be celery salt]

Mix together and spread on small pieces of thin toast. Or use for sandwiches.

Wild Rose Medallion



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

This lovely wild rose crocheted medallion creates a handsome tablecloth or an equally good looking bedspread. The tablecloth requires mercerized crochet cotton and the weight of the thread for a bedspread is slightly coarser and has no sheen. Extremely fine thread may be used to create a dresser scarf.

For instructions in crocheting the wild rose medallion for a tablecloth, No. 838, send 16 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

For the benefit of those readers who may have missed yesterday's column, I repeat certain announcements connected with the recent national bridge examination:

About 25 thousand sets of answers were sent to me for marking, and the vast amount of labor involved makes a full report impossible at this time. I shall begin reviewing controversial questions at the earliest possible moment. Meanwhile, however, the following points should be observed:

In Question 15, five spade and five heart answers were inadvertently grouped with other preëmptive bids, such as three and four spades. Actually, an opening five spade or five heart bid was not bad. Hence, in marking up papers sent to me, I assessed only a 15 point demerit instead of the 50 point demerit which was indicated. Examinees who kept their own scores should, of course, make the proper adjustment.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
6 clubs	Pass	6 hearts [final bid]

North was a plus value short in jumping from one heart to two spades. His shaded bid would not have turned out badly, however, if he had later been less aggressive. Surely, the development of the bidding was not such as to make North feel that there was a good fit. South's three club bid being the worst possible news from North's point of view. Having delivered his strong message thru the single medium of the jump take-out, North should have been satisfied to pass to three no trump.

West made the normal opening on the bidding, a low diamond, and after declarer had carefully scrutinized the dummy, he announced solemnly: "Well I've got a fine play for this contract! If the trumps break 3¼-3½, I might make it."

Obviously, there was no possible hope of success. The club ace and one diamond trick had to be lost. The best conceivable break of trumps was four in one hand and three in the other; therefore, declarer needed all his own trumps to draw the opponents'. This left him unable to establish the spade suit by a ruff, and thus, even without the diamond opening lead, there was no chance for success.

North had violated the cardinal principle that, when a player makes one overbid, he must thereafter tread very lightly.

How Do You Look as You Are Talking?

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

How do you look as you talk?

Paying lip service to that rhyme about "seeing yourself as others see you," Alexis Smith one day amazed visitors on a Hollywood set by apparently talking to herself before a long mirror. What Alexis was really doing was learning how she looked when she talked.

Many women who would swoon at the discovery of lipstick lopping over the edges of their lips distort their faces a hundred times worse when they carry on a conversation. Alexis considers facial expressions so important to beauty that she has worked out a questionnaire for girls whose best friends won't tell them what they unconsciously do with their faces.

Any one who can truthfully answer "no" to all the questions has a chance at beauty, but no girl should answer before she observes herself for several days in a mirror.

1. Do you often force exaggerated expressions?
2. Do you keep your face set in hard lines?
3. Do you constantly frown or scowl?
4. Do you use your tongue in a manner to distort your face?
5. Have you a pet expression of emphasis, such as a wink, a definite nod, compressed lips?
6. Do you let your jaws hang slack?
7. Do you pout?
8. Do you mouth your words too carefully?
9. Do you bite your lips?
10. 'Are you an eyebrow lifter?

After you become master of any of these faults, learn to put more expression in your eyes, Alexis adds, because the eyes are a woman's most arresting feature.

The Housewife

One of the most convenient and attractive small pieces of furniture we've come across in our Christmas shopping jaunts is a mahogany magazine carrier made like a basket, with a handle. It has four legs like a table, so may be used either as a book stand or a carrier. It's also convenient as a place for one's knitting and sewing. Because of its light weight, you can easily carry it from room to room or chair to chair.

Cecil Barnes Jr. to Wed Indiana Girl Saturday

William A. Robinson, and their little son, Christopher, live there, and Cornelius Crane will spend the holidays at his house on the Castle Hill estate.

Mrs. Charles King Corsant, a former Chicagoan who now lives in California, has come to spend the holidays in Chicago. Mrs. Corsant's daughter and son-in-law, Lieut. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Ryan, will come from Chevy Chase, Md., to join her at the Ambassador.

Martha O'Conner Declines Parties Planned for Her.

Miss Martha O'Conner, who will be married on Saturday, has declined the parties her friends wished to give for her this week because her fiancé, William H. Harrison Jr., won't be arriving until the day of the wedding. They'll be married at 4:30 o'clock in the Church of Saints Faith, Hope and Charity in Kenilworth, with the Rev. Thomas J. Burke officiating. Later the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Conner, will give a reception in their Kenilworth home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Sr. will come from their home in Garden City, Long Island, N. Y., and also here will be J. Grant Harrison, the bridegroom's brother and best man. Miss Alice O'Connor will hold her sister's bouquet during the ceremony, and Miss Peggy Scott of Wilmette and Miss Anne Navin of Brookline, Mass., will be bridesmaids. The bride's brothers, Richard and John Jr., will usher with Philip Cramer of Garden City, Long Island, N. Y., and David Dutcher of Rochester, N. Y. Young Mr. Harrison and his bride hope to tuck in a skiing trip before he has to report back to his army post.

Miss O'Connor was graduated from Trinity college in Washington, D. C., and from the Prince school in Boston, Mass. Her fiancé received his bachelor's degree from Dartmouth college and his master's from Columbia university.

American Historical Association Meets in Chicago Next Week

Contemporary as well as past history will be discussed at the 56th annual meeting of the American Historical association at the Stevens hotel, starting next Monday.

Scholars from Europe and Latin America will be on the speaking roster. All sections of the United States will be represented. Thirteen societies will meet jointly with the association.

According to the association's announcement, "The effects of the present crisis upon the study of history will receive special attention, as will also the place of the United States in world affairs."

A look over the shoulder of the kitchen manager in an attempt to speed, lighten and add some novelty to her daily routine.

O, fudge! You're nuts, I'm in a stew, and that's a lotta tripe! He's a ham actor, it was a corny play, and she's no spring chicken. Sounds fishy to me. We certainly lard our "slanguage" with edibles, don't we?

Small, compact rolls are an awful disappointment, aren't they? The cause? Too little kneading, too much flour, or underfermentation.

* * *

Add those bean sprouts just before serving the chop suey, or they'll lose their crispness.

Cook until barely tender is the rule for vegetables. Most of them suffer from overcooking, but lima beans can be ruined by stopping just short of tenderness. Better overcook than undercook a green lima, vice versa most other vegetables.

TRIBUNE ADVERTISING FEATURES

* THRU THE LOOKING GLASS *

It's pathetic to see the helplessness of men when they set out to buy perfume. Unless an intelligent saleslgirl saves them from their own confusion, they're inclined to buy by package alone; they're pushovers for fancy bottles and boxes, but have no ideas about the suitability of certain types of scents for certain types of women.

Actually the most important consideration in the selection of a perfume is its suitability. A gentle, quiet woman who is domestic of avocation and decidedly feminine in dress and manner is pretty sure to dislike a whooper-dooper of a sophisticated, worldly perfume with heady overtones. What's more it will be incongruous with her personality and the kind of clothes she wears. For her, if you don't know the actual brand names of the scents she prefers, choose something "pretty" rather than pert.

A little judicious snooping about the names of preparations already on her dressing table always seems the best possible precaution before a man goes shopping. If it's impossible to find out brand names or scent names, remember that good florals are a pretty safe choice for the average woman. If the lady in your life is extremely clothes conscious, chic in dress, and a girl who gets around a good deal, some of the blends are probably what she'd like. Straight florals might be a little inocuous for her; she'd like something zippier.

Classes in Defense Work Are Organized at Lane Tech High

Classes in industrial chemistry and high speed assembly line work are being formed for men and women as part of the defense training curriculum at Lane Technical High school, 2501 Addison street, it was announced yesterday by A. R. Sansone, principal of the defense division.

Students in the chemistry field are to be limited to 24 men not less than 18 years old. Applicants are requested to report to the Lane defense office from 3 to 9:30 p. m. any weekday except Saturday.

Both men and women applicants will be considered for training in assembly line work. Students will be trained in five basic finger and hand movements used in the assembling of small industrial equipment. This course is an outgrowth of a shortage of assembly workers at factories in the community, Sansone said.

LOYOLA SCORES 40-20 VICTORY OVER DENVER

Tietz, Rottner Lead Ramblers' Attack.

Denver, Colo., Dec. 22 [Special].—Loyola university's Ramblers scored their second victory of the season over Denver university tonight, 40 to 20. The Ramblers' previous triumph was won in Chicago, 37 to 26.

Guard Bob Tietz sank a long goal in the last 15 seconds to take high scoring honors with 12 points. His running mate, Mickey Rottner, clicked for 11 points.

Daugherty Stars on Defense.

Loyola mixed long shots with intricate pass patterns which shook men free under the hoop to run seven points in the first three minutes. The onslaught continued until the Ramblers led 25 to 11 at the half.

Mike Daugherty, rangy Loyola center, stationed himself under his team's basket and thwarted numerous Denver scoring thrusts by leaping high and batting the ball away from the rim. Lineup:

BUTLER, 39; PITT, 29

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 22 [Special].—Butler defeated the University of Pittsburgh tonight, 39 to 29, thru frequent use of quick break plays which usually caught the Panthers well down court. Sophomore Center Glenn Miller led the Butler attack with eight field goals and five free throws.

Butler ran up a 6 to 0 lead, then led 16 to 7 before Pitt's Larry Paffrath threw in seven points to cut Butler's half time lead to 18 to 16. Butler spurted to 32 to 20 in the second half, then coasted. Lineups:

CREIGHTON, 60; OHIO, 34

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 22 (AP).—Ohio State's previously unbeaten basketball team bumped up against a stiff defense tonight and lost to Creighton, 60 to 34. It was Creighton's first victory over the Buckeyes in four meetings. Joe Loisel and Capt. Gene Haldeman slipped thru the Ohio State defense repeatedly and chalked up 19 and 18 points, respectively.

Creighton led midway in the first half, 13 to 6, at intermission it was 28 to 17, and with 10 minutes left Creighton led 45 to 22. The leading Buckeyes' point getters were Wise and McLain with eight and seven points, respectively.

It was the fourth victory in five starts for Creighton, Missouri Valley champions.

Made in America.

"Made in America," I heard him say,
Revealing certain pride in doing so.
And then he bought some toys and went his way
To make the little children's faces glow.
"Made in America" was in his hat
Beneath a long established dealer's name,
And everything about his habitat
Revealed identities quite much the same.
I thought, how good it is to be allied
With such a noble, self-sustaining land!
Where not one blessing is for long denied
And men are simply kings, it's truly grand!
Now in her need, we'll ban hysteria
And build a world Made in America.

Me hard to buy for, what do you mean?
I'm the easiest fellow that ever was seen;
So many things I'd like if you knew,
I shouldn't be much of a problem for you;
I'd love a new roadster, shiny and sleek,
A round trip to Rio for even a week,
A painting in oils, a wristwatch, a book,
Why, there's something for me wherever you look.

A new leather arm chair, it must be bright red,
A flock of cigars, or some bourbon instead?
A Navajo rug for my studio, say,
There's something that really would make my whole day;
Remember, I'm dreaming of just what I'd love,
But the neckties, the sox, each muffler and glove
Will all be accepted just as you meant them,
For I love all you guys and you gals who'll have sent them!

A Letter from Red.

Fort Knox, Ky., Dec. 13, 1941.
Dear Arch—

Remember me? I'm the redhead who has been getting all of the mail at Fort Knox. I've received some very fine letters [more than 300] and am doing my best to answer them. I was doing fine until the present emergency came along. Since then, tho, my work has needed more attention. In fact, I'm working overtime, as we would call it in civvie life. In the last couple of days my buddies and I have gone behind on some 50 letters.

Arch, I've come to a crisis myself now. As much as I would like to write to all of these new friends, it looks almost impossible.

I'd like to have a paragraph in your column explaining the situation. After all, you know, I can't let all these new friends down. At least, not so far down that they don't know why I didn't continue writing them. As you probably know, we fellows in the service can't mention the activities going on in the various camps and forts during the crisis. That seems to be the main thing, too, the friends want to know about. It just can't be done. Yours truly,
Pvt. Byron [Red] Laws,

LEO WINS TITLE IN TOURNEY AT ST. GEORGE, 38-28

Defeats De La Salle Five; Baranowski Stars.

Henry [Babe] Baranowski, captain of Leo High school's basketball team, last night received the trophy emblematic of Leo's triumph in the eighth annual St. George basketball tournament after his team had defeated De La Salle, 38 to 28, in the championship game. Baranowski was the headliner all the way.

The hustling little football star scored eight field goals and a free throw and held the team together at times when the play was so fierce that it seemed both fives would run right out of the gym.

Baranowski was elected to the all-tournament team along with Bob Evans of De Paul at the guards, Johnny Kempfer of Mount Carmel and Bill Zaletel of Joliet at forwards, and John Kerris of De La Salle at center.

De La Salle Puts on Rally.

Leo got away to an early lead but De La Salle brought the count to 13 to 7 at the end of the first period and then rallied to trail by two points, 20 to 18, at the half. Leo increased its lead to 28 to 22 at the end of the third period.

Baranowski hit early and often in the opening period as he counted four goals and a free shot for nine of his team's 13 points.

The entire De La Salle team got into the scoring column in the second period as the Meteors moved closer to their rivals.

They Take an Early Shower.

When competition became tougher early in the third period, Jim O'Halloran of Leo and Joe Schulz of De La Salle adopted Marquis of Queensbury rules. The attempted fight was short lived and both boys were told they might enjoy an early shower.

Bill Brennan added to Leo's working margin when he scored a basket and added a free throw to make the score 24 to 19.

From then on Baranowski took charge once again and just to make certain there wouldn't be any question as to the ultimate outcome, dropped in three more field goals to make the final count 38 to 28.

Mount Carmel Finishes Third.

Mount Carmel, third place winner last year, wound up in the same spot in the 1941 tournament by defeating De Paul academy, 32 to 25, in the opening game. Lineups:

Illinois Beats Dartmouth in Overtime Hockey Game, 4 to 1

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Aldo and Mario Palazzari, University of Illinois forwards from Eveleth, Minn., the United States' most productive hockey incubator, and Lou Ferronti of West Springfield, Mass., all scored in overtime last night in the Chicago Arena to give the Illini a 4 to 1 victory over Dartmouth college's touring puck shooters.

It was the first intersectional intercollegiate hockey match ever played in Chicago and attracted a capacity crowd of 3,733 partisans who taxed the capacity of the Arena.

Haircuts à la Hockey.

While more goals were scored by Illinois in the 10 minute overtime period than by both teams in the three regular 20 minute sessions, the nonproductive phase was not without its exciting moments. The boys got a bit saucy toward each other from time to time but, after it was all over, assembled on midice and shook hands like the cultured gents they really meant to be during the contest.

It was the extra-curricular sport of giving shaves and haircuts with hockey sticks that really aroused the Illinois belated scoring mettle.

Shortly after the start of the overtime, Palazzari was bounced into the penalty box for the third time. This aroused Mario who had taken quite a pushing around but locked up he was somewhat handcuffed. So, brother Aldo, very indignant too, went right out and broke the 1 to 1 tie, assisted by George Balestri, who, like Ferronti, and Amo Bessone, his Illinois teammates, used to play with Notre Dame's famed Angelo Bertelli, on the West Springfield High hockey team.

Mario Breaks Jail—Scores.

Well, Aldo's goal was enough for victory but Mario got out of the penalty box, and soon scored Illinois' third goal, assisted by Herschel Benson of Wilton, Me. Ferronti scored the third Illinois overtime goal in 7:45 on a nice solo dash the length of the rink.

It's Rough—And 6 Tumble.

A goal by Bibs Miller, Illinois winger from Ft. Francis, Ont., on assists by Capt. Joe Lotzer of Fond du Lac, Wis., and Benson was accomplished in 7:25 of the first period and stood up for a 1 to 0 lead until 13:12 of the second period when Ralph Du Chame of Metheum, Mass., batted home the tying goal just as Mario Palazzari was about to end a penalty term for high sticking. ON TO DUKE! SAY BEAVERS AFTER CHICAGO DRILL

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Oregon State football squad, the first major athletic group to feel the effect of the war, passed thru Chicago yesterday on the way to Durham, N. C., for the New Year's day game with Duke. During a stopover of several hours, Coach Lon Stiner told how it feels to land a team in Rose bowl competition—which happens once in a lifetime to a few football men—and then to find that the Rose bowl has been closed.

"It's putting it mildly to say we were downcast," he remarked. "For two days after the announcement that we were in the bowl game, the whole school was wild. It was impossible to walk across the campus without getting snapped up into one of those endless chains of students doing snake dances hand in hand. Then came word that the Rose bowl game was forbidden by the military authorities. It hit every one terribly hard.

All Is Well Now.

"We can see now, however, that everything worked out for the best in the timing of the order. If it hadn't been called off then, it would certainly be called off by this time. Luckily for us, we knew in time to revise the arrangements so as to play it in North Carolina."

In outlining Oregon State's prospects of victory in the transplanted Rose bowl game, Stiner said that one of the team's strongest points was its level-headedness under fire.

"The boys went thru a very tough schedule, playing teams practically as good as they were Saturday after Saturday. There were no soft spots in the schedule. Each game was decided by two or three plays. Under these conditions, the players never lost their heads and started throwing the ball around. The Duke game will be mighty hard and most football men aren't conceding us much of a chance. But I think we have a good one."

An Amazing Statement.

This statement, coming from a football coach, was practically sensational in view of the habitual procedure of their profession of adopting the gloomiest possible view of their team's prospects.

Oregon State came thru its Pacific Coast conference schedule with five victories and two defeats to top that league. After opening with a 13 to 7 defeat by Southern California they beat Washington, 9 to 6, and Stanford, 10 to 0, on successive Saturdays. After an open date they lost to Washington State, 7 to 0. Then Oregon State ran off five consecutive victories over Idaho, U. C. L. A., California, Montana State and Oregon."

The squad arrived in Chicago at 8:30 yesterday morning and left at 3:50 p. m. The team will stop over in Washington today and will arrive in Durham tomorrow.

Rip Miller Retained as Assistant.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 22 (AP).—Emerson W. [Spike] Nelson resigned today as head coach of the Yale football team which won only one of its eight games during the last season.

Golden Miller, Yale athletic director, said Nelson had written him a letter, saying:

"I have resigned my position at Yale to be free to join the staff of the procurement department of the United States Engineer corps in Philadelphia. I leave Yale with regret, but in these times of national stress I cannot refuse the opportunity to serve which has come to me."

The resignation is effective Jan. 1.

Miller Is out of Town.

Miller, who recently told a group of Connecticut sportswriters that "there will be no change in the head football coaching position for 1942," was en route to Chicago to address a Yale alumni father and son dinner, when the announcement of the resignation was made.

Nelson, holder of a Ph.D degree, was an outstanding tackle at the University of Iowa and came to Yale three years ago after a year as head coach at Mississippi State college.

For two years he was line coach at Yale, becoming the first non-alumnus head coach at the end of the 1940 season when Raymond W. [Ducky] Pond was advised that he would not be retained for another year. Yale also lost seven of eight games in the 1940 season.

LARSON LEAVES

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—Navy's athletic association appointed Commander John E. Whelchel, U. S. N., of Washington, D. C., head football coach of the United States Naval academy today.

Whelchel, back field coach this last season, succeeds Maj. Emory E. [Swede] Larson, U. S. M. C., of Minneapolis, Minn., head coach since December, 1938, who will report for duty at the Naval War college, Newport, R. I., next month.

He Won't Change System.

The new coach, one of navy's smartest quarter backs in his playing days from 1916 to 1918, said he did not plan any changes in the present academy football system. Athletic officials also said no further changes were contemplated in the coaching staff.

Navy's eleevens have been coached by academy graduates since 1934, when Edgar [Rip] Miller, now line coach, was succeeded by Tom Hamilton. Miller was the last of five civilian head coaches during the period from 1917 to 1934.

Whelchel, a widower, is the father of three children. He lives in the navy yard here.

WESTERN SQUAD HOLDS WORKOUT IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Dec. 22 (AP).—The remainder of the Western All-Stars arrived today and went thru a two hour drill in an intermittent rain before settling down to regular drill at Baton Rouge tomorrow. They meet the Eastern team here on Jan. 3.

Coach Babe Hollingbery of Washington State led the far western half of the All-Star team into New Orleans, joining Coach Biff Jones of Nebraska and the middlewestern contingent which arrived Sunday.

Coach Bernie Moore of L. S. U. joined the western coaching staff at Jones' request, to help with the line. Moore succeeded Jones at L. S. U. some years ago when Jones went to Oklahoma, thence to Nebraska.

Carlos Malacara Stops Jimmy Tygh in Third

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Carlos Malacara, Mexican lightweight, scored his second straight triumph in the Ridgewood Grove arena tonight when he scored a technical knockout over Jimmy Tygh, 139½, Philadelphia, in the third round of a scheduled eight rounder. Malacara weighed 134¾.

Red Sox Make Cubs Present of Pitcher Fleming

Much to their surprise the Cubs yesterday acquired the services of Bill Fleming, right handed pitcher, from the Boston American league club. The club previously had refused to waive on the player and his formal transfer took place when Eddie Collins, general manager of the Red Sox, sent a "He's yours" wire to Jim Gallagher, general manager of the Cubs.

Fleming was purchased from the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast league and, subsequently, was released by Boston to Louisville on option.

BASEBALL FOLK ADOPT 'BUSINESS AS USUAL' SLOGAN

New Draft Bracket May Soften Turnstile Music.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Congress didn't do a lot to help along the cause of baseball, especially major league baseball, when it changed the age limits of those conscriptable for military service to 20-44 years, inclusive.

Until this country was drawn into the war, on last Dec. 7, baseball seemed to have clear sailing ahead. Two days earlier Hank Greenberg, the outstanding soldier-ballplayer, had been discharged from the army and it appeared others, including Hugh Mulcahy, past their 28th birthdays, would be allowed to return to the game.

Under the 21 to 28 policy—in effect at the time hostilities broke out—the major leagues could have operated successfully even if players of the 21 to 28 classes had suddenly been denied deferment. But 20 to 44—that's something else again. The 44 tops catches even such gents as Jimmy Dykes, Jimmy Wilson, Ted Lyons, Gabby Hartnett, Lefty Grove and others who remained on active rosters after 40.

Doesn't Make Turnstile Music.

Of course, the setting of the limits at 20-44 doesn't mean that all players between those ages are going to be called or enlisted in military service. But there is a question in the minds of some sports folk about how much interest the public is going to have in, say a 24 year old ball player, when said public has relatives aged 44 in the service, especially if said 44 year olds weren't eager to join up. It just doesn't seem to make turnstile music from this distance.

There have been some hints that the draft officials will be giving the 20 to 28 lists a pretty stiff recombing before they start reaching out for the 28 to 35 fellows on the old registration lists or the new registrants up thru 44. This will take some of the heat off the heretofore deferred young ball players, insofar as the public mood is concerned. But it may net a lot of essential ball players who thus far have been excused.

A Recreational Industry.

Many able and thoroly patriotic baseball officials have refused to become hysterical over the baseball outlook and, with obvious sincerity, assert that baseball will have a bona fide function as a recreational industry.

Many of the clubs sent out their player contracts earlier than usual. With the contracts, in some instances, at least, went questionnaires anent possible changes in draft status. Otherwise, 'tis said, a brave effort is being made to carry on under the "business as usual" slogan.

As soon as the first blackout came on the west coast and Angelenos started chasing Japs into hiding, reporters started asking the Cubs and White Sox where they would train, instead of Catalina and Pasadena. These inquirers were told the training will be done on Catalina and in Pasadena.

It probably won't be difficult to find an inland training spot for each of the Chicago teams to use if the government brushes them out of California.

A Chicago Stop for Coast Champions

Connie Mack, 79 Today, Still Looks Ahead with Optimism

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 22 (AP).—Connie Mack, baseball's most beloved character, will be 79 years young tomorrow. As spry and enthusiastic as ever, he figures he has accumulated the makings of a great pitching staff for his Athletics as a birthday present for himself.

In his tower office in Shibe Park, his eyes glowed as he picked up a team roster.

"Yes," he said. "It's taken longer than I thought, but now I feel I have the makings of a great pitching staff. You know it was our lack of pitching that kept us down last season."

Stamp of Approval.

His eyes ran down the list of players. "Let's see now. There's Caliguiri, C-a-l-i-g-u-i-r-i," he spelled slowly. "Christopher, Fowler, Harris, Marchildon and Wolff."

Thus did the tall, thin, gracious old gentleman who developed such pitchers as Rube Waddell, Herb Pennock, Lefty Grove, and Chief Bender, put the stamp of approval on Fred Caliguiri of West Hickory, Pa.; Russell Christopher of Pt. Richmond, Cal.; Dick Fowler of Toronto, Ont.; Luman Harris of Birmingham, Ala.; Phil Marchildon of Penetang, Canada, and Russell Wolff of Williamsport, Pa.

"They've got it," he explained. "Then, too, don't forget Jack Knott, Herman Besse, and Bill Beckman. They should help a great deal."

58th Season Coming Up.

The lean leader of the Athletics, soon to start his 58th year in baseball, isn't claiming a pennant, however. Too many things can happen during the present emergency altho he feels the war will aid baseball, rather than hamper it.

"We can't go around with sad faces," he asserted. "We must be cheerful. Sports do a great deal to keep up morale. During the last war the 1918 season was curtailed, but later we thought that was a mistake."

A legendary figure wherever baseball is known, Connie—born Cornelius McGillicuddy in 1862—talked on a variety of subjects.

"You know I gave a short talk at a meeting the other night. I told them I was in Japan for two months in 1934. I told them we met some fine people in Japan, but—" he smiled— "they were all Americans!"

Some Random Comment.

"My weight? I never step on a scale any more. Not since that illness of mine two years ago. I don't want to know what I weigh."

"A good base runner never puts the coach in a position where the fans can criticize him. Sometimes the coach is blamed for something that isn't his fault. On the Athletics when there is a man on first, with one out, he is supposed to try to get to third on any hit ball if it is at all possible. From there he can score on a fly. We play differently if there is nobody out or if there are two away."

"I feel just the way I did 40 years ago. You're only as old as you feel. I've known many persons who when they reach 60 think 'I'm getting old.' I like to keep a-going. Experience is a great teacher."

BOWLERS TO PUT $10,000,000 INTO DEFENSE BONDS

Many Leagues Adopt Plan for Patriotic Prizes.

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

Bowlers will participate in the defense financing program on a far larger scale than was anticipated when the conversion of prize money into bonds and stamps was first suggested recently, Secretary Elmer H. Baumgarten of the American Bowling congress declared in Columbus, O., yesterday. Mr. Baumgarten, in Columbus in connection with the setting up of the 1942 ABC tournament, indicated that the nation's 16 million bowlers will contribute at least 10 million dollars to defense bonds in the next few months.

In line with the original suggestion of the ABC that all bowling prize money be put into defense securities, Mr. Baumgarten said that the organization's tournament might pay all its prizes in bonds and stamps. The total will run over $300,000 and may reach $500,000, he said, tournament eservations indicating that the 80 day show will carry an entry far above that of any previous tournament.

Move Gains Headway.

Mr. Baumgarten pointed out that some 19,000 leagues are operating and that their prize money will average more than $500—which would make up the full 10 million dollars, if put into bonds and stamps. These figures do not take into account women's leagues, which alone will have a membership of 150,000 this season.

Fear that the war might disrupt the bowlers' program has been largely dissipated as the consequence of the move toward buying stamps. Bowlers who were puzzled about the place of their sport in the national program now feel that it is making a definite contribution toward defense—in short that it is patriotic to bowl, with defense bonds and stamps as prizes to shoot for. The ABC first made the suggestion and bought $15,000 worth of bonds, and the Chicago Bowling association followed immediately by taking $7,500 in bonds. Since then numerous other city associations as well as thousands of leagues have acted.

A Chicago league that is to pay its prize money in defense stamps is the Tom 'o Shanter mixed circuit, whose membership of 160 bowlers makes it the largest mixed league in the country. Its entire prize fund of approximately $2,700 will be paid out in stamps. Its vote was taken on the suggestion of Secretary Claude C. Crandall.

Other Leagues Invest.

Another Chicago league that has invested is the Merchandise Mart circuit of 210 bowlers. It has put $1,575 into defense stamps, thus providing every member with $7.50 in stamps.

The campaign probably has had its effect in keeping reservations to the ABC annual tournament rolling in, most recent figures showing that the total has moved up to 4,690 teams, roughly 25 per cent more than had applied at a corresponding time last year.

In line with the patriotic theme, Peter Howley, Bensinger's general manager, has booked two matches at the concern's 20 West Randolph center on Jan. 30 for the benefit of the Red Cross. The Joseph L. Gills of the Randolph league will meet the Gills of the Gold Coast league, while the Budweisers of the Randolph league will oppose the Budweisers of the North End Traveling circuit.

Fritzi Scheffs Lead.

The Fritzi Scheffs again are out front in the Samuelson Major, having captured a full set from the Michelobs while the Wallace Coals were dropping a game to the Goldammer Kids. The Coals won the odd game by three pins only because John Podmers fired a strike on his last ball. . . . Eddie Zaller's 255 game was a factor in the Rostenkowskis' shooting high series, 2,776 and game, 1,008, in winning three from Lincoln Bottling, in the Stack & Ryan Commercial league. . . . Meister Brau dealt Prospect Clothiers their first shutout of the season in the Stack & Ryan Major. Meister Brau had a seven-pin margin in one game and 11 pins in another. . . . Troy Voyles has fired six consecutive series of more than 600 in the Marigold Major and is leading the league with a 201 average. . . .

The Playdium extended its margin to eight games in the Playdium Major by winning a full set from the Laner Ebonites on a 3,047 total. Joe Aubert's 621 was high for Playdium. Oddity of the league play was Joe Bahover's series of three 169 games. . . . The Fast Freights, stragglers in the C. & N. W. league, came to life with a double victory over Dumas' 400, runnerup in the 12-team circuit. Fafnir Bearings, in the lead by six games, meanwhile failed to extend their margin as they dropped a pair to the Streamliners.

Chin Up, Luke.

Dear Wake—

Excuse the delay in writing, but I will not be able to see you in Florida this year. Was high-jacked a week ago today. Was listening to the Bear-Cardinal football game when they barged in on me and took everything I had put away for my vacation. Have found out who they were, a fellow named Hitler, another one named Mussolini—have bumped up against them before—and then they had another guy they called "Toto," or something like that. He is the one that did the dirty work. Have told the gang about this and they have gone on record that they will get all three of them and have told me I will get everything back that they took, with interest, but I may have to wait 10 years for it. Give my best to the boys at the two dollar window at Tropical. —Luke from Kenosha.

NOTRE DAME AND ILLINOIS FIVES TO PLAY TONIGHT

Fast Breaking Attacks to Clash.

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 22 [Special].—Illinois' basketball team is geared for a spirited struggle here tomorrow night against a fast and constantly improving Notre Dame team which is expected to be the strongest opposition the Illini have encountered this season.

Fast breaking tactics are predicted on the basis of the performances of Irish and Illini this season. Notre Dame's 46 to 40 defeat of Michigan demonstrated that the Irish are developing rapidly. Illinois scored 46 points to beat Detroit by 12 points but the Titans were not considered as strong opponents as Michigan was for the Irish.

Jack Smiley, sophomore from Waterman, is likely to retain the place in the starting lineup he occupied against Detroit and Vic Wukovits may be retained at guard because of his experience. However, Gene Vance is certain to get in at guard and Capt. Bill Hocking, Chuck Fowler, and Ed Park, forwards, will probably see action.

The probable lineups follow:

ILLINOIS.		NOTRE DAME.
Smiley	L.F.	Butler
Menke	R.F.	Niemiera
Mathisen	C.	Faught
Phillip	L.G.	Rensberger
Wukovits	R.G.	Engel

NOTRE DAME LEAVES.

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 22 [Special].—A 15 man Notre Dame basketball squad left here this afternoon for Champaign and tomorrow's game with Illinois. The squad took a light morning workout under Coach George E. Keogan, who then turned the group over to Assistant Coach Ray J. Meyer for the journey. Keogan is still under doctor's orders not to travel with the team, having missed a month of last season because of illness.

Quinn Makes Team.

Frank Quinn, senior center, today advanced to the starting team over Bob Faught, rangy sophomore, and either Orlando Bonicelli, sophomore, or Capt. Art Pope, senior, appeared likely to take Engels' position. Bonicello played most of the Michigan game. The forwards will be Charlie Butler and John Niemiera, both of Chicago, with Bob Rensberger of Nappinee, Ind., at the other guard.

Those making the trip follow: Forwards—Butler, Niemiera, Hiller, Curran, Sturm, Vinciguerra. Centers—Quinn, Faught, Kuka. Guards—Rensberger, Capt. Pope, Bonicelli, Singer, Fischer, and O'Leary.

MIDWEST STARS CO-CAPTAINS OF NORTHERN TEAM

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 22 (AP).—Two all-southeastern players, Lloyd Cheatham, Auburn quarter back, and Bob Gude, Vanderbilt center, were named co-captains of the southern team today for the Blue-Gray football game Dec. 27.

Gordon Paschka, big guard from Minnesota, and Bob Friedlund, pass catching end from Michigan State, were elected co-captains for the Blue squad.

MAROONS MEET WEST. MICHIGAN QUINTET TONIGHT

Seek to End Three Game Losing Streak.

The University of Chicago Maroons, beaten in their last three games, will try to conclude their preconference season with a victory tonight over Western Michigan of Kalamazoo. The Midway fieldhouse tipoff is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

The Western Michigan quintet has won five games this year, losing only to Northwestern, 61 to 39, and last night to Iowa, 49 to 48. Harold Gensichen, forward, and Dick Slater, guard, are the sharpshooters in the Western Michigan attack.

Chicago Coach Nels Norgren bases his victory hopes on the continued improvement of Sophomore Bob Oakley, high scorer in the Maroons' last two games. Oakley, from his guard post, gives the Maroons a backcourt threat to supplement the offensive maneuvers of Jack Fons and Ed Nelson, veteran forwards. Lineups:

CHICAGO		WEST. MICH.
Fons	F.	Ballard
Nelson	F.	Gensichen
Sitka	C.	Loranger
Crosbie	G.	Slater
Oakley	G.	Kahler

IOWA WINS, 49-48

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 22 [Special].—The University of Iowa's basketball team defeated Western Michigan tonight, 49 to 48, as Ben Trickey dropped in the winning point with only 25 seconds to play. Western Michigan's loss of two regulars, Fred Kahler, guard, by injury, and Harold Gensichen, high scoring forward, on personal fouls, contributed to the Broncos' defeat. Western Michigan led at the half, 29 to 23.

As the second half opened Tom Chapman, Iowa forward, scored four baskets with Gensichen countering with one to tie the score at 31-all. It was tied again at 33-all on baskets by Dick Slater of Western Michigan and Milt Kuhl of Iowa. Then a basket by Wendell Hill and a basket and free throw by Kuhl, a free throw by Vic Siegel, and Hill's second basket put the Hawkeyes in front, 41 to 38. Iowa increased the margin to 48 to 42, but the Broncos rallied to tie at 48-all. Bob Mellen then fouled Trickey, who shot the winning point.

PROS DRAFT 26 PLAYERS FROM BIG NINE TEAMS

Bears Take Frank Albert from Stanford.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Professional football's annual grab bag yesterday brought 200 recruits into the National league — technically. There was little doubt that the actual harvest of 1941's outstanding college gridiron specimens would be small, inasmuch as another draft is in progress.

Frank Albert.

Bob Westfall.

The owners of the 10 clubs and the league officials proceeded in line with the recommended policy of civic and national leaders—to maintain normalcy while awaiting the requirements of the war. There were misgivings, of course, on the future of professional football, blended with a determination to go ahead with plans for next season and hope for the best.

As expected, the first star drafted was William Dudley, the University of Virginia's great passer. He became the property of the Pittsburgh Steelers, who got first choice because they finished with the lowest percentage, winning only one game. This was the procedure, which kept the two-time champion Chicago Bears away from the exclusive list until nine others had stepped forth.

Bears Get What They Want.

Despite this, the Bears perhaps got just the man they wanted—Frankie Albert. Stanford southpaw quarter back. This gives the champions [technically] three-fourths of the Stanford 1941 Rose bowl champions' back field. The Bears also put in a bid for Edgar [Special Delivery] Jones, the fast stepping back who lifted Pitt from a season of mediocrity with game-breaking scoring dashes.

It had been expected that the Philadelphia Eagles, newest exponents of the modern T formation man in motion offense, would ask for Albert, but instead they chose Pete Kmetovic, Frankie's teammate at left half back.

The Chicago Cardinals' first choice was Steve Lach, six foot two inch, 195 pound back from Duke's Rose bowl entry. The south siders also got rights to Bud Schwenk, the demon passer from Washington university of St. Louis. Schwenk is an inch over six feet in height and weighs 196. Jack Crain, the hard running back from the University of Texas, also was claimed by the Cards as was Doug Renzel, Marquette half back.

Big Ten Choices Popular.

In all, the 10 teams selected 26 players from the Western conference, 2 from Notre Dame and 2 from Marquette. Jack Graf, Ohio State half back and recent winner of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S most valuable player trophy, was chosen by Cleveland. Steve Juzwik, Notre Dame left half back, who is awaiting an immediate call to service, was on the list of Washington's Redskins. This team also won negotiating rights for John Kovatch, Irish end.

Two teams, Pittsburgh and Brooklyn, passed up Big Nine stars. In addition to Graf, Cleveland took Don Clawson, Northwestern full back; Len Levy, Minnesota guard, and Italo Rossi, Purdue tackle. Philadelphia selected Gordon Paschka, Minnesota guard. The Cardinals put the finger on Jud Ringer, Minnesota end.

Detroit's first pick was Bob Westfall, Michigan full back. The Lions also came up with Alf Bauman, Northwestern tackle; Bill Diehl, Iowa center, and Dick Fisher, Ohio State back. Washington reached for Bob Fitch, Minnesota end; Bill De Correvont, Northwestern half back, and Al Couppee, Iowa quarter back.

Giants Choose Bob Sweiger.

New York's lone conference pick was Bob Sweiger, half back from Minnesota. The Bears had John Petty, Purdue half back, and Jim Daniell, Ohio State tackle, on their 20 man list.

Green Bay went for conference talent in a big way with 10 selections, which follow: Urban Odson, tackle; Gene Flick, center, and Bruce Smith, half back, all of Minnesota; Joe Rogers, end; and Bob Ingalls, center, of Michigan; William Green, half back from Iowa; Tom Farris, Wisconsin back; Jim Trimble, Indiana tackle; Tom Kinkade, Ohio State back, and George Benson, Northwestern back.

Al Blozis of Georgetown, who besides being the champion college shotputter, is quite a tackle, wound up with the Giants.

The Bears came up with a "sleeper" in H. C. Burrus, Hardin-Simmons end, who is rated as the best offensive wingman in many seasons in the southwest. The man who threw passes to him this season, Murray Evans, Hardin-Simmons captain and quarter back, was drafted by Detroit. Evans also is rated highly. Bulldog Turner, Bears' center who comes from Hardin-Simmons, recommended Burrus. Evans is married and has one son. Burrus is only 20.

American Hockey League Scoring Race Gets Hot

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 22 (AP).—Norm Calladine of Providence and Adam Brown of Indianapolis are gaining on Lou Trudel of Washington, the American Hockey league's leading scorer. Lou, with 30 points, was held scoreless during the past week according to the official statistics announced today, but not Norm or Adam. Calladine found the net once while Brown picked up three assists enabling each to draw within four points of the pacemaker.

Peter Kmetovic, Stanford half back [Philadelphia].
Steve Lach, Duke half back [Chicago Cardinals].
Bob Westfall, Michigan full back [Detroit].
Orban Sanders, Texas half back [Washington].
Bob Robertson, U. S. C. half back [Brooklyn].
Merle Hapes, Mississippi half back [New York].
Urban Odson, Minnesota tackle [Green Bay].
Frank Albert, Stanford quarter back [Chicago Bears].

CHICAGO COACH IS LECTURER IN AQUATIC FORUM

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Dec. 22 [Special].—Eileen Scanlan of Chicago, director of athletics at Mundelein college, is among the representatives of 50 universities and colleges attending the National Women's Aquatic forum, which opened here yesterday and continues until Jan. 6.

Miss Scanlan will demonstrate synchronized swimming before the forum, and lecture on methods of instruction. Her water ballet, the Mundelein Water carnival, is an annual feature of Mundelein college and Chicago athletics. Air Mechanics Keep in Trim for Their Jobs

BY WILFRID SMITH.

"Keep 'Em Flying."

The Latin phrase on the emblem of the air corps technical training school reads, "Sustineo Alas." Freely translated it means "Keep 'Em Flying." The man on the street, familiar with this pungent phrase, probably will not associate it with the air corps technical training schools, or if he does he will think immediately of the sprawling post at Chanute Field or at Scott Field.

Two hundred seventy-five boys are learning to keep 'em flying at the Aeronautical university, 1338 South Michigan avenue. Twenty-five graduate from the 22 week course every two weeks. All enlisted for three years and now will serve for the duration. They attend this private school under military discipline and by virtue of a contract between the government and the school. They are taught by civilian instructors.

Establish Fourteen Schools.

In 1939 the United States government began an expansion of technical training that required the facilities of many privately conducted schools. Fourteen now are training air mechanics. They are located in Lincoln, Neb., Kansas City, Mo.; San Francisco, Boston, New Orleans, Philadelphia, Dallas, Tulsa, Newark, N. J.; Chicago, Los Angeles, and New York. The latter two cities have two schools each.

Maj. Charles P. McCormick is the commanding officer of the Chicago detachment. The cadets are quartered on the third, fourth, and fifth floors of the YMCA hotel. They are served their meals in a private dining room, must stand bed inspection at 11 o'clock each night, and must report for class at 8 o'clock each morning. All attend classes until 5 o'clock and their studies comprise 11 phases, or courses, which lead to a rank of first or second class A. M. [air mechanic].

What Course Includes.

The courses of study qualify the cadets to repair, maintain, and install airplane motors, make other repairs, and in general "Keep 'Em Flying." Some may be assigned to the huge bombers, for their mechanical skills will be required to keep them flying while aloft.

These soldier-students may come from any field in the United States. After they have completed their final two week phase, which is taught at the Municipal airport, they may be assigned to any air base.

The armed services believe in physical exercise and sports competition. There can be no exceptions in the required physical programs, but for this particular Chicago group, at least during the winter months, the task of Staff Sergt. Gil McDonald is most difficult. McDonald, a former University of Wisconsin athlete and a Western conference basketball official, was sent from Chanute field to organize the athletic program for the cadets. Bill Schmitz, former Wisconsin football player, has a similar task in the school at Kansas City. Headquarters for this physical preparedness program recently was shifted to Tulsa, Okla., from Chanute field.

Selects Own Sport.

Each air corps technical training student is permitted to choose the sport in which he wishes to compete. Ten bowling teams use the alleys at the Stevens hotel each Monday evening. They have been given a special rate by the hotel. Ten basketball teams are engaged in intramural competition. Most games have been played in the Olivet institute gymnasium. Other locations are sought. Eventually Sergt. McDonald hopes to have a detachment quintet to play Chicago teams.

On Monday and Wednesday nights the swimmers use the Central YMCA pool. Several service men's centers have made equipment available and in the spring the Chicago park district will assign diamonds in Grant park for softball games. The immediate need now is a hall, gymnasium, or armory large enough for drill and calisthenics. The old armory at 16th and Michigan has passed into private ownership and is not available. Location and size make this an ideal building.

Despite these handicaps and the hurried pace of long study days, every effort is made to have these students at physical peak. With a foundation of fitness from games and exercise, these youngsters will be better prepared for the physical demands of war.

Reporters Are Surprised—at '41 Pitt Eleven

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—There are at least 200 good reasons why the best horse in a race can lose, and even more explanations for the defeat of the best football team. Nevertheless the sports writers who report those happenings can't get over the habit of being surprised when they take place.

Baseball, boxing, and other sports also contributed their share of surprises in 1941, but in the minds of 84 sports writers participating in the annual Associated Press poll, the doings on the gridiron topped them all.

Pittsburgh's 13 to 0 triumph over the Fordham Rams on Nov. 3—after Fordham had won its first five games and Pitt had lost as many—caused the greatest amount of amazement.

Texas Also Proves Amazing.

The performances of the great Texas football team—in being tied by Baylor and defeated by Texas Christian and then resuming its attitude of invincibility in that 71 to 7 triumph over Oregon—put the Longhorns in second place with 16 votes for first place and a point total of 94.

Stanford, Oregon State, the Green Bay Packers, Notre Dame, Texas Aggies, Duquesne, and Army all were mentioned prominently as providing football surprises.

Ghezzi Is Surprise of Golf.

Golf's biggest surprise was Vic Ghezzi's P. G. A. triumph, considered worth 19 points in the voting. The Yankees' victories in the American league pennant race and the world series drew 18 points and the first place votes of two writers [apparently National leaguers]. Squaring that account, Brooklyn's National league victory also was given two first place votes and 12 points.

GET DETROIT GOALIE.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 22 (AP).—The Philadelphia Rockets of the American Hockey league today acquired Goalie Frank Perras on loan from Detroit.

Hawks Battle Americans in East Tonight

Games Tonight

Chicago at Brooklyn Americans.
New York Rangers at Boston.

New York, Dec. 22 [Special].—The Blackhawks arrived this morning to battle Brooklyn and New York National league hockey teams. They clash with Red Dutton's Americans tomorrow night and Christmas night play the Rangers.

Chicago has beaten Brooklyn in all three of their previous games, taking the contest here, 2 to 1, and winning in Chicago, 1 to 0 and 5 to 4.

The Hawks will be idle for four days following the Christmas game. They then tackle the Canadiens in Montreal on Tuesday.

New Year's night the Hawks will be back on their home ice with the Detroit Red Wings as opponents.

PICARD SHOOTS 266 TO CAPTURE RIO GRANDE OPEN

Dutch Harrison Finishes Second with 269.

Harlingen, Tex., Dec. 22 (AP).—Henry Picard of Oklahoma City won the $5,000 Rio Grande Valley Open Golf tournament today with a 266 total for 72 holes of play, 18 under par. Picard beat off a great rally in the final nine holes by E. J. [Dutch] Harrison of Little Rock, who finished second with a 268.

Picard, who shot a 131 for the first two 18-hole rounds, carded 66-69—135 today. Harrison finished the first two rounds five behind Picard and on the final rounds fired 64-68—132.

Fred Corcoran of the PGA said Picard's score was the lowest for 1941, but the record low was set by Craig Wood in 1940 with a 264 in the Metropolitan Open at Bloomfield, N. J.

Harrison Catches Up.

Harrison drew even with Picard today on the 65th hole. Picard went two strokes ahead on the 69th, gained another on the 70th. On the last hole Harrison picked up a stroke with a birdie when Picard had a par.

Jimmy Demaret of Detroit finished with a 65 to win third place. His total was 269. Jack Tinnin of Houston won top honors for amateurs with 289, followed by John Derr of Raymondville, Tex., with 297.

Nelson Gets Fourth.

Byron Nelson of Toledo, carded a 66 for 271 and fourth place, and Benny Hogan of Hershey, Pa., slipped to a 69 in the final eighteen for a tournament total of 272 that gave him fifth place. Tonny Penna of Dayton, O., was sixth with 273.

Prizes were divided as follows:

Picard, $1,000; Harrison, $750; Demaret, $550; Nelson, $450; Hogan, $375; Penna, $300; Jack Grout, $225; George Fazio, $225.

Dick Metz, $162.50; Harold McSpaden, $162.50; Chick Harbert, $125; Clayton Heafner, $100; Henry Ransom, $90; Claude Harmon, $90; Ed Wysowski, $90; Lester Kennedy, $67.50; Elmer Reed, $67.50; Ky Laffoon, $60, and Paul Runyan, $50.

BALMY SPRING away well in motion, raced THROTTLE WIDE into submission and held on well. THROTTLE WIDE was hustled along all the way, but weakened in last sixteenth. DOUBLE B., well up, performed well. VOTUM came from far back. ROMAN HERO had no mishap. WEISENHEIMER was moving up very fast on the inside, was caught in a jam, and fell.

EIGHTH RACE—Purse $1,000. Three year olds and up. One and one-eighth miles. Start good. Won easily, place same. Went to post at 5:24. Off at once. New Yorkers Tee Off on a Golf Ball Buying Spree

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—New York had a shortage of good golf balls today after the city's largest sporting goods stores experienced a buying spree of record proportions. The rush for the golf balls began last Thursday when Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced a war ban on the production of nonessential rubber items.

GOLD CROWNS KEEP NORTH END LEAGUE LEAD

The Gold Crowns, leaders in the North End Traveling league, last night won two of their three games against the De Luxe Recreation bowling team. Christmas Is 'De Paul Night' at Bruin Game

"De Paul night" will be observed in the Coliseum Christmas night when the Chicago Bruins meet the Fort Wayne Pistons in a National Basketball league contest.

Elmer Gainer, 6 foot 7 inch center of the invaders, and Ed Sachs, Bruins' guard, who last year played for De Paul, will be honored by fans from the basketball players' alma mater, De Paul.

Sachs was a member of the College All-Star basketball team this year. Gainer has played in four games and has averaged eight points per game. Sachs, captain of the Demons last season, is known for his defensive ability, but is also a dangerous scorer.

Seek to Avenge Loss.

Thursday night the Chicago quintet will seek to avenge a 48 to 46 defeat in the league opener in Fort Wayne.

Mike Novak, 6 foot 9 inch center of the Bruins, will see some action against Gainer Thursday evening. Mike has been troubled with a foot ailment and has been able to play only a short time in the last three contests.

Must Watch McDermott.

One of Coach Jack Tierney's problems for Thursday's contest is to keep Bobby McDermott, former New York Celtics fast moving forward, under control. He recently joined the Fort Wayne five. Sachs probably will get the assignment of covering McDermott.

The Burton-Dixie and Club 25 of Gary teams, members of the Windy City league, will open the program at 7:45 p. m.

Illini Defeat Dartmouth in Hockey, 4 to 1

Illini shorthanded, the Dartmouth boys were pressing goalie Ray Killen, of Lloydminster, Sask., with a series of power plays.

The goal was made out of a close up mêlée which saw a half dozen athletes sprawling in the vicinity of the Illini cage. Hal Cannon of Floral Park, N. Y., and Bill Remsen, of Garden City, N. Y., earned assists. That was all the scoring until the aforesaid outbreak in the overtime.

Jack Gillan, who lives in Western Springs, Ill., was in uniform but unable to play because of an injured eye.

Tonight, in Champaign, the same teams play the second of their series, immediately following the Notre Dame-Illinois basket

KNUDSEN HINTS MAKING OF CARS MAY BE HALTED

Questions Adequacy of Rubber Supply.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Demands on the nation's automotive industry for production of war materiel—guns, planes, and tanks—together with the shortage of rubber may halt construction of pleasure automobiles completely within a few months.

William S. Knudsen, director general of the Office of Production Management and member of the Supply Priorities and Allocations board, hinted this today in telling a congressional committee that representatives of the industry would be called to Washington to discuss further curtailment.

Replies with Rubber Query.

To a direct question as to whether there was going to be any passenger car production after Jan. 1, he replied:

"Is there going to be any rubber left?"

The special house committee investigating migration of workers received assurances from Knudsen that the nation's factories were being converted for war work "as fast as the tooling can be done," and that the "little fellows" would get their share.

Earlier, spokesmen for the automobile industry pledged their coöperation in the conversion program, but emphasized that it could be carried out only as fast as the tools and the skilled labor could be provided.

Predict Loss of 260,000 Jobs.

Representatives of Ford, General Motors, Chrysler and Hudson, and of automotive parts manufacturers testified that approximately 260,000 persons in their plants would be thrown out of work, temporarily at least, by the latest curtailments.

V. B. Steinbaugh, OPM liaison officer for Michigan and Governor Van Wagoner's spokesman, placed the figure at 250,000 for Michigan alone. He urged "stream-lining" of sub-contracting methods and institution of a program of training for the unemployed.

Knudsen opposed, in part, the committee's recommendation for establishment of a civilian board with full responsibility for planning and procurement in war production. He said this was no time to take a chance on disrupting production and deliveries.

Car Radio Output Cut.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP).—Government curtailment of automobile production has forced the Colonial Radio corporation to halt five assembly lines turning out auto radios, company President Allen H. Gardner said today.

"We are just cleaning up final production of auto sets, which constitute about 50 per cent of our dollar sales, and we are going over immediately to defense production for the same customers," he reported. He said the working force would be cut temporarily from 1,800 to 700.

EXTEND CHRYSLER FINANCE CONSENT DECREE TO FEB. 16

Judge Thomas W. Slick in federal district court in Hammond, Ind., yesterday extended to Feb. 16 provisions of a consent decree signed by the Chrysler corporation in 1938 in which the motor company agreed to abandon certain practices allegedly intended to force dealers to finance cars thru companies affiliated with the manufacturer. Ford Motor company has signed a similar decree.

The extension was asked by Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general. The consent decree originally was to lapse Jan. 1, but Arnold said the government wanted an extension because the General Motors case is still not settled. When the decrees were signed it was agreed that they were to be voided or become permanent as General Motors won or lost its case. Judge Slick granted a temporary extension and took Arnold's plea under advisement.

FEDERALIZATION OF STATES' JOB SERVICE BEGINS

Eugene J. Brook, representative of the United States employment service in Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana, will begin immediately to integrate the state employment services into the federal organization, H. L. McCarthy, regional director of the social security board announced yesterday.

Federalization of the state employment offices was ordered by President Roosevelt Dec. 19 as a war time measure to speed the recruiting of labor. Personnel, records, and facilities of the state offices will be transferred by Jan. 1 to the federal agency.

Administrative costs of the state offices had been paid by the social security board. State employés transferred to federal service will be assigned their current salaries and classifications, McCarthy emphasized that the unemployment compensation offices will continue under state operation.

Kaspar American State Bank to Pay on Deposits

The Kaspar American State bank, 1900 Blue Island avenue, has been authorized by Arthur C. Lueder, state auditor of public accounts, to pay 5 per cent, amounting to $90.-333, on waived deposits. This is the sixth payment to depositors on the $1,800,000 waived.

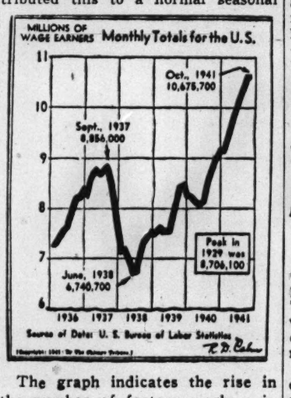
General Labor Shortage Near, Nation Told

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—The National Industrial Conference board said today a general labor shortage was in prospect, if not immediately imminent.

The board, a private research agency, figured October unemployment at 1,700,000 persons. The figure represented a substantial increase over the 500,000 men and women without jobs in September but the board attributed this to a normal seasonal decline in agricultural employment.



MILLIONS OF WAGE EARNERS Monthly Totals for the U.S.
Oct., 1941 10,675,700
Sept., 1937 8,956,000
June, 1938 6,740,700
Peak in 1929 was 8,706,100
1936 1937 1938 1939 1940 1941
Source of Data: U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics

The graph indicates the rise in the number of factory workers in recent years.

Prior to the war emergency, said the board, it was generally agreed that an "irreducible minimum" of unemployment would be reached when 92 to 95 per cent of the nation's labor force was at work. Employment this year averaged about 93.5 per cent of the normal labor force.

Slack Quickly Taken Up.

The slack in the labor market was so quickly taken up by industrial and military expansion that unemployment dropped from 8 million at the start of 1941 to 2,500,000 in May. From May to October unemployment averaged 1,600,000.

Further expansion of the armed forces by 2 or 3 million, the board suggested, would alone completely take up the slack of the labor market.

At the same time, the board said there had been no shift into the ranks of labor of those not normally included, such as housewives and those leaving school prematurely.

The need for increased production is so urgent, the board declared, that an extended work week and the entrance of new people into the labor force cannot be long postponed.

Means to Lift Production.

The board suggested three methods of increasing output: Lengthening the working hours of those already employed; shifting workers into industries where their skills and abilities will be best employed in the war effort; employing persons who are normally not in the labor force, principally retired workers, housewives, and students of working age.

Inflationary pressure might be exerted on the price structure, the board added, because of high production costs rising from the expense of industrial training programs and the probable inefficiency of new workers.

Bids Asked on 500 Barges for Inland Waterways

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The maritime commission asked today for bids on 500 wooden barges for use on inland waterways. They will be a nonpropelled, deck cargo type carrying 99 tons, 60 feet long, 18 feet wide, and 5 feet deep.

OPM CONSIDERS PLAN TO CURTAIL SUPPLIES OF WOOL FOR PUBLIC

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 [Special].—The Office of Production Management is considering a plan to curtail the amount of wool available in 1942 for civilian production of dresses, suits, coats, blankets and other woolen goods, it was learned today. Douglas C. Mackeachie, OPM purchasing director, said, however, there will be no shortage of woolen goods for the man on the street.

A large percentage of the wool will be used for men in the services who will not require civilian apparel, he explained. Large stocks of scrap wool are available and large stocks of both men's and women's clothes already have been fabricated.

War Demands to Cost Farmer His Gunnysack

Farmers yesterday foresaw the war eliminating one of their most useful pieces of equipment—the gunny sack. The government announced that it was taking control over the country's entire burlap supply and would use most of it for making sand bags.

The gunny sack has a thousand and one uses on the farm. Hardly a farmer exists who hasn't protected himself from the bumping, blistering cast iron seat of rough riding mowing machine, rake, or cultivator with a neatly folded gunny sack.

A Myriad of Uses.

That selfsame gunny sack was used for traction when the model T stuck in the mud; for carrying the rabbits shot while hunting; for making a straw tick when the harvesting was done; for use as an apron while slaughtering the winter's pork. It also served as a "welcome" mat for wiping muddy feet.

It's a piece of farm equipment with as many uses as baling wire. Whether to carry a bushel of corn to the mill, lunch to the field, or chickens to the produce house in town, the farmer uses his gunny sack every day.

Long Trip from Calcutta.

But the burlap for making the bag must be brought all the way from Calcutta in far off India. So far no satisfactory substitute has been found that will compete in price with this cheap material which is also used extensively in the making of linoleum, furniture, and industrial sackings.

The Office of Production Management said small supplies will be made available for bagging agricultural and chemical products. Most of this is expected to go to potato growers, coffee and sugar dealers, and cotton growers.

PACKING CONCERN PAYS $49,869 TO CUDAHY IN YEAR

E. A. Cudahy Jr., president; F. E. Wilhelm, first vice president, and William Diesing, vice president, were the three highest paid officers of the Cudahy Packing company in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31. The amounts were shown yesterday in the company's proxy statement for the annual meeting at Portland, Me., on Jan. 10.

Cudahy received $49,869, Wilhelm $30,965, and Diesing $25,981. Total salaries and other compensation paid officers and directors in the fiscal year amounts to $234,827.

A. F. Perrin, vice president in charge of the produce division, was nominated for election as a director to replace the late Edward A. Cudahy Sr. The statement showed that Cudahy Jr. and his family own about 25 per cent of the company's voting securities.

Christmas Spirit Crowds Out War Along La Salle Street

The holiday mood crept over the financial district yesterday despite somber thoughts of war, the long slumbering securities and commodities markets, and the cold drizzle which should have been sparkling snow.

In many a La Salle street office gayly decorated Christmas trees and holly wreaths marked the only time in the year that the austere furnishings are brightened by a touch of green or red. There were the customary parties, the exchange of gifts, and carol singing.

The Chicago Stock exchange held a stag party at the Svithiod Singing club, 624 Wrightwood avenue, attended by about 120 members, employés, and officers. This marked the first time in many years that the annual Christmas party was not held on the floor of the exchange.

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company was decorated with wreaths and several smiling Santa Clauses urging customers to buy defense savings bonds. Other banks had similar displays to further the victory financing drive.

At the Harris Trust and Savings bank the second floor employés will serve tea tomorrow to employés of the other seven floors. Carols will be sung by a chorus directed by George Rigler, assistant vice president. Following his custom of ten years, Mark A. Brown, vice president, will distribute apples to the staff.

The First National bank chorus, under Franklin Richards, assistant cashier, will sing carols tomorrow afternoon. A male chorus will sing carols at the City National Bank and Trust company this afternoon and tomorrow.

J. S. Bache & Co. will serve turkey sandwiches today and Henry Stefany, resident manager, will distribute Christmas bonus checks to the clerical staff of 65.

Business Loan Rise Largest of Many Years

The largest weekly expansion in business loans that has been recorded in recent years—94 million dollars—was reported by the federal reserve board yesterday.

The board said that reserve system member banks had 6 billion 769 million dollars of commercial, industrial and agricultural loans outstanding on Wednesday, compared with 6 billion 675 million a week earlier.

Chicago Gain 23 Millions.

Banks in the 7th [Chicago] reserve district accounted for 23 million dollars of the gain in the latest seven day period. New York City banks reported a rise of 35 millions. The Cleveland district's increase was 10 million dollars.

The new surge in lending followed a gain of 82 millions reported for the preceding week. Over a period of time the trend of business loan volume reflects changes in the rate of industrial activity. The rush to a wartime production basis apparently has caused business men to lean on the banks to an increasing extent.

Over the last year, the loan volume has risen 1 billion 768 million dollars, partly as a result of the armament program.

SCRAP CEILINGS REVISED TO LIFT DEALERS' PROFIT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced today a general revision of iron and steel scrap prices intended, it was understood, to boost returns to dealers and stimulate collection of scrap. Broad terms of the revision were made public, and it was explained that a detailed price schedule would be announced soon—perhaps tomorrow.

The schedule segregates various grades of scrap according to their use, and fixes price ceilings for each type of consumer.

All the open hearth grades except machine shop turnings are assigned a maximum price of $20 a gross ton at Pittsburgh. Machine shop turnings are priced at $16, the same level as blast furnace grades.

Excluding cast iron scrap, the method of computing maximum prices at the shipping point has been changed so that dealers may make use of the "most favorable" basing point, instead of the "nearest basing point in terms of transportation charges."

3 MORE CHICAGO FIRMS ANNOUNCE BONUS PAYMENTS

Fairbanks, Morse & Co., Chicago, yesterday paid its 8,000 employés a bonus equal to 10 per cent of annual salaries, Col. R. H. Morse, president, disclosed. The company manufactures Diesel engines, electric motors, and generators, pumps and farm equipment.

Arabol Manufacturing company on Christmas day will pay a bonus of a week's salary to all employés. In addition each employé will receive a book of defense stamps.

Dovenmuehle, Inc., Chicago mortgage banking firm, announced bonus payments will be made to all employés, with a minimum of half a month's salary to be paid those with the company a year or more. Similar payments were made at the middle of the year.

WAR INSURANCE PLAN EXTENDED TO TERRITORIES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The government's war insurance—providing payments for property lost by enemy action—was extended today to territorial possessions.

At the same time, it was announced that when the plan has been fully worked out a premium may be charged for coverage of losses in excess of some stated amount.

The federal loan agency announcement added that "other terms and conditions for such protection will be announced as they are established. No protection will be available to owners of property who, in the opinion of the President, are unfriendly to the United States."

Railroad to Appeal Ruling in Pennroad Dcmage Suit

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 22 (AP).—Counsel for the Pennsylvania railroad said today that the company would appeal a decision of Federal District Judge George A. Welsh that it is liable for losses incurred by stockholders of the Pennroad corporation. Judge Welsh held Saturday that the railroad must make good the stockholders' losses on investment of 95 million dollars of their money in stocks of other enterprises. The judge said the railroad was responsible because Pennroad directors held interlocking directorates with the railroad company.

OPPOSE TRANSIT BOOST WITHOUT BETTER SERVICE

City Council Adopts Policy on Fares.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The city council yesterday adopted a comprehensive transit policy opposing any increase in carfares unless such increases are accompanied by commitments from the transit lines to improve their service and by assurances that Chicago transit unification plans will be put into effect without delay.

This was the council's first statement of policy on fares since requests were made last summer to the Illinois Commerce commission for an increase from 7 to 8 cents in street car fares and a boost from 10 to 12 cents in "L" fares. Mayor Kelly commended the aldermen for their action.

Igoe to Release Fund.

Meanwhile, Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe in a memorandum opinion yesterday announced he will release to the Chicago Surface Lines the sum of $2,350,000, representing half of a disputed reserve for city compensation that has been set aside by the company under court order since July 25, 1938. The sum will be used in part, Judge Igoe said, to pay the $1,818,000 interest on Surface Lines' first mortgage bonds that was due last Aug. 1.

The Surface Lines since 1938 have been putting 3 per cent of their gross revenues into the reserve fund which the city claimed was due in payment for the use of streets. The fund now amounts to $4,700,000. The release order surprised city officials, who have consistently opposed such a move.

Judge Igoe said assurances by the surface lines' bondholders' groups that they will accept the unification plan have removed any obstacle to the payment of bond interest.

See Granting of Higher Fares.

The city council's resolution on fares indicated that the city expects higher car fares to be granted, but emphasized that the public must get better service in return. The resolution said:

1. Before the State Commerce commission further considers the requests for fare boosts, it should require assurance that the surface, elevated, and motor coach lines will form one unified company.

2. The commission should order the three companies to embark immediately on programs calling for the purchase of new cars and buses and for more service with the present equipment. City attorneys were directed to submit evidence to the commerce commission of the "existing unsatisfactory service."

3. The commerce commission should consolidate the three pending rate cases into one, so proper fares under a unified setup can be determined.

Include Fare Inquiry.

The cases, in addition to the street car and "L" petitions, include an inquiry by the commission to determine whether the 10 cent motor coach fare should be reduced.

4. The city will grant no new franchises for the use of streets to the existing traction companies, but will direct all efforts toward getting unified operation by one company under a single franchise.

The resolution was approved by the council transportation committee just before the council meeting and was introduced by Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], committee chairman.

Ald. Paul H. Douglas [5th] contended before the commerce commission earlier in the day that the elevated lines could wipe out their present operating loss of $1,400,000 a year by making economies and increasing revenues without boosting fares. Herbert M. Johnson, attorney for the "L," said the "days of the company are numbered" unless the boost to 12 cents is granted and asked for an "emergency" increase at once.

The commission will continue hearings on the "L" and street car cases today. The motor coach rate case is set for a hearing on Jan. 9.

Free Speech on Labor Upheld; Court Sustains Stock Tax Law

Decision Bars Coercion

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP).—In a major interpretation of the Wagner act, the Supreme court ruled today that an employer may speak his mind freely on labor issues, provided his utterances are not part of a plan to coerce his workers in violation of the act.

The 7 to 0 opinion delivered by Justice Frank Murphy asserted that the act does not enjoin an employer from expressing his "view on labor policies

Acts to Be Considered.

But after giving this answer to a question which had troubled the mind of many employers, the court added that the labor board, in deciding whether a company had interfered with the rights of employés, "may look at what the company has said as well as what it has done."

"In determining whether a course of conduct amounts to restraint or coercion," the opinion said, "pressure exerted vocally by the employer may no more be disregarded than pressure exerted in other ways."

The opinion was delivered on litigation growing out of a labor board order directing the Virginia Electric and Power company to disestablish a union of company employés. The board had held that the independent union was company dominated.

Boards Ambiguity Cited.

Explaining that the board's ruling "seems based heavily upon findings which are not free from ambiguity and doubt," the court returned the case to the board "for a redetermination of the issues in the light of this opinion."

One of the issues revolved around a bulletin issued by the company and speeches delivered by company officials in 1937, shortly after the Supreme court had upheld the Wagner act.

The board said the company, in the bulletin and speeches, favored a union of company employés and opposed "outside" labor organizations. The company, however, contended that it left the employés "completely free to follow whatever their own wishes might be."

At the request of the justice department, the court agreed today to hear arguments Jan. 12 on litigation to determine whether the 1937 agricultural marketing agreement act permits federal regulation of the price of milk handled and sold within one state in competition with milk that crosses a state line.

The tribunal already had agreed to review the controversy specifically affecting the Wrightwood Dairy Company of Chicago, but the case ordinarily would not have been reached until March or April.

The justice department appealed from a decision by the Seventh Federal Circuit court against federal regulation on the ground that the milk involved did not directly enter interstate commerce.

Claim Employe Erred

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 [Special].—Constitutionality of the 1935 capital stock tax was upheld by the United States Supreme court today in a unanimous decision written by Justice William O. Douglas.

Lerner Stores Corporation of Maryland raised the issue, protesting refusal of the commissioner of internal revenue to permit it to amend its original declaration of capital stock value of $25,000 to $2,500,000. A companion case was brought by the Scaife company, Pittsburgh, asking to increase its original declaration of $600,000 to $1,000,000.

The Lerner suit contended it an unlawful delegation of authority for congress to authorize the commissioner to reject these appeals. Both companies said that the original declarations were errors made by subordinate employés.

"The taxpayer is free to declare any value of the capital stock for the first year which it may choose," Justice Douglas ruled. "While a low declaration of value decreases the amount of the capital stock tax, it increases the risk of a high excess profits tax." A high declaration of value, he added, has the reverse effect on the two taxes.

OPM FEARS RATIONING BY GROCERS MAY SET OFF SUGAR HOARDING

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Office of Production Management officials were frankly apprehensive tonight of a consumers' run on sugar which might create what they called "a wholly unnecessary" shortage.

They heard with interest that some retailers in New York and elsewhere were restricting sugar sales to two pounds per customer, but made it clear that such over-the-counter rationing was neither ordered nor recommended by OPM.

Some officials expressed concern lest the move create a widespread impression that a shortage actually did exist, thereby causing a panic and a buying rush which "would accomplish the disastrous effect which we have wished to avoid."

OPM has reiterated that supplies are ample for all ordinary needs; only "scare" buying could create a shortage.

STRIKE BY CREW HOLDS CAR FERRY AT MILWAUKEE

Muskegon, Mich., Dec. 22 (AP).—The Milwaukee Clipper, passenger and automobile ferry, was tied up in port at Milwaukee today by a strike of 35 unlicensed crew members over a wage issue.

Harry Polaner, Great Lakes administrator for the International Seafarers' Union of North America [AFL], said the crew members struck because the Wisconsin and Michigan Steamship company, operating the ferry, refused demands for an added day's pay for every six days worked.

Cancel Strike Authority.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 22 (AP).—Members of the United Automobile Workers [CIO], recognizing the national emergency, have withdrawn authorization from the executive committee at the Bendix Products division of Bendix Aviation corporation here to declare a strike.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Directors of the Stewart-Warner corporation, Chicago, yesterday announced elevation of Joseph C. Elliff and George L. Meyer to new positions of vice president in a move to relieve heavy duties of other executives under the arms program. The company already had three vice presidents. Elliff, who has been assistant general sales manager, came to the company in June, 1939, from the Curtis Publishing company. Meyer, who has been with Stewart-Warner since it was founded in 1914, will continue as manager of the Stewart Die Casting company, a subsidiary.

Joseph C. Elliff.

Calvin Fentress Jr., Chicago, has been elected president of the Allstate Insurance company and the Allstate Fire Insurance company.

Joseph C. Lucey and Eugene W. Stetson Jr. have been appointed assistant managers of Brown Brothers Harriman & Co., private banking firm.

Frank Kasper, president, and other officials of local 704 of the Coal Drivers' union [AFL] have been reelected, it was announced yesterday.

E. S. Phillips, president of the Devoe and Raynolds Paint company, yesterday announced sales of over 18 million dollars for the year ending Nov. 30, an increase of 27.1% over last year and the largest annual sales in the company's history. The company is holding its annual sales meeting in the La Salle hotel.

E. S. Phillips.

C. H. Stinson, general freight traffic manager of the Wabash railway, will retire Dec. 31 after 50 years as an employé of the road. He will be succeeded by Leo. E. Clarahan, assistant freight traffic manager since 1938.

C. H. Stinson.

John C. Quinlan, vice president of the Century Distilling company, has been appointed to the Distilled Spirits Industry Advisory committee of the Office of Production Management.

BUTTER CLIMBS ON REPORT U. S. WILL BUY MORE

Unconfirmed trade rumors that the government may soon start buying butter from the United States' vast commercial reserve supplies in addition to its current price supporting program in which it buys only new made butter, set off a burst of buying in the futures market of the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Closing prices were at the day's peaks with January contracts up to 32.75 cents a pound. Gains for the day were .15 to .20 cent.

The Dairy Products Marketing association is expected to buy the storage butter, traders said. Another government agency, the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation, was active in the egg market, buying a car of eggs at 33½ cents a dozen. The December egg futures contracts closed ½ cent higher as holders continued liquidation under the Commodity Exchange administration order, while January contracts closed .05 cent lower.

BANKS CONSIDER EARLY CLOSING IN PERIOD OF WAR

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—New York City banks, thru a New York clearing house committee, have been weighing a proposal to shorten banking hours to from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m., it was learned today.

Purpose of the shortened hours, it was said, would be to permit all banking business to be completed in time for bank employés to get home before dark, thus eliminating the need for adjustments to buildings and equipment if war blackouts should be ordered.

At present, banking hours are mostly from 10 to 3, altho various types of business actually are transacted from 9 until 5 or later.

The New York Stock exchange, Curb exchange, and commodity markets, it was assumed, may set their daily closings an hour earlier if the banks went thru with the shorter hours proposal, altho some said this would not necessarily follow.

CHECK VOLUME SOARS ABOVE 14 BILLION DOLLARS

Check transactions soared to 14 billion 224 million dollars in the week ended last Wednesday under the stimulus of Christmas shopping and middle-of-the-month pay checks, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. The total compares with 10 billion 914 million in the preceding week and 11 billion 824 million in the corresponding 1940 week.

Transactions in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district aggregated $2,110,391,000, an increase of 31.2 per cent from the preceding week and 29.9 per cent from the corresponding week last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago said.

Chicago check transactions totaled $1,216,715,000, compared with $919,082,000 in the corresponding 1940 week.

Short Line Railroads Seek Permission to Raise Rates

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 [Special].—The 202 member lines of the American Short Line Railroad association today asked the Interstate Commerce commission for permission to increase their rates and fares 10 per cent, as sought by the larger roads. Their petition said operating expenses were increasing principally because of wage increases and rising costs of materials and supplies.

DIN OF BATTLE DROWNS SMALL PLANTS' PLEAS

U. S. Centers Plans on Combat Needs.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—The boom of guns in the Pacific is drowning out the calls for help from distressed small industries.

T. A. Dicus.

The Office of Production Management, shifting its setup and its policies since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, is focusing attention on requirements of the armed forces.

"Red tape is being cut and all efforts at maximum armament production are being intensified," D. H. Murphy, chief of the OPM survey section, said today. "It's obvious that our first concern from now on is to win the war. We will do what we can to alleviate the plight of individual companies and industries but, since the Japanese attack, home economy has become of secondary importance."

Title Change Significant.

A change in Murphy's title is significant. Murphy, a Hartford, Conn., manufacturer, was chief of distress certification until last week. His job was to designate, for the benefit of army, navy, and aviation procurement offices, those areas in the country which were suffering most or threatened most with priority unemployment. The areas were recommended for preferment in placing arms contracts.

[It was reported yesterday that the OPM had a new plan for alloting critical materials to civilian industries, but these reports were not confirmed.]

"I still get reports from the labor department on unemployment or impending unemployment, and I still survey these conditions and make recommendations to the procurement offices," Murphy said. "But we're using telephones now where we used to fill out forms. And the first consideration now is to keep all available men and equipment producing arms. The distress at Manila is more important than the distress in Blank-town, Ill."

Dicus Repeats Views.

T. A. Dicus, former Indiana highway commissioner, repeated these views from his post as chief of the pooling unit of the OPM.

The pools, being organized in Chicago and in almost every small manufacturing community, have been described as a disappointment to some of the participants, small plant owners who have sought munitions contracts for joint or coöperative production.

"The participants," said Dicus, "were led to believe, by publicity and by chambers of commerce, that the billions for defense would mean business for every one, and that enrollment in a pool was automatic assurance of a contract.

"There are plants such as metal platers and light metal stampers that have an aggregate capacity far beyond the armament requirements. They can't be allowed critical materials for nondefense production.

Cost of Less Consideration.

If half of our manufacturing capacity is going to be needed for arms requirements, smaller plants are going to get work to do. It will have to be done, on a cost plus or fee basis—I don't know how. We're going to get war supplies and materials without the peacetime considerations for costs."

Edwin L. Weisl, assistant to Floyd B. Odlum, director of OPM's contract distribution division, said plants that cannot be converted into arms production will be needed for production of civilian requirements which will continue thru the war. On Weisl's desk was a telegram from Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago thanking Odlum for coöperation in setting up the pools that are being organized in Chicago.

"We shall continue our coöperation in the belief that our mutual endeavors will produce satisfactory results in the interest of small manufacturers," the telegram said.

Pennsy Road Workers Get Back Pay Before Holiday

The Pennsylvania Railroad company announced yesterday that 7½ million dollars in back pay due its employés for September, October, and November under the railroad wage settlement will have been distributed before Christmas.

LATE WAR NEWS WIPES OUT EARLY RALLY IN STOCKS

Price Index Lowest Since April of 1938.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—An early rally in today's stock market was overcome by the war news and heavy tax selling and average prices dipped to new low ground for more than three years at the close.

Favorites at the best pushed up fractions to a point or so. In the majority of cases advances were converted into declines at the last with a few off 3 to 5 points.

Fears of forthcoming bad tidings from the far east helped to stem the forenoon upswing, brokers said. At the same time, comfort was derived from news of further defeats for the Nazis in Russia and Africa.

Volume Nears 1½ Million.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .5 of a point at 35.5, a new bottom since April 1, 1938. Tax offerings of low priced issues in 1,000 to 10,000 share blocks were largely responsible for the day's turnover of 1,459,065 shares which compared with 1,269,869 last Friday.

Steels retreated altho the holiday week's decrease in the output rate, estimated at 4½ points, was much less than usual for the period. Motors and other groups of depressed stocks of recent sessions were bid up in the morning on the thought these may have been "oversold."

United States Rubber preferred fell 5½ points and the common was off 1 as the shortage of crude rubber due to the Pacific conflict threatened normal output in this field. American Can was off 3½ as imports of tin were expected to diminish.

CHICAGO PRICES SAG.

Prices closed unevenly lower on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in transactions totaling 64,000 shares. Of 137 issues traded, 36 advanced, 60 declined, and 41 closed unchanged.

Among volume leaders, Chicago corporation and Central and South West Utilities closed unchanged, Middle West and Commonwealth Edison advanced ⅛, and General Motors advanced ⅝.

In the half hour after the New York close Commonwealth Edison, International Harvester and Pennsylvania railroad advanced ⅛. Santa Fe advanced ¼ and General Electric and Pure Oil declined ⅛.

Report Loew's Arranges Loan to Retire Securities

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Financial circles reported today that Loew's, Inc., had arranged for an insurance company loan to facilitate the retirement of $11,581,000 of 3½ per cent debentures due in 1946 and 136,722 shares of $6.50 preferred stock. The debentures are callable at 102¼ up to Feb. 15, 1942, and at 102 up to Feb. 15, 1943. The preferred is redeemable at 105.

MARKET VALUE LOW.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 [Special].—The Securities and Exchange commission reported today that the market value of sales on registered securities exchanges during November was $597,388,504, a decrease of 3.5 per cent from the October total and 39.7 per cent from that of November, 1940.

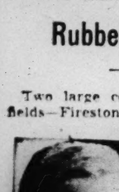
FIRESTONE TIRE, ZENITH REPORT ON WAR EFFECTS

Profit Gain Shown by Big Rubber Company.

Two large companies in separate fields—Firestone Tire and Rubber company and Zenith Radio corporation—yesterday issued reports throwing light on ways in which the war is affecting their business.



John W. Thomas.

Firestone's report covered the fiscal year ended Oct. 31. It showed record sales at $268,091,826 against $187,209,292 in 1940, and a rise in profit to $11,262,427, equal to $4.37 a share, from $8,652,607, or $3.02 a share, in 1940.

John W. Thomas, chairman, told stockholders that manufacturers' inventories of tires and tubes have dropped to the lowest level in 20 years because government controls cut the industry's available supply of rubber below consumer demand.

Latin Demand Improved.

Despite the closing of most European markets as a result of the war, the company's total export business rose substantially, Thomas said, primarily because of improved economic conditions in Latin America. Demand for the company's products increased there and in other parts of the world, he said.

"All of our plants are now on a wartime basis and new buildings are being erected to increase facilities for manufacturing products needed by the army and navy and their air forces," Thomas said.

Zenith Radio reported consolidated operating profit [after depreciation, excise taxes and reserves but before federal income and excess profits taxes] of $1,150,073 for the six months ended Oct. 31. This was practically unchanged from operating profit of $1,158,872 in the corresponding 1940 period.

Profit Near ¾ Million.

E. F. McDonald Jr., president, said that after deductions for estimated federal income and excess profits taxes, net income will be about $754,533. No comparative figure for the 1940 period was available.

McDonald discussed the war's effects as follows:

"Production on defense contracts will hereafter increase at such a rapid rate that the company will be unable to meet the continually increasing demand for its regular line of receivers. However, it is expected that a sufficient amount of nondefense receivers will be produced to enable the company to maintain its field organization.."

McDonald said that a new standard and short wave portable set is being delivered for the first time this week.

Machine Tool Production to Pass Goal, Says Johnson

Cleveland, O., Dec. 22 (AP).—President George H. Johnson of the National Machine Tool Builders' association predicted today that machine tool production for 1941 will exceed by 15 million dollars the 750 million dollar goal set early this year. Shipments in 1940 were 450 million dollars. November machine tool shipments of $74,600,000 brought the total for the first 11 months of 1941 to 690 million dollars.

Chicago Firm's Bid Is Low on Ohio Flood Control Dam

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 22 (AP).—An apparent low bid of $1,077,112 for construction of a concrete and earthen flood control and water supply dam in the Youngstown-Warren, O., area was submitted today to army engineers by E. J. Albrecht company of Chicago. The dam, to be built on the Mahoning river, near Deerfield, O., will be approximately 100 feet high and 5,700 feet wide.

So. Chicago Savings Bank Boosts Surplus Account

The South Chicago Savings bank has expanded its surplus account to $300,000 by transferring $100,000 from undivided profits, Guy A. Nelson, president announced yesterday. Capital and surplus now total $800,000, with capitalization consisting of 8,000 shares of $62.50 par stock.

Bankruptcies Fewer Last Week, Says Credit Agency

ERIE ROAD 'FREE' AFTER 4 YEARS OF COURT RULE

Directors Take Control of Revamped System.

The Erie railroad emerged yesterday from nearly four years of reorganization proceedings under court supervision when the new board of directors formally took over the road's properties from the trustees at New York.

The railroad was released from court protection Saturday. The directors, most of whom were elected two months ago, approved new mortgages and indentures of the various securities authorized on Dec. 17 by the Interstate Commerce commission.

Operating Profit Larger.

A net operating income during November of $1,388,347, compared with $1,309,693 in the same 1940 month, was reported by the road. On the basis of old fixed charges of $1,107,595, net income totaled $284,471. Fixed charges and leased road rentals under the reorganization plan, now in effect, total only $580,000 a month.

The railroad's earnings available for fixed charges during the last 11 months amounted to $20,464,628 against $12,565,968 in the same period last year. On the basis of old fixed charges net income totaled $7,637,978. Fixed charges under the reorganization total only $6,380,000, however.

The Norfolk and Western railroad had a net income of $1,574,782 in November against $2,660,776 in the 1940 month. Net earnings in the 11 month period totaled $25,244,301 against $29,053,000 in 1940.

SELECTED GROUP OF BONDS UP IN UNEVEN MARKET

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—A selected group of industrials and utilities made moderate progress in today's bond market while other departments were hesitant and tended narrowly lower.

Three of the five groups in the Associated Press averages closed with small gains. They were the utilities, industrials, and low yields. The rails and foreigns gave up minor amounts.

There was a moderate amount of interest in obligations of the Erie railroad which emerged from reorganization proceedings that lasted four years. The general lien 4s closed up 1¼ points, but the 5s of '75 lost ⅛.

United States governments were traded lightly and ended 29-32 of a point higher to 5-32 lower.

INTEREST IN ARREARS.

I would appreciate any information you can give me on Consolidated Textile company's income debentures and stock.—H. F.

Answer: The 15 year convertible 5 per cent income debentures of the Consolidated Textile Co., Inc., are outstanding in the amount of $1,258,225. The issue matures in 1953 and is callable upon 30 days' notice at par and accrued interest. The debentures are a direct obligation of the company and are secured by a mortgage on certain textile mills. Unpaid and accumulated interest on Nov. 15 this year amounted to 13.5 per cent. This issue is junior to a $105,802 issue of 3 per cent certificates of indebtedness, due in 1943.

Consolidated Textile company, successor thru reorganization in 1938 to the Consolidated Textile corporation, has 280,146 shares of 10 cent par capital stock outstanding. No dividends have been paid on this stock and none can be paid until interest arrears on the debentures are cleared. The debentures are convertible into stock at the rate of 15 shares of stock for each $50 principal amount of debenture.

MORE UNPAID INTEREST.

Have you a review of Central Railroad of New Jersey 5s of 1987? Are they a first lien?—T. H.

Answer: Interest on the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey's general first mortgage 5s of 1987 and the first mortgage 4s, due the same year, has been in default since mid-1939. The railroad is being operated by trustees under the bankruptcy act. The company has been in reorganization under the act since November, 1939, but so far no plan of reorganization has been announced. Central of New Jersey is controled by the Reading company.

The 5 per cent bonds are outstanding in the amount of $43,741,000. The road's total funded debt is approximately $50,000,000. The 5s and 4s are first liens, secured by mortgage on various track, lands, buildings, and equipment. The issues are noncallable. They are listed on the New York Stock exchange.
